QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether the approval by the United States Department of Health and Human Services of a Medicaid State Plan Amendment, purporting to allow a single state Medicaid agency to delegate to another state office administrative authority to conduct a postpayment review of the records of a Medicaid provider, including medical records, violates the governing federal Medicaid regulation, 42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e) [1999], which states that a single state Medicaid agency "must not delegate, to other than its own officials, authority to exercise administrative discretion."

2. Whether, in any event, such delegation of administrative authority may be commenced prior to the "effective date" of the State Plan Amendment, approving of the delegation under the controlling federal Medicaid regulations, 42 C.F.R. §§ 430.10 and 430.20 [1999].

PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI

Petitioner, RCJ Medical Services, Inc. ("RCJ"), respectfully prays that a Writ of Certiorari issue to review the opinion of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District (Division Five), filed August 23, 2001. The California Supreme Court denied RCJ's Petition to Review the decision of the Court of Appeal on December 12, 2001, and the Remittitur issued December 28, 2001, confirming that the Court of Appeal's decision had "now become final."

OPINIONS BELOW

The August 23, 2001, published opinion of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, is reported at 91 Cal.App.4th 986; 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 223 (Ct. App.2001), and is reprinted in the Appendix at 1-38. The August 30, 2001, order of the Court of Appeal denying RCJ's Petition for Rehearing is reprinted in the Appendix at 39.

The decision of the California Supreme Court of December 12, 2001, denying RCJ's Petition for Review is reprinted in the Appendix at 75. The December 28, 2001, Remittitur is reprinted in the Appendix at 74.

The May 18, 2000, Judgment of the Superior Court of the State of California for the County of Los Angeles in favor of RCJ, the Judgment which was reversed by the California Court of Appeal's August 23, 2001, decision, is reprinted in the Appendix at 40-41.

The August 6, 1999, Final Decision of the Director of the California Department of Health Services, which gave rise to the decisions of the California Superior Court and the California Court of Appeal, is reprinted in the Appendix at 42-73.

JURISDICTION

As indicated above, the decision of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, for which this Petition for Writ of Certiorari is being sought, was filed by the California Court of Appeal on August 23, 2001. The decision of the California Supreme Court denying RCJ's Petition to Review the decision of the California Court of Appeal was filed December 12, 2001. On December 28, 2001, the Court of Appeal issued a Remittitur confirming that its August 23, 2001, decision had become final.

The decision of the California Court of Appeal involves questions of federal law, including whether the implementation of a state Medicaid Plan Amendment violates the provisions of the governing federal Medicaid laws and regulations, which under the United States Constitution, are supreme to state laws, regulations, and policies. Thus, jurisdiction exists under 28 U.S.C. § 1257. Moreover, because the decision of the California Court of Appeal (1) directly conflicts with another decision of the same court on the very same issue; (2) indirectly conflicts with the decisions of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit on very similar issues; and (3) resolves questions which have not been, but should be, settled by this Court, jurisdiction also exists pursuant to Rule 10 of the Rules of this Court.

STATUTES AND REGULATIONS

This case involves the administration of the Medicaid program, Title XVIII of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. §§ 1396 et seq. and 42 C.F.R. §§ 430.1 et seq. [1999]. The Medicaid program is jointly administered by the federal and state governments. Each state's Medicaid program must be administered pursuant to its state Medicaid plan. See 42 U.S.C. § 1396 and 42 C.F.R. § 430.10 [1999]. A Medicaid State Plan must contain various provisions required by the Medicaid laws and regulations. See 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(1)-(65) and 42 C.F.R. §§ 431.1 et seq. [1999]. These federal requirements are supreme to state law requirements regarding the administration of the Medicaid Program. See Wilder v. Virginia Hosp. Ass'n, 496 U.S. 498 (1990).

Each Medicaid State Plan must designate a single state agency to administer or to supervise the administration of its State Plan, except that the determination of eligibility for medical assistance under a State Plan may be made by a local agency subject to the supervision of the single state agency. See 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(5), and 42 C.F.R. § 431.10 [1999]. Appendix at 76, 79.

Under 42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e) (Appendix at 82), the single state agency "must not delegate, to other than its own officials, authority" to "exercise administrative discretion" in the administration of the plan.

The Medicaid statutes and regulations specify those limited exceptions where the single state Medicaid agency may delegate authority to other state or local agencies, such as for purposes of determining Medicaid eligibility (42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(5)), and for purposes of establishing and maintaining health and other standards for Medicaid providers (42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(9) and 42 C.F.R. § 431.610 [1999]). Appendix at 76, 84. See, also, 42 C.F.R. §§ 431.615, 431.621, and 431.630 [1999], all of which allow the single state Medicaid agency to enter into relationships with other state agencies. However, these interagency relationships must be described in the State Medicaid Plan. For example, see 42 C.F.R. § 431.610(b) and (c) [1999], Appendix at 84-85.

In addition to requiring each State Medicaid Plan to describe the single state Medicaid agency's relations with other state and local agencies, the State Medicaid Plan must also describe the organization and functions of the single state Medicaid agency, itself, and its personnel and supporting staff. See 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(22) and 42 C.F.R. § 431.11(c) [1999]. Appendix at 77, 83.

The single state Medicaid Plan must provide for Medicaid claims payment procedures which assure that claims are paid on time. However, the State Plan must also provide for procedures for prepayment and postpayment claims review to ensure the proper and efficient payment of claims and management of the Medicaid Program. 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(37) and 42 C.F.R. § 447.45 [1999], Appendix at 78, 85-89. Under 42 C.F.R. § 447.45(f), the single state Medicaid agency must conduct the prepayment and postpayment reviews. There is no Medicaid statute or regulation permitting such postpayment and prepayment reviews to be delegated by the single state Medicaid agency to another state agency.

To facilitate the postpayment and prepayment reviews required to be conducted by the single state Medicaid agency, the state Medicaid Plan requires agreements pursuant to which health care providers must maintain certain records and must furnish those records and other information to the single state Medicaid agency or to the Secretary of the United States Department of Health and Human Services ("U.S. DHHS"). See 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(27). Appendix at 77.

State Plan Amendments must be submitted by the single state agency and approved by U.S. DHHS when there are material changes in the organization or policy of the state Medicaid program. See 42 C.F.R. § 430.12(c)(1)(ii) [1999]. Appendix at 79. Plan amendments, which do not affect Medicaid eligibility and payment methods and standards, become effective on the date requested by the single state Medicaid agency if U.S. DHHS approves the Plan Amendment. See 42 C.F.R. § 430.20(b)(3) [1999]. Appendix at 80.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

A. STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

The California Department of Health Services ("State DHS") is the single state Medicaid agency for California's Medicaid program, known as the Medi-Cal program. In the California State Medicaid Plan submitted to U.S. DHHS in 1993, State DHS was identified as the single state Medicaid agency for all purposes, including conducting postpayment audits and reviews of providers. See Court of Appeal decision, Appendix at 14.

On July 1, 1997, State DHS and the California Controller's Office, which is not part of State DHS, entered into an Interagency Agreement (without amending the State Plan) purporting to authorize the State Controller to perform audit services relating to the Medi-Cal program. Court of Appeal Decision, Appendix at 14.

Acting pursuant to the July 1, 1997, Interagency Agreement, the State Controller conducted a postpayment review of RCJ's Medi-Cal claims for the period from January 9, 1997, to October 9, 1997, and a subsequent postpayment review for the period from October 10, 1997, to March 26, 1998. Court of Appeal decision, Appendix at 15-16. The State Controller issued her postpayment review findings in reports dated March 10, 1998, and May 4, 1998. RCJ then requested an administrative appeal to challenge the determinations of the State Controller.[1]

On June 15 and 16, 1998, an administrative hearing was held before an administrative law judge employed by State DHS. Among other challenges to the Controller's findings, RCJ asserted at the hearing that the State Controller lacked authority under the controlling federal Medicaid laws and regulations to perform Medi-Cal postpayment reviews. RCJ argued that under the governing federal Medicaid laws and regulations and the then-existing provisions of the State Medicaid Plan, only State DHS, the single state Medicaid agency, could conduct postpayment reviews of providers' records and claims. On August 5, 1999, the Chief Deputy Director for State DHS issued a final agency decision granting RCJ's appeal in part and denying it in part. However, the State DHS Deputy Director concluded that the State Controller had the authority to conduct the postpayment review of the Medi-Cal claims at issue under federal Medicaid laws and regulations. See Final Decision of State DHS, Appendix at 48-52.

[1] The State controller's postpayment review of RCJ was not simply a financial audit or review. Rather, the State controller analyzed confidential medical records, interviewed physicians, patients and their relatives, and made judgmental determinations regarding the medical necessity of certain laboratory tests performed by RCJ. See Final Decision of State DHS, Appendix at 63-67. Thus, in conducting the postpayment review, the State Controller exercised considerable administrative discretion.

State DHS issued its August 5, 1999, Final Decision upholding State DHS' authority to delegate audit and review authority to the State Controller notwithstanding the fact that the California Court of Appeal had issued a decision in February 1999, which became final on May 26, 1999 (after the California Supreme Court denied the State Controller's Petition for Review), expressly holding that the controlling federal Medicaid regulation, 42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)(1) [1999] (Appendix at 82), prohibited State DHS from "delegating to the State Controller the audit of claims by medical services providers and the withholding of alleged overpayments." See Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell, 69 Cal.App.4th 891, 893 (1999). Appendix at 99. In Doctor's, the very same (but different division of the) California Court of Appeal that issued the decision here concluded that "the Controller could not lawfully exercise power to audit provider payments and withhold alleged excesses." 69 Cal.App.4th at 897. Appendix at 106.

On December 17, 1999, after losing the issue before the Court of Appeal in Doctor's, State DHS submitted a State Plan Amendment to U.S. DHHS to provide that the State Controller's Office performs audits of Medi-Cal expenditures on behalf of State DHS. See December 17, 1999, transmittal letter and State Plan Amendment, copy attached, Appendix at 91-94. State DHS specifically requested a July 1, 1998 effective date for the State Plan Amendment. Id.

On that same day, December 17, 1999, U.S. DHHS informed State DHS that it had, in fact, approved the State Medicaid Plan to reflect that the State Controller's Office performs audits of Medi-Cal expenditures on behalf of State DHS. U.S. DHHS made its approval effective July 1, 1998, as requested by State DHS. See the December 17, 1999, transmittal letter and federal approval, copy appended at 95-98.

In the meantime, RCJ had initiated a challenge to the State DHS' Final Decision by filing a Petition for Writ of Mandate in the California Superior Court for the County of Los Angeles on October 28, 1999, pursuant to California Welfare and Institutions Code Section 14171. Court of Appeal Decision, Appendix at 19.

B. THE COURSE OF THE PROCEEDINGS BELOW

On May 19, 2000, the California Superior Court for the County of Los Angeles issued a Judgment granting RCJ's request for a peremptory writ of mandate setting aside the Final Decision of State DHS "insofar as it relied upon the audit findings of the State Controller." Appendix at 40-41.

The Director of State DHS appealed the Superior Court's Judgment to the California Court of Appeal. On August 23, 2001, the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, issued a decision reversing the Judgment of the Superior Court. The California Court of Appeal contended it did not have to follow the previous decision of the Court in Doctor's because Doctor's had been issued before State DHS had submitted and the federal government had approved the December 17, 1999, State Plan Amendment describing for the first time in the Plan the Controller's role in auditing Medi-Cal providers. Appendix at 21-23.

In its August 23, 2001 decision, the Court of Appeal concluded that U.S. DHHS' approval of the December 17, 1999, State Plan Amendment constituted that agency's interpretation of the governing federal Medicaid regulations and statutes. And, according to the California Court of Appeal, even though the federal Medicaid regulation at issue, 42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e) (which had not changed since Doctor's was decided), expressly prohibits the delegation of administrative discretion by the single state Medicaid agency to another state agency, the federal government's approval of the State Plan Amendment was reasonable and entitled to controlling deference.

Although the California Court of Appeal relied heavily on the December 17, 1999, State Plan Amendment to distinguish its holding in RCJ's case from its previous holding in Doctor's and to permit State DHS to delegate authority to the State Controller, the Court disregarded the legal impact of the Plan Amendment's July 1, 1998, effective date. Thus, even though the State Controller audited RCJ while the State Plan indicated that only State DHS did so and well before July 1, 1998, the effective date of the Plan Amendment, the Court seemingly allowed the Plan Amendment to be applied to RCJ (without expressly deciding the issue of the legal impact of the plan amendment's effective date). Appendix at 23.

Following the denial of RCJ's Petition for Rehearing, RCJ petitioned the California Supreme Court to review the August 23, 2001 Opinion of the Court of Appeal. RCJ asked the California Supreme Court to determine (1) whether the controlling federal Medicaid regulations permitted State DHS to delegate to the State Controller the authority to perform prepayment and postpayment reviews of Medicaid providers, and (2) whether the federal government's December 17, 1999, approval of State DHS' Medicaid Plan Amendment was applicable to the postpayment review at issue in this case since the audit had been completed prior to July 1, 1998, the effective date of the federal approval. On December 12, 2001, the California Supreme Court denied RCJ's petition. Appendix at 75.

SUMMARY OF WHY THE AUGUST 23, 2001 DECISION IS WRONG

Single state Medicaid agencies, and only single state Medicaid agencies, are authorized to perform postpayment reviews under the controlling federal statute, 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(37) (Appendix at 78), and federal regulation, 42 C.F.R. § 447.45(f) (Appendix at 89-90). Unlike a few other circumstances, neither the Medicaid statutes nor regulations expressly permit a single state Medicaid agency to delegate such authority to another agency. Thus, the general regulatory prohibition of 42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e) (Appendix at 82) prohibiting such delegation of administrative discretion is clearly applicable, as the California Court of Appeal decided in Doctor's.

Because the language of the controlling regulation is plain – i.e., the single state Medicaid agency must not delegate administrative discretion to another state agency – it must be applied by the Courts. The State Court of Appeal erred here by allowing the December 17, 1999, Plan Amendment to "trump" the plain language of the regulation. The Court also should not have considered "legislative history," which purports to contradict the plain language of the regulation.

In any event, the State Plan must describe those agencies and personnel performing administrative duties. 42 U.S.C. § 431.11(c), Appendix at 83. At the time the State Controller conducted the postpayment review of RCJ, the California State Medicaid Plan specified that postpayment reviews were done solely by State DHS. See Doctor's, Appendix at 14. Indeed, even after the plan was amended retroactively in December 1999, its July 1, 1998 effective date postdated the State Controller's audit of RCJ. Thus, the Controller's postpayment review of RCJ was inconsistent with the then-existing provisions of the State Medicaid Plan and therefore void.

REASONS FOR GRANTING THE WRIT

A. THE DECISION OF THE COURT OF APPEAL CONFLICTS DIRECTLY WITH ITS PREVIOUS DECISION IN DOCTOR'S ON AN IMPORTANT QUESTION OF FEDERAL LAW.

As explained above, the very same Court of Appeal (but a different Division and therefore a different panel of judges) concluded in Doctor's (Appendix at 99-107) that the governing federal Medicaid law prohibits State DHS from delegating postpayment review authority to the State Controller. In doing so, the California Court of Appeal interpreted the very same regulatory provisions interpreted by the Court of Appeal in this case, 42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e).[2]

The wording of this federal Medicaid regulation (and the other relevant regulations) did not change between the date the Court issued its decision in Doctor's and the date it issued its decision in this case. The only relevant event that occurred between the two decisions, according to the Court of Appeal, was the federal government's approval of the December 17, 1999, State Plan

[2] That the federal Medicaid statutes and regulations are supreme to state laws, rules and policies is well established. See, e.g., Wilder v. Virginia Hosp. Ass'n, 496 U.S. 498 (1990). Moreover, unlike the often problematical situation where providers seek to enforce the federal medicaid laws and regulations in federal court, such as in the recently issued decision of the Ninth Circuit in San Lazaro Ass'n, et al. v. Connell, et al., Nos. 00-55065, et al., Jan. 24, 2002 W.L. 89073, ___ F.3d ___ (9th Cir. 2002), California statutes permit a provider to do so in state court under California Code of Civil Procedure § 1094.5. See Court of Appeal decision, Appendix at 20-21.

Amendment, which the Court construed as a dispositive intervening interpretation by the federal agency responsible for administering the Medicaid program.

As mentioned above, this intervening event, however, may not alter the plain meaning of the governing federal Medicaid regulation. In actuality, it is quite clear that the Panel of Judges who decided this case simply disagreed with the reasoning of the Panel of Judges who decided Doctor's, thus presenting a classic conflict of court decisions. Because the California Supreme Court refused to review either case, there remains a clear and direct conflict between two Panels of the same state Court of Appeal over the appropriate interpretation of the controlling federal Medicaid laws and regulations. Pursuant to Rule 10(b), this Court may resolve that conflict.

Indeed, because it is difficult for providers to enforce federal Medicaid regulations in federal court (see, fn. 2, supra, and Sobky v. Smoley, 855 F. Supp. 1123, 1144 (E.D. Cal. 1994) [even though 42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e) imposes a mandatory duty on states, providers may not enforce that right in federal court]) it is critical that state courts correctly interpret federal Medicaid laws and regulations.

B. THE DECISION OF THE CALIFORNIA COURT OF APPEAL ALSO INDIRECTLY CONFLICTS WITH THE DECISIONS OF THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS AND THE CALIFORNIA COURT OF APPEAL REGARDING THE DEFERENCE TO BE GIVEN ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES' INTERPRETATIONS AND REGARDING THE ISSUE OF THE EFFECTIVE DATE OF MEDICAID STATE PLAN AMENDMENTS.

As indicated above, the California Court of Appeal in this case treated the federal government's approval of State DHS' December 17, 1999, Plan Amendment as an "official" interpretation of the governing federal Medicaid laws and regulations. The Court then essentially proceeded to give complete deference to that interpretation. In doing so, the Court ignored the basic principle of administrative law requiring no such deference be given when the plain language of a statute or regulation is clear.

The controlling federal Medicaid regulation, 42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e), expressly provided during all periods at issue that the single state Medicaid agency "must not delegate to other than its own officials, authority to . . . exercise administrative discretion in the administration or supervision of the plan." While the Medicaid statutes and regulations allow for some specific exceptions to the prohibition against delegation in particular situations, they do not specify an exception permitting the delegation of prepayment or postpayment authority from the single state Medicaid agency to another agency. Rather, as indicated above, the governing Medicaid statute, 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(37), and regulation, 42 C.F.R. § 445.45(f), expressly require the single state Medicaid agency to perform postpayment and prepayment reviews. Therefore, the plain language of Section 431.10(e)(1) prohibiting delegation of administrative discretion is fully applicable here. Because the plain language is mandatory and unambiguous, it is not subject to agency or judicial interpretation. It must be applied and followed regardless of whether the agency (or a court) prefers different language.

Recently, in Alhambra Hospital v. Thompson, 259 F.3d 1071 (9th Cir. 2001), the Court of Appeals applied the plain meaning of a Medicare regulation notwithstanding a contrary interpretation of the regulation by U.S. DHHS. In doing so, the Court concluded that not every U.S. DHHS regulation is of "delphic obscurity, explicable only through the Secretary's oracular powers." 259 F.3d at 1076. That is certainly true here, where the plain language of the governing regulations prohibits the delegation of discretionary authority by the single state Medicaid agency to another agency.

The Ninth Circuit has also upheld the plain language of the Medicaid statutes even when U.S. DHHS has approved a plan amendment based on a contrary interpretation of the statute. See, for example, Childrens Hospital and Health Center v. Belshe, 188 F.3d 1090, 1098 (9th Cir. 1989). Because the state courts are required to interpret regulations using the same rules applicable to statutory interpretation (see Forrest v. Trustees of Cal. State University & Colleges, 160 Cal.App.3d 357, 362 (1984), the state court should also have applied the plain language of the Medicaid regulations even if U.S. DHHS approved of a plan amendment that was contrary to such plain language.

The Court of Appeal bolstered its holding in this case by relying on so-called "legislative history" from agency handbooks, which the Court found to be consistent with U.S. DHHS' interpretation of the Medicaid regulations. However, reliance on legislative history is misplaced when the language of a statute or regulation is clear. Where the plain language is clear, it must be followed by a reviewing court and may not be disturbed by "supplementary information" published by the agency in the Federal Register. See Wileman Bros. & Elliott, Inc. v. Giannini, 909 F.2d 332, 336 (9th Cir. 1990).

These holdings of the Ninth Circuit are consistent with the holdings of this Court, which has confirmed that there is no need to consider legislative history when the language of a statute or regulation is plain. See Connecticut National Bank v. Germaine, 503 U.S. 249, 254 (1992). Unfortunately, the State Court of Appeal decision ignores this principle, which is fundamental to the rule of law.

The California Court of Appeal, itself, in other cases has recognized that it must apply the plain language of a regulation even if an agency has a "better idea," or the administrative agency believes the language of the regulation is not consistent with good public policy. See Private Industry Council v. Employment Development Department, 57 Cal.App.4th 1290, 1294 (1997) [federal law must be followed even if an agency "has a better idea."] See, also, United States ex rel. Rahman v. Oncology Associates, Inc., 198 F.2d 502, 514 (4th Cir. 1999), holding that the U.S. DHHS is not excused from complying with its own federal regulations just because it believes the language of the regulations is not in the public interest.

Not only does the California Court of Appeal's decision in this case conflict with the decisions of the Ninth Circuit and the California Court of Appeal with respect to the interpretation of the plain language of a federal regulation, the decision also conflicts with those court decisions prohibiting Medicaid actions which are not authorized by the Medicaid State Plan. See, for example, Exeter Memorial Hospital Association v. Belshe, 943 F. Supp. 1239, 1240 (E.D. Cal. 1996), aff'd, 145 F.3d 1106, 1109 (9th Cir. 1998) [the Court prohibits State DHS' action from being implemented prior to the effective date of a state plan amendment] and Oregon Association of Homes v. State Department of Human Resources, 5 F.3d 1239 (9th Cir. 1993) [state Medicaid policy invalid because it was not submitted as a plan amendment to the federal government]. See, also, Washington State Health Facilities v. State of Washington, 698 F.2d 964 (9th Cir. 1982) and Washington State Health Facilities v. DSHS, 879 F.2d 677 (9th Cir. 1989).

In fact, the decision of the state Court of Appeal in this case with respect to the effective date of the Plan Amendment is also inconsistent with the California Court of Appeal's previous decisions. For example, in Bingham v. Obledo, 147 Cal.App.3d 401 (1983), the California Court of Appeal invalidated State DHS' reliance on state regulations because they were not part of the state Medicaid plan. Here, State DHS has relied on a postpayment review conducted by the State Controller before July 1, 1998, the effective date of the Plan Amendment permitting such reviews by the State Controller.

C. THE IMPORTANCE OF THE FEDERAL QUESTIONS TO BE RESOLVED.

State DHS, the California Controller's Office, and U.S. DHHS have represented to various courts on various occasions in this case and in related cases, including the Doctor's case, the importance of properly resolving the question of whether the federal Medicaid laws and regulations, as currently written, permit a single state Medicaid agency to delegate postpayment review authority to another state agency. For example, when the State Controller was unsuccessful on this issue before the California Court of Appeal in Doctor's, she requested the California Supreme Court to review the Court of Appeal's decision because it was a "matter of significant public interest." See page 4 of the State Controller's Petition for Review in Doctor's, filed on or about March 15, 1999. State DHS fully supported this request.

Indeed, the California State Controller, has even appeared before the United States Congressional House Commerce Committee's subcommittee on oversight and investigations urging Congress "to revise" federal Medicaid laws and regulations "regarding the role of the single state agency" to "allow" the California State Controller and other fiscal agents to perform Medicaid audits. See "Fraud in the California Medi-Cal Program," dated July 18, 2000, available at www.sc.ca.gov.

In this very case, State DHS presented the California Court of Appeal with a copy of the amicus brief of U.S. DHHS filed in the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit in the case of San Lazaro Ass'n, et al. v. Connell, et al., Case Nos. 00-55065, etc., et al. In requesting permission to file its amicus curiae brief in those consolidated cases, U.S. DHHS characterized the question presented as one of first impression which is significant to the nationwide administration of the Medicaid program. See State DHS' Supplemental Motion for Judicial Notice and Memorandum of Points and Authorities filed with the California Court of Appeal on or about May 3, 2001.

Moreover, as pointed out by the California Court of Appeal in Doctor's (Appendix at 106-107), it is critical that the appropriate persons conduct postpayment reviews. In this case, financial auditors from the State Controller's Office discussed confidential medical procedures with patients in front of their relatives and friends to try to determine whether laboratory testing had been ordered and performed. See Exhibit 89 of the administrative record. When agencies other than the single state Medicaid agency conduct postpayment and prepayment reviews, the confidentiality of sensitive medical information will necessarily be jeopardized. This result is inconsistent with the strong public policy of protecting such information. See recent discussion of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996, codified at 42 U.S.C. §§ 1320d-1320d-8 in rules issued by U.S. DHHS on December 8, 2000, 65 Fed. Reg. 82,798-82,829.

In addition to being important to the ongoing administration of the Medicaid program, the correct resolution of the issues presented is also critical to the application of federal administrative law principles by state courts. The California Court of Appeal here erroneously deferred to the agency's interpretation of the plain language of the governing regulation rather than insisting that the plain language controls.

Finally, the rule of law is at stake. While U.S. DHHS and State DHS (as well as the Court of Appeal) might believe the prohibition against the delegation of postpayment review authority from the single state Medicaid agency to another agency is ill conceived or unwise, the Court must apply laws and regulations as written. See Justice Scalia's dissenting opinion in Regents Hosp. v. Shalala, 522 U.S. 448, 469 (1998) ["the immediate benefit achieved by such a practice (i.e., rewriting the laws) in a particular case is far outweighed by the disruption of legal expectations in all cases – disruption of the rule of law – that government by ex post facto legislative psychoanalysis produces."][3]

CONCLUSION

The California Court of Appeal's decision interpreting the governing federal Medicaid laws and regulations is inconsistent with its own previous decision in Doctor's and is also inconsistent with decisions of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. In order to assure uniformity in the administration of the Medicaid program and in the decisions of the courts, this Court is respectfully requested to grant the petition for a writ of certiorari to decide the important questions of law raised by this petition.

[3] The administration of the Medicaid program is also threatened by the Court of Appeal's decision ignoring the July 1, 1998, effective date of the Plan Amendment. Indeed, the Court of Appeal's decision renders meaningless the regulation regarding "effective dates."

I. INTRODUCTION

This case involves a postpayment audit of a Medi-Cal provider's claims. Such audits are required under both federal and state law. (42 C.F.R. §§ 447.45(f)(2), 456.3; Welf. & Inst. Code, § 14170, subd. (a)(1).) No Medi-Cal payments were withheld from the provider.

The State Department of Health Services (DHS) administers Medi-Cal, the federal Medicaid program in California. The DHS contracted with the State Controllers' office (the Controller) to audit Medi-Cal payments to providers. The Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA), part of the United States Department of Health and Human Services, is the federal agency responsible for administering the Medicaid program. On December 17, 1999, the HCFA, a federal agency, specifically approved in writing the DHS's delegation of audit authority to the Controller.

This appeal is from a judgment granting a peremptory writ of administrative mandate directed at defendant, the Director of the DHS. The peremptory writ of mandate requires the DHS to set aside its final decision in the administrative appeal of RCJ Medical Services, Inc. (RCJ), "insofar as it relies upon the audit findings of the State Controller. . . . " RCJ contends federal Medicaid law, and specifically the single state agency requirement, precludes the DHS's delegation of audit authority to the Controller.[1] The question in this case is whether the HCFA's December 17, 1999, written approval of the DHS's delegation of audit responsibility to the Controller is based on a reasonable construction of the federal statutory single state agency provision and the implementing regulation. We defer to the HCFA's construction of the federal law that it administers as reflected in its action of December 17, 1999. Accordingly, we reverse.

II. FEDERAL MEDICAID LAW

In 1965, Congress enacted Title XIX of the Social Security Act (the Medicaid Act) to provide medical assistance to needy persons. (42 U.S.C. § 1396 et seq.) The purpose of the act was to provide a nationwide program of medical assistance for low-income families and individuals. (Schweiker v. Hogan (1982) 457 U.S. 569, 571; West Virginia University Hospitals, Inc. v. Casey (3rd Cir. 1989) 885 F.2d 11, 15, affd. (1991) 499 U.S. 83.)

A. The Medi-Cal Program and the Single State Agency Requirement

The Second Circuit Court of Appeals described the joint federal-state operation of the Medicaid program and the single state agency requirement in Bethphage Lutheran Service, Inc. v. Weicker (2nd Cir. 1992) 965 F.2d 1239, 1240 as follows: "Medicaid, 42 U.S.C. § 1396 et seq., is a cooperative federal-state program through which the federal government provides financial assistance to the states so that the states may furnish medical, rehabilitation, and other services to certain low-income persons. Participation in Medicaid is voluntary, but participating states must comply with certain requirements imposed by the Medicaid Act and regulations promulgated by the Secretary of Health and Human Services ('the Secretary'). For a state to qualify for federal assistance, the Secretary, customarily acting through the Health Care Finance Administration ('HCFA'), must approve a State Plan for medical assistance, 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a), that contains a comprehensive statement describing the nature and the scope of the state's program. 42 C.F.R. § 430.10 (1989). The plan must designate a single state agency to supervise or administer the State Plan. 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(5)." (Accord, West Virginia University Hospitals., Inc. v. Casey, supra, 885 F.2d at p. 15.)

1. The Federal Single State Agency Statute

The single state agency requirement is set forth in a federal statute. Pursuant to title 42 of the United States Code, section 1396a(a)(5)[2], a state participating in the federal Medicaid program must establish a state plan that meets stated requirements. Among other things, the state plan must "provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to administer or to supervise the administration of the plan. . . . "[3] (Italics added.)

[2] All further references to sections 1396, 1396a, or 1396b, are to title 42 of the United States Code.

[3] Section 1396a (a)(5) states in full: "A State plan for medical assistance must – [¶] . . . [¶] (a) either provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to

The single state agency requirement originally appeared in the Social Security Act of 1935 with reference to the Title I Old-Age Assistance Program. (Stats. 1935, ch. 531, § 2.) The single state agency language was incorporated into Title XIX when the Medicaid program was enacted in 1965. (Pub.L. No. 89-97, 1965 U.S. Code Cong. & Admin. News, at pp. 305, 371; Sobky v. Smoley (E.D. Col. 1994) 855 F.Supp. 1123, 1145.) The purposes of the single state agency requirement have been described in various ways. In Rolland v. Cellucci (D.Mass. 1999) 52 F.Supp.2d 231, 243, the district court held: "The single state agency mandate arose out of Congress' desire to minimize the improper denial of benefits and to ensure a certain level of services and quality of care. Morgan v. Cohen, 665 F.Supp. 1164, 1177 (E.D.Pa. 1987). The mandate accomplishes these goals by limiting the authority to make administrative decisions to a single state agency. 42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)(1)(ii). . . . . [T]he 'single state agency' requirement derives from a desire to focus accountability for plan operation, Hillburn by Hillburn v. Maher, 795 F.2d 252, Levi wrote, "The legislative history of the 1965 Medicaid Act's single state agency requirement – 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(5) – maintains this concentration on administrative efficiency." (Accord Hillburn v. Maher, supra, 795 F.2d at pp. 260-261.) Judge Levi concluded after House and Senate amendments were factored into the competing evidence of legislative intent that Congress's adoption of the single state agency was because, "[A]dministrative efficiency appears to have been the overriding purpose. . . . " (Sobky v. Smoley, supra, 855 F.Supp. at p. 1146.) In Fulkerson v. Commissioner, Maine Dept. of Human Services (D. Maine 1992) 802 F.Supp. 529, 538, the district court held: "It appears that the reason for this requirement was to assure 'that the States will not administer the provisions for services in a way which adversely affects the availability or the quality of the care to be provided' and 'to avoid a lack of accountability for the appropriate operation of the program.' *Hillburn v. 2. The Federal Single State Agency Regulation

The HCFA regulation implementing the single state agency requirement is found at title 42, Code of Federal Regulations, part 431.10(e) (44 Fed.Reg. 17930 (March 23, 1979)) which states: "(e) Authority of the single State agency. In order for an agency to qualify as the Medicaid agency – [¶] (1) The agency must not delegate, to other than its own officials, authority to – [¶] (i) Exercise administrative discretion in the administration or supervision of the plan, or [¶] (ii) Issue policies, rules, and regulations on program matters. [¶] (2) The authority of the agency must not be impaired if any of its rules, regulations, or decisions are subject to review, clearance, or similar action by other offices or agencies of the State. [¶] (3) If other State or local agencies or offices perform services for the Medicaid agency, they must not have the authority to change or disapprove any administrative decision of that agency, or otherwise substitute their judgment for that of the Medicaid agency with respect to the application of policies, rules, and regulations issued by the Medicaid agency." (Italics added; e.g. Reynolds v. Giuliani (S.D.N.Y. 2000) 118 F.Supp.2d 352, 358; Meachem v. Wing (S.D.N.Y. 1999) 77 F.Supp.2d 431, 444-445.)

The federal single state agency regulation (42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)) was first published in the Federal Register in 1971. (36 Fed. Regs. 3861-3862 (Feb. 27, 1971).) It was originally promulgated, however, in a supplement to a federal handbook issued upon enactment of the Medicaid Act – the United States Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Welfare Administration, Bureau of Family Services, Handbook of Public Assistance Administration ("Handbook"), Supplement D – Medical Assistance Programs Under Title XIX of the Social Security Act, D 2130 (June 17, 1966) ("Supplement D"). The purpose of the Handbook was described as follows: "The Handbook of Public Assistance Administration is issued by the Bureau of Family Services and is the official medium for issuance of interpretations and instructions concerning requirements of the public assistance titles of the Social Security Act and recommendations for the administration of State public assistance programs. The Handbook is prepared for use by State agencies and staff of the Federal agency in carrying out their responsibilities for administering the public assistance programs in accordance with the Federal Act." (U.S. Dept. of Health, Education & Welfare, Handbook of Public Assistance Administration, Introduction (June 12, 1963).)

Supplement D stated in part: " . . . [¶] 2. In relationships with other departments of State government, the single State agency interprets its role in such a way that it does not delegate to other than its own officials its requisite ultimate authority for exercising administrative judgment in the State-wide administration or supervision of the plan. [¶] 3. In the event that any rules and regulations or decisions of the single State agency are subject to review, clearance, or other action by other offices or agencies of the State government, the requisite authority of the single State agency is not impaired. [¶] 4. In the event that any services are performed for the single State agency by other State or local agencies or offices, such other agencies or offices are not authorized to, and do not, change, disapprove, or delay action on any administrative decision of the single State agency, or otherwise substitute their judgment for that of the agency as to the application of policies, rules, and regulations promulgated by the State agency. [¶] 5. Any agreements with other public agencies or private organizations to act as the single State agency's agent include provisions for the single State agency obtaining from the agent the data needed for program planning, evaluation, reporting, and accounting purposes and do not in any way impair the ultimate authority of the single State agency. . . . " (U.S. Dept. of Health, Education & Welfare, Handbook of Public Assistance Administration, Supplement D, D-2130, supra.)

The foregoing Supplement D provisions were transferred to the Code of Federal Regulations in 1971. (36 Fed. Regs. 3860, 3861-3862.) The 1971 regulation stated in pertinent part: "(c) Conditions for implementing the requirements of paragraph (a) [state plan requirements] of this section. (1) The State agency will not delegate to other than its own officials its authority for exercising administrative discretion in the administration or supervision of the plan, including the issuance of policies, rules, and regulations on program matters. [¶] (2) In the event that any rules and regulations or decisions of the single State agency are subject to review, clearance, or other action by other offices or agencies of the State government, the requisite authority of the single State agency will not be impaired. [¶] (3) In the event that any services are preformed [sic] for the single State agency by other State or local agencies or offices, such agencies and offices must not have authority to review, change, or disapprove any administrative decision of the single State agency, or otherwise substitute their judgment for that of the agency as to the application of policies, rules, and regulations promulgated by the State agency." (36 Fed. Regs. 3861-3862 (Feb. 27, 1971.)) The current regulation, quoted above, mirrors the language of both Supplement D and the 1971 regulation without substantive change.

In addition to the above-quoted language ultimately transferred to the Code of Federal Regulations, Supplement D contained a lengthy discussion of the single state agency requirement. There has been no showing that discussion was ever published in the Code of Federal Regulations or the Federal Register. Therefore, that discussion does not rise to the level of a federal rule or regulation carrying the force and effect of law. (Western Radio Services Co., Inc. v. Espy (9th Cir. 1996) 79 F.3d 896, 901-902; St. Nicholas Apartments v. U.S. (C.D.Ill. 1996) 943 F.Supp. 966, 969; Rousseau v. City of Philadelphia (E.D.Pa. 1984) 589 F.Supp. 961, 971; Usery v. Board of Education (D.Md. 1978) 462 F.Supp. 535, 548.) Handbooks issued by federal agencies "generally are considered to be non-binding instructions or internal operating procedures." (Rousseau v. City of Philadelphia, supra, 589 F.Supp. at p. 971; U.S. v. Harvey (5th Cir. 1981) 659 F.2d 62, 65; Concerned Residents of Buck Hill Falls v. Grant (3d Cir. 1976) 537 F.2d 29, 38; St. Nicholas Apartments v. U.S., supra, 943 F.Supp. at p. 969.) The Handbook has no binding force on this court. (Burroughs v. Hills (7th Cir. 1984) 741 F.2d 1525, 1529; Rank v. Nimmo (9th Cir. 1982) 677 F.2d 692, 698-699; U.S. v. Harvey, supra, 659 F.2d at p. 65.) It is, however, "entitled to notice so far as it is an official interpretation of statutes or regulations with which it is not in conflict." (Burroughs v. Hills, supra, 741 F.2d at p. 1529; Litton Systems, Inc. v. Whirpool [sic] Corporation (Fed.Cir. 1984) 728 F.2d 1423, 1439.) Indeed, the United States Supreme Court has frequently cited to the Handbook as a source of federal agency interpretation of the Medicaid Act and other Social Security Act public assistance programs. (See, e.g., Lukhard v. Reed (1987) 481 U.S. 368, 377 [AFDC]; Atkins v. Rivera (1986) 477 U.S. 154, 162 [Medicaid]; Connecticut Dept. of Income Maintenance v. Heckler (1985) 471 U.S. 524, 531 fn. 17 [Medicaid]; Heckler v. Turner (1985) 470 U.S. 184, 190, fn. 4, 198-199 [AFDC]; Quern v. Mandley (1978) 436 U.S. 725, 737 fn. 12 [AFDC].)

In Supplement D, the federal agency interpreted the single state agency requirement as follows: "The requirement for a single State agency means that one State agency is designated by the State as the 'single State agency' and is authorized to maintain in operation for the State an approved State plan. The State has a choice of administering the plan through the State agency directly or through its political subdivisions under State agency supervision. [¶] Once the single State agency is established or designated it is the agency of the State government that represents the State in its dealings with the Federal agency on all aspects of the medical assistance plan and its operation. It is the agency of the State government responsible for: obtaining the statutory authority necessary to submit a plan meeting all Federal requirements; preparing the State plan and establishing policies for the operation of the program; assuring that it can carry out the plan in all political subdivisions; obtaining the State funds or the State-local funds (as the case may be); meeting all audit requirements; and being accountable to the [Federal agency] for the proper and efficient administration of the program. [¶] The provision for a 'single State agency' is not designed to set aside the relationships with the Governor and other officers of the State or with other departments of the State government that are normal and proper within the State. The agency designated as the 'single State agency' is still subject to the ordinary legislative processes, executive supervision, and budget and audit procedures in the State. Other agencies and offices of State government, such as the State fiscal officer and the State civil service agency, may perform services for the single State agency that are essential to the operation of the plan. Another agency or authority of government in the State, however, may not be authorized in the plan, or permitted in practice, to substitute its judgment for that of the 'single State agency' in administrative decisions involving the application of the policies, rules, and regulations promulgated by the State agency. Similarly, if local agencies administer the plan, the 'single State agency' must see that the authority of such agencies to make administrative decisions under the medical assistance law is not impaired by the action of other agencies or officials of State or local governments. [¶] . . . [¶] The 'single State agency' is responsible for any services that are preformed [sic] by other agencies in the program under the plan. This does not mean that the State agency takes over or directs such services. The agency, however, must take such steps as may be necessary in the State to assure that the services, as performed in the medical assistance program, meet the Federal requirements. . . . " (U.S. Dept. of Health, Education & Welfare, Handbook of Public Assistance Administration, Supplement D – Medical Assistance Programs Under Title XIX of the Social Security Act, D-2140 (June 17, 1966), italics added.)

B. The State Plan

A state must submit to the HCFA for approval a plan describing the nature and scope of its Medicaid program and establishing, among other things, a plan for reimbursing providers. (§ 1396a(a); 42 C.F.R. § 430.10; Wilder v. Virginia Hosp. Assn. (1990) 496 U.S. 498, 502; Children's Hospital and Health Center v. Belshe (9th Cir. 1999) 188 F.3d 1090, 1098.) The state plan also must provide for postpayment review of provider claims. (§ 1396a(a)(37); 42 C.F.R. §§ 447.45(c)(1) & (f)(2), 456.3.) The HCFA is authorized to make payments to states whose medical assistance plans meet the requirements of the federal statute. (§ 1396; Morris v. Williams (1967) 67 Cal.2d 733, 738-739; Palumbo v. Myers (1983) 149 Cal.App.3d 1020, 1025, 197 Cal.Rptr. 214.) Judge Levi has succinctly held: "The [HCFA's] approval of the State plan is a necessary precondition to the State's entitlement to federal funds. (. . . §§ 1396, 1396b(a).)" (Exeter Memorial Hospital Assn. v. Belshe (E.D.Cal. 1996) 943 F.Supp. 1239, 1240, affd. (9th Cir. 1998) 145 F.3d 1106, 1109.) As the California Supreme Court observed in Reese v. Kizer (1988) 46 Cal.3d 996, 998, "To assure the continued availability of federal funds for these programs[, including Medi-Cal,] the state must operate plans which conform to the governing federal statutes and regulations." Under HCFA regulations, amendments to state plans must conform to the following regime: "The plan must provide that it will be amended whenever necessary to reflect – [¶] (i) Changes in Federal law, regulations[,] policy interpretations, or court decisions; or [¶] (ii) Material changes in State law, organization, or policy, or in the State's operation of the Medicaid program. . . . " (42 C.F.R. § 430.12(c).) HCFA regional staff review state plans and plan amendments. (42 C.F.R. § 430.14.) The HCFA Regional Administrator has the authority to approve state plans and plan amendments. (42 C.F.R. § 430.15(b).) Pursuant to title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations, part 430.15(a)(1), "Determinations as to whether State plans (including plan amendments and administrative practice under plans) originally meet or continue to meet the requirements for approval are based on relevant Federal statutes and regulations."

III. BACKGROUND

The underlying facts are undisputed. California submitted its state Medicaid plan to the HCFA in 1993. The state plan identified the DHS as the single state Medicaid agency for all purposes including auditing payments to providers.

On July 1, 1997, the DHS and the Controller entered into an interagency agreement "for the purpose of increasing the State's auditing ability to identify and recover California Medical Assistance Program (Medi-Cal Program) overpayments. . . . " The interagency agreement authorized the Controller "to perform audit services relating to the Medi-Cal Program," including, in the event of an overpayment, to send a repayment demand to the provider together with a copy of the audit report. The Controller was not authorized as DHS's representative to withhold payments to providers. However, if the Controller initiated a withhold "under its own [state law] authority," it was required to notify the DHS.[4]

[4] The Interagency Agreement set forth the Controller's responsibilities as follows: "1. [The Controller] will perform audit services relating to the Medi-Cal Program. . . . These services will include audits as detailed in the Scope of Work designed to identify overpayments made under the Medi-Cal Program to providers. [¶] 2. The [Controller] will notify DHS Audits & Investigations prior to onsite reviews of Medi-Cal providers. This will reduce duplication of effort by both agencies. [¶] 3. [The Controller's] audits will be finalized in audit reports and draft audit reports will be submitted to the [DHS] at least 15 days prior to issuance. [¶] 4. If the audit identifies an overpayment of Medi-Cal funds, a demand for repayment will be sent to the provider with a copy of the audit report. The demand will provide information to the provider regarding appeal rights. Copies of the audit report and demand for repayment shall be sent to Audits & Investigations and the DHS Office of Administrative Hearings & Appeals. [¶] 5. As a representative of DHS, [the Controller] will not initiate a withhold of a provider's reimbursement in the amount identified by the audit. [¶] 6. However, if [the Controller] initiates a withhold under its own authority, [the Controller] will not issue notices of withhold with the audit report and demand notice. Also, [the Controller] will notify DHS when it initiates payment withholds for Medi-Cal providers. This will facilitate DHS's ability to track Medi-Cal reimbursement disposition and to respond to provider inquiries concerning payment. [¶] 7. [The Controller] will be responsible for the resolution of the audit findings identified in their audits, through and including the administrative appeal process before DHS Office of Administrative Hearings and Appeals (OAHA) under Welfare and Institutions Code section 14171, including legal representation if needed. [¶] 8. [The Controller] will designate the following state member as [the Controller's] contact person for purposes of this agreement:. . . . "

Exhibit A to the Interagency Agreement entitled "Scope of Work" stated: "A. [The Controller] will target its audits for the following program issues using trend analysis based on Medi-Cal expenditures and historical patterns: [¶] 1. Some non-institutional providers with high volume of selected products engage in unlawful or excessive practices; [¶] 2. Some non-institutional providers with high volume of selected products are incorrectly billing for products or services that should be billed at a lesser reimbursement rate; [¶] 3. period from January 9, 1997, to October 9, 1997, and a subsequent review for the period from October 10, 1997, to March 26, 1998. The Controller issued final audit overpayment findings in reports dated March 10, 1998, and May 4, 1998. RCJ requested an administrative appeal.

On July 1, 1998, the DHS and the Controller entered into an amended interagency agreement. Under the amended interagency agreement, the Controller retained authority to audit Medi-Cal claims by providers and to send repayment demands. However, with respect to the power to withhold payments from a provider, the July 1, 1998, amended interagency agreement provided, "Only DHS may initiate a withhold of a provider's Medi-Cal funds during a review, audit, or investigation." The present case involves only an overpayment determination. The Controller did not withhold any funds from RCJ.

On February 1, 1999, Division Seven of the-Court of Appeal for this appellate district issued its opinion in Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell (1999) 69

In performing audits for DHS, [the Controller] will document their results in audit reports. [The Controller] will collect and retain sufficient evidence to substantiate all audit findings and recommendations. [¶] C. The [Controller] will ensure that audit reports are clear, accurate, and meet all of the statutory and regulatory requirements of an audit of Medi-Cal Providers. At a minimum, the audit reports will include a description of the scope of the audit, a reference to Medi-Cal authority, and the methodology used. [¶] D. Specifically, [the Controller] will abide by the following: [specified Welfare and Institutions Code sections and California regulations]."

Cal.App.4th 891, 896-898. In Doctor's, the Controller withheld payments to a provider. Our Division Seven colleagues held the Controller could not lawfully exercise the power to audit or to withhold Medi-Cal payments to providers. (Ibid.) The California Supreme Court denied review. The remittitur issued on May 26, 1999.

By letter dated March 19, 1999, after the Doctor's decision was filed, the DHS asked the HCFA to review the July 1, 1998, amended interagency agreement and to "confirm our opinion about the allowability of the [interagency agreement] activities under the Medicaid program." By letter dated on or about March 24, 1999, Sally Richardson, Director, Center for Medicaid and State Operations, HCFA, responded to the DHS's request. Ms. Richardson's letter, written on behalf of the HCFA, concluded that the amended interagency agreement was "fully compliant with federal single State agency requirements." Further, Ms. Richardson concluded, "[W]e see nothing in [the Interagency Agreement] that gives [the Controller] discretionary authority that would violate the single State agency requirements at 42 CFR 431.10."[5] [5] Ms. Richardson's letter states in full: "I am writing in response to your March 19 letter concerning the interagency agreement (IA) between the [DHS] and the [Controller] under which the [Controller] conducts audits of Medi-Cal payments to providers. You enclosed a copy of that IA, and asked that we advise whether the specific [Controller] functions performed under it in fact are consistent with DHS' responsibilities as California's single State agency for purposes of Medicaid program administration. [¶] The Medicaid program's single State agency requirements are found in section 1902(a)(5) of the Social Security Act, and at 42 CFR 431.10. The requirement that each State designate a single State agency to administer or supervise the administration of the program dates to enactment of the Social Security Act in 1935, where it appears with reference to the Title I Old-Age Assistance Program. The same wording was incorporated into Title XIX when the Medicaid program was enacted in 1965. The intent in both instances was to ensure that there be a single agency in each State accountable to the federal government for administration of the program in compliance with federal law and policy. [¶] Regulations at 42 CFR 431.10 require that: '. . . . ' [quoting the regulation] [¶] California's approved Title XIX State Plan designates the DHS as the single State agency responsible for administering that Plan. The DHS organization chart vests responsibility for fraud and abuse, internal and external audits, and quality control in the Audits and Investigations Division. The Chief of the Medical Review Branch, Audits and Investigations, is the DHS contact point for purposes of the subject IA. Under the IA, the [Controller] is to perform audits on behalf of DHS to identify overpayments made to providers under the Medi-Cal program. The Scope of Work states that the IA is 'for the purpose of increasing the State's auditing ability to identify and recover California Medical Assistance Program (Medi-Cal Program) overpayments and to provide federal matching funds for [the Controller] audit services to the Medi-Cal Program.' The [Controller] must notify DHS Audits and Investigations when it initiates a review, audit or investigation of a Medi-Cal provider. If the [Controller] identifies an overpayment, it is to write the provider describing the overpayment, request repayment, and describe the provider's administrative appeal rights. We understand that such letters instruct the provider to either make payment to the DHS Payment Systems Division, Recovery Section for repayment purposes, if the provider agrees with the overpayment determination or, in the event the provider disagrees with the [Controller's] determination, file an appeal with the DHS Office of Administrative Hearings and Appeals. The IA requires the [Controller] to transmit to DHS Audits and Investigations a copy of each audit report and demand letter, DHS rejected the proposed decision. On August 5, 1999, following a review of the administrative record, the DHS issued its final decision. On October 28, 1999, RCJ filed its writ petition in the trial court.

On December 17, 1999, the DHS submitted a state plan amendment to the HCFA. The amended state plan provided in relevant part, "The State Controller's Office will perform audits of Medi-Cal expenditures on behalf of DHS and will submit its findings and recommendations to DHS for appropriate action." The DHS requested and make all related working papers available to DHS for review upon request. In addition, the IA specifies that the [Controller] will make referrals only to Audits and Investigations, and not directly to DHS Recovery, DHS Office of Administrative Hearings and Appeals, or any law enforcement or other agency. [¶] With respect to the fraud referral process, the IA specifies that the [Controller] may recommend to the DHS that it initiate a withhold action when the [Controller] 'collects evidence of potential fraud or willful misrepresentation during an investigation' (Scope of Work, paragraph 10). Federal regulations at 42 CFR 455.23 authorize such withholds by the State Medicaid agency. The IA stipulates that the [Controller] will not make independent fraud referrals to law enforcement agencies, and that DHS will exercise its discretion as the Medicaid single State agency when making such referrals. [¶] Based upon our review of the IA, the pertinent section of the California State Plan, and the applicable federal regulations, we conclude that the IA is fully compliant with federal single State agency requirements. The fact that DHS vests Medi-Cal audit functions in Audits and Investigations does not preclude DHS from augmenting its own audit resources through an appropriate arrangement with the [Controller]. The IA itself states that 'DHS will exercise its authority as the Medicaid single state agency,' and we see nothing in it that gives the [Controller] discretionary authority that would violate the single State agency requirements at 42 CFR 431.10."

an effective date of July 1, 1998. Also on December 17, 1999, the HCFA approved the state plan amendment with an effective date of July 1, 1998, as requested. The HCFA's letter signed by Karen Fuller, stated in relevant part: "[The state plan amendment] amends the State plan to reflect the fact that the State Controller's Office performs audits of Medi-Cal expenditures on behalf of the Department of Health Services (DHS). [¶] Our review of [the state plan amendment] was conducted in accordance with the requirements of section 1902(a)(5) of the Social Security Act (the Act) and the regulatory provisions at 42 CFR 431.10 and 431.11."

On May 19, 2000, the trial court issued the peremptory writ of mandate in this case. As noted above, the court directed the DHS to set aside its final decision in RCJ's administrative appeal "insofar as it relies upon the audit findings of the State Controller. . . . "

IV. DISCUSSION

A. Private Right of Action

The DHS contends RCJ has no "private right of action" to enforce the single state agency requirement embodied in the federal statute (§ 1396a(a)(5)) and its implementing regulation (42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)). The DHS discusses federal decisional authority concerning whether a health care provider may bring an action under title 42 of the United States Code, section 1983, to challenge state practices under the Medicaid Act. (See Wilder v. Virginia Hospital Assn., supra, 496 U.S. at p. 501; Sobky v. Smoley, supra, 855 F.Supp. at pp. 1130-1133.) Those decisions are inapposite. RCJ does not seek to enforce a private right of action under title 42 of the United States Code, section 1983, or otherwise. Rather, RCJ seeks judicial review of a final administrative decision arising from a Medi-Cal audit pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure section 1094.5. Welfare and Institutions Code section 14171, subdivision (j), specifically authorizes such review.[6] RCJ's writ of mandate pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure section 1094.5 is the proper means by which a Medi-Cal provider may challenge an individual audit decision. (Welf. & Inst.Code, § 14171, subdivision (j); Florence Western Medical Clinic v. Bontá (2000) 77 Cal.App.4th 493, 502-503, fn. 8; Frankel v. Kizer (1993) 21 Cal.App.4th 743, 750.) The DHS does not contend the issue presented here is beyond the scope of the issues that may be raised upon judicial review pursuant to Welfare and Institutions Code section 14171, subdivision (j).

B. Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell Is Not Controlling

RCJ, by its writ petition, sought to set aside the DHS's final decision in this case, as "refusing to abide by" the Court of Appeal decision in Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell, supra, 69 Cal.App.4th at pages

[6] Welfare and Institutions Code section 14171 provides in pertinent part: "(a) The director shall establish administrative appeal processes to review grievances or complaints arising from the findings of an audit. . . . [¶] . . . [¶] (j) The final decision of the director shall be reviewable in accordance with Section 1094.5 of the Code of Civil Procedure within six months of the issuance of the director's final decision."

896-898, 81 Cal.Rptr.2d 829 (Doctor's). RCJ contends Doctor's controls the resolution of this case. We respectfully disagree. In Doctor's, a Medi-Cal provider sought a writ of mandate to compel the Controller to release approximately $3 million in payments that had been withheld. (Doctor's, supra, 69 Cal.App.4th at p. 893.) The provider alleged the Controller's refusal to pay the claims had led to its insolvency. (Id. at p. 895.) The Court of Appeal found the 1997 Interagency Agreement improperly authorized the Controller "to perform audits to identify overpayments to providers, and to take corrective action, presumably withholding sums believed to constitute overpayment." (Id. at p. 895.)

We need not address the DHS's disagreement with our Division Seven colleagues' conclusions. The Doctor's opinion was filed on February 1, 1999. On March 24, 1999, the HCFA, by process of Ms. Richardson's letter, expressed approval of the Controller's audit authority. On December 17, 1999, well after the Doctor's opinion was filed, the HCFA approved the use of the Controller as the audit agency effective July 1, 1998. In Doctor's, the Court of Appeal did not confront, nor could our Division Seven colleagues have confronted, the subsequent December 17, 1999, federal agency approval of the Controller's contractual authority to audit Medi-Cal payments to providers. The December 17, 1999, HCFA approval happened entirely after the Doctor's opinion was filed. The HCFA's approval of the delegated audit authority is squarely presented in this case. Moreover, as discussed below, we conclude we must defer to the HCFA's construction of the federal statutory and regulatory law that it administers as reflected in its December 17, 1999, action.

RCJ contends the HCFA's action is immaterial because the Controller audited it before the HCFA expressed its approval. We disagree. By its writ petition, RCJ sought to set aside the DHS's final decision because it relied on the Controller's audit. At the time the DHS issued its final decision, the HCFA had by letter expressed its opinion that the delegation of audit authority to the Controller was fully compliant with federal single state agency requirements. Moreover, at the time the trial court issued its order directing the DHS to set aside its final decision to the extent it relied on the Controller's audit, the HCFA had in addition approved the state plan amendment effective July 1, 1998. Under these circumstances, we conclude, the federal agency's interpretation of its own regulation was squarely presented.

C. The HCFA's Construction of the Federal Law that it Administers is Entitled to Deference

1. Congress has not Specifically Addressed the Precise Question at Issue

RCJ does not specifically contend nor do we conclude that the HCFA's regulation is an impermissible construction of the federal statutory single state agency requirement. RCJ asserts in general terms that the language of the federal statute and regulation is clear, unambiguous, and mandatory. RCJ contends the plain language and "obvious" meaning of the federal statute (§ 1396a(a)(5)) and the implementing regulation (42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)) prohibit the DHS from delegating audit authority to the Controller; further, the HCFA's conclusion to the contrary contradicts the federal law and therefore is not entitled to any deference. We disagree.

The United States Supreme Court explained the standard to be applied on review of an administrative agency's construction of a statute which it administers in Chevron, U.S.A., Inc. v. Natural Resources Defense Council, Inc. (1984) 467 U.S. 837, 842-845: "When a court reviews an agency's construction of [a] statute which it administers, it is confronted with two questions. First, always, is the question whether Congress has directly spoken to the precise question at issue. If the intent of Congress is clear, that is the end of the matter; for the court, as well as the agency, must give effect to the unambiguously expressed intent of Congress. If, however, the court determines Congress has not directly addressed the precise question at issue, the court does not simply impose its own construction on the statute, as would be necessary in the absence of an administrative interpretation. Rather, if the statute is silent or ambiguous with respect to the specific issue, the question for the court is whether the agency's answer is based on a permissible construction of the statute. [Fn. 9.] . . . . [¶] 'The power of an administrative agency to administer a congressionally created . . . program necessarily requires the formulation of policy and the making of rules to fill any gap left, implicitly or explicitly, by Congress.' [Citation.] If Congress has explicitly left a gap for the agency to fill, there is an express delegation of authority to the agency to elucidate a specific provision of the statute by regulation. Such legislative regulations are given controlling weight unless they are arbitrary, capricious, or manifestly contrary to the statute. Sometimes, the legislative delegation to an agency on a particular question is implicit rather than explicit. In such a case, a court may not substitute its own construction of a statutory provision for a reasonable interpretation made by the administrator of an agency. [¶] We have long recognized that considerable weight should be accorded to an executive department's construction of a statutory scheme it is entrusted to administer, and the principle of deference to administrative interpretations 'has been consistently followed by this Court whenever decision as to the meaning or reach of a statute has involved reconciling conflicting policies, and a full understanding of the force of the statutory policy in the given situation has depended upon more than ordinary knowledge respecting the matters subjected to agency regulations.' [Citations.] ' . . . If this choice represents a reasonable accommodation of conflicting policies that were committed to the agency's care by the statute, we should not disturb it unless it appears from the statute or legislative history that the accommodation is not one that Congress would have sanctioned.' [Citation.]" (Fns. omitted, italics added; accord, Garfield Medical Center v. Belshé (1998) 68 Cal.App.4th 798, 807-808.) Simply stated, once a court determines, after reviewing the legislation, that Congress did not directly address the precise question at issue, the pertinent question is whether the administrative construction in the form of a regulation is reasonable. (Chevron U.S.A., Inc. v. Natural Resources Defense Council, Inc., supra, 467 U.S. at p. 845; accord, Alexander v. Sandoval (2001) ___ U.S. ___, ___ [121 S.Ct. 1511, 1518].) As the United States Supreme Court further held in Chevron U.S.A., Inc., "The court need not conclude that the agency construction was the only one it permissibly could have adopted to uphold the construction, or even the reading the court would have reached if the question initially had arisen in a judicial proceeding. [Citations.]" (Chevron U.S.A., Inc. v. Natural Resources Defense Council, Inc., supra, 467 U.S. at p. 843, fn. 11; Zenith Radio Corp. v. United States (1978) 437 U.S. 443, 450.)

We consider the language of the federal statute. We find Congress has not directly addressed the precise question at issue; however, the statutory language plainly suggests that a state Medicaid agency may delegate functions to another state agency. Because we are considering a federal statute, we follow rules of statutory construction enunciated by the United States Supreme Court. In Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp. v. Bonjorno (1990) 494 U.S. 827, 835, quoting from Consumer Product Safety Comm'n v. GTE Sylvania (1980) 447 U.S. 102, 108, the United States Supreme Court held: "The starting point for interpretation of a statute 'is the language of the statute itself. Absent a clearly expressed legislative intention to the contrary, that language must ordinarily be regarded as conclusive.' " The United States Supreme Court has noted that "the statutory language controls its construction" (Ford Motor Credit Co. v. Cenance (1981) 452 U.S. 155, 158, fn. 3) and that " '[t]here is, of course, no more persuasive evidence of the purpose of a statute than the words by which the [L]egislature undertook to give expression to its wishes.' " (Griffin v. Oceanic Contractors, Inc. (1982) 458 U.S. 564, 571.) In interpreting a statute, the United States Supreme Court has noted: " 'In expounding a statute, we must not be guided by a single sentence or member of a sentence, but look to the provisions of the whole law, and to its object and policy.' [Citations.] Our objective in a case such as this is to ascertain the congressional intent and give effect to the legislative will." (Philbrook v. Glodgett (1975) 421 U.S. 707, 713.) On another occasion, the court stated, "We do not, however, construe statutory phrases in isolation; we read statutes as a whole." (United States v. Morton (1984) 467 U.S. 822, 828, fn. omitted.) Further, in interpreting a statute, the Supreme Court has emphasized the importance of avoiding: "absurd results" (United States v. Turkette (1981) 452 U.S. 576, 580); " 'an odd result' " (Public Citizen v. U.S. Department of Justice (1989) 491 U.S. 440, 454); or " unreasonable results whenever possible." (American Tobacco Co. v. Patterson (1982) 456 U.S. 63, 71.) Moreover, the Supreme Court has noted, "Judicial perception that a particular result would be unreasonable may enter into the construction of ambiguous provisions, but cannot justify disregard of what Congress has plainly and intentionally provided." (Commissioner of the Internal Revenue v. Asphalt Products Co., Inc. (1987) 482 U.S. 117, 121.) In Griffin v. Oceanic Contractors, Inc., supra, 458 U.S. at p. 571, the court stated: "Nevertheless, in rare cases the literal application of a statute will produce a result demonstrably at odds with the intentions of its drafters, and those intentions must be controlling. . . . [Citations.]" When a statute is unambiguous, its language cannot "be expanded or contracted by the statements of individual legislators or committees during the course of the [legislative] process." (West Virginia Univ. Hospitals, Inc. v. Casey, supra, 499 U.S. at pp. 98-99.)

As noted above, section 1396a(a)(5) requires that a state Medicaid plan "provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to administer or to supervise the administration of the plan. . . . " It is clear the federal statute does not specifically address the question whether a state Medicaid agency can delegate audit responsibility to another state agency. It does expressly provide, however, that the designated single state agency will administer or supervise the administration of the state plan. The use of the disjunctive means the terms "administer" and "supervise" must be given separate meanings except where the context dictates otherwise. (Reiter v. Sonotone Corp. (1979) 442 U.S. 330, 339; F.C.C. v. Pacifica Foundation (1978) 438 U.S. 726, 739-740.) To "administer" means "to manage the affairs of" the state Medicaid program. (Oxford English Dict. (2d ed. CD-ROM 1994).) To "supervise" means "[t]o oversee," "to have the oversight of, superintend the execution or performance of (a thing). . . . " (Ibid.) Here, under the plain language of section 1396a(a)(5), the DHS is authorized to supervise the administration of the state Medicaid program; that is, to oversee the execution or performance of the program. The federal statute's use of the word "supervise," which means something other than administer, plainly suggests that entities other than the single state agency may be involved in the administration of the program under the Medicaid agency's supervision. Further, as discussed above, the legislative purpose of the single state agency requirement was both to avoid a diversity of operating standards within a state and to ensure that one agency would be accountable to the federal government for the operation of Medicaid program and compliance with federal law. (Sobky v. Smoley, supra, 855 F.Supp. at pp. 1145-1146; Hillburn v. Maher, supra, 795 F.2d at p. 261.) The language of section 1396a(a)(5) is consistent with that purpose; it requires a Medicaid agency to administer or supervise the administration of the state program (§ 1396a(a)(5)), thereby ensuring consistent operating standards and accountability to the federal government. We conclude, therefore, that although Congress did not speak to the precise question at issue in this case, the statutory language does plainly suggest that a state Medicaid agency may delegate functions to another state agency. As the United States District Court for the District of Rhode Island held in King v. Sullivan (1991) 776 F.Supp. 645, 656-657, "Section 1396a(a)(5) requires that a State Plan provide for a single state agency 'to administer or to supervise the administration of the plan.' 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(5) (1988) (emphasis added). The statute does not require states to use only one agency to carry out every task that is part of the State Plan. See 42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)(3) (1990). . . . "

2. The HCFA's Regulation is a Permissible Construction of the Federal Statute

We turn to the HCFA's implementing regulation. As discussed above, where, as here, Congress has not directly addressed the precise issue, the question for a state court is whether the federal agency's answer is based on a permissible construction of the statute. (United States v. Morton, supra, 467 U.S. at p. 834; Chevron, U.S.A., Inc. v. Natural Resources Defense Council, Inc., supra, 467 U.S. at p. 843.) We conclude the implementing regulation is a permissible construction of the federal statute.

As noted above, the HCFA interpreted the federal statutory single state agency requirement in title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations, part 431.10 as follows: "(e) Authority of the single State agency. In order for an agency to qualify as the Medicaid agency – [¶] (1) The agency must not delegate, to other than its own officials, authority to – [¶] (i) Exercise administrative discretion in the administration or supervision of the plan, or [¶] (ii) Issue policies, rules, and regulations on program matters. [¶] (2) The authority of the agency must not be impaired if any of its rules, regulations, or decisions are subject to review, clearance, or similar action by other offices or agencies of the State. [¶] (3) If other State or local agencies or offices perform services for the Medicaid agency, they must not have the authority to change or disapprove any administrative decision of that agency, or otherwise substitute their judgment for that of the Medicaid agency with respect to the application of policies, rules, and regulations issued by the Medicaid agency." The HCFA's regulation is consistent with both the language and legislative purpose of the federal statute. The implementing regulation requires that the state Medicaid agency retain, and not delegate, its ultimate authority to "[e]xercise administrative discretion in the administration or supervision of the [state] plan." (42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)(1)(i), italics added.) It further requires that the state Medicaid agency retain, and not delegate, it [sic] authority to "[i]ssue policies, rules, and regulations on program matters." (42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)(1)(ii).) Under the regulation, if another entity performs services for a single Medicaid agency, it "must not have the authority to change or disapprove any administrative decision of that agency, or otherwise substitute [its] judgment for that of the Medicaid agency with respect to the application of policies, rules, and regulations issued by the Medicaid agency." (42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)(3).). The regulation ensures that the single state agency will retain administrative discretion in the supervision of the Medicaid program and will remain accountable to the government of the United States for the state's administration of the program and compliance with federal Medicaid law. We conclude the HCFA's construction of the federal statutory single state agency requirement in title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations, part 430.10(e), is a permissible and reasonable one.

3. Application of the Regulation to the Circumstances of this Case was not Plainly Erroneous or Inconsistent with the Regulation RCJ contends that the HCFA's application of its own regulation to the circumstances of this case is plainly erroneous or its reasoning is inconsistent with the regulation. We disagree.

The United States Supreme Court has held that a federal agency's interpretation of its own regulation is controlling unless it is " 'plainly erroneous or inconsistent with the regulation.' " (Robertson v. Methow Valley Citizens Council (1989) 490 U.S. 332, 359, quoting Bowles v. Seminole Rock & Sand Co. (1945) 325 U.S. 410, 414; *Auer v. To paraphrase the Supreme Court in a case involving the Department of Health and Human Services: "[W]e must defer to the [HCFA's] interpretation [of its own regulation] unless an 'alternative reading is compelled by the regulation's plain language or by other indications of the [HCFA's] intent at the time of the regulation's promulgation.' [Citation.]" (Thomas Jefferson University v. Shalala (1994) 512 U.S. 504, 512; Christensen v. Harris County (2000) 529 U.S. 576, 588 [deference to agency's interpretation of regulation unwarranted where interpretation contradicted plain and clear language of regulation].)[7] The lower federal courts have held the HCFA's interpretation of Medicaid regulations is entitled to great weight and deference. (New York Dept. of Social Services v. Dublino (1973) 413 U.S. 405, 421; Visiting Nurse Association of North Shore, Inc. v. Bullen (1st Cir. 1996) 93 F.3d 997, 1002; *North Carolina v. RCJ does not specifically challenge the December 17, 1999, state plan amendment. However, that under federal law, when, as here, a state plan or amendment has been reviewed and approved by the HCFA, a party challenging its legality must show that the provisions at issue are " 'arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law' before [a court] will find them substantively invalid." (Concourse Rehabilitation & Nursing Center, Inc. v. DeBuono (1999) 179 F.3d 38, 44; Pinnacle Nursing Home v. Axelrod (2d Cir. 1991) 928 F.2d 1306, 1313; California Hospital Assn. v. the Aging Inc. v. Indiana Office of Medicaid Policy and Planning, supra, 60 F.3d at page 266, the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit held: "Indiana's amended [Medicaid] plan was approved by HCFA and is accordingly a product of state and federal agency action. [Citation.] 'A trial court, therefore, must review the plan with the deference accorded federal agency actions.' Belshe, supra, 68 Cal.App.4th at p. 808; Eisenberg v. Myers, supra, 148 Cal.App.3d at p. 822.)

We find the HCFA's construction of its own regulation as reflected in Ms. Richardson's March 24, 1999, letter and the December 17, 1999, approval of the state plan amendment as allowing the DHS to delegate audit responsibility to the Controller is entitled to deference. RCJ contends the single state agency regulation (42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)(3)) specifically prohibits the DHS from delegating any administrative discretion to another state agency unless expressly authorized to do so by another regulation as, for example, with respect to eligibility determinations (42 C.F.R. § 431.10(c)).[8] We disagree. The HCFA has, from the inception of Medicaid until the present time, interpreted the regulation at issue as allowing a single state Medicaid agency to delegate responsibilities to another state agency. The HCFA has permitted such delegation so long as the single state Medicaid agency: supervises the other agency; remains responsible for that agency's actions; and remains accountable to the federal government for the administration of the state Medicaid plan. (U.S. Dept. of Health, Education & Welfare, Handbook of Public Assistance Administration, Supplement D – Medical Assistance Programs Under Title XIX of the [8] Title 42, Code of Federal Regulations, part 431.10(c) states: "Determination of eligibility. [¶] (1) The plan must specify whether the agency that determines eligibility for families and for individuals under 21 is – [¶] (i) The Medicaid agency; or [¶] (ii) The single State agency for the financial assistance program under title IV-A (in the 50 States or the District of Columbia), or under title I or XVI (AABD), in Guam, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands. [¶] (2) The plan must specify whether the agency that determines eligibility for the aged, blind, or disabled is – [¶] (i) The Medicaid agency; [¶] (ii) The single State agency for the financial assistance program under title IV-A (in the 50 States or the District of Columbia) or under title I or XVI (AABD), in Guam, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands; or [¶] (iii) The Federal agency administering the supplemental security income program under title XVI (SSI). In this case, the plan must also specify whether the Medicaid agency or the title IV-A agency determines eligibility for any groups whose eligibility is not determined by the Federal agency. [¶] (d) Agreement with Federal or State agencies. The plan must provide for written agreements between the Medicaid agency and the Federal or other State agencies that determine eligibility for Medicaid, stating the relationships and respective responsibilities of the agencies."

Social Security Act, D 2140 (June 17, 1966).) In the HCFA's view, a regulation expressly authorizing a state Medicaid agency to delegate audit authority to another state agency is not required. As noted above, the current single state agency regulation (42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)) states that the state Medicaid agency may rely on other state agencies' services provided that it does not delegate its authority, i.e., its ultimate authority: to "[e]xercise administrative discretion in the administration or supervision of the plan"; or to "[i]ssue policies, rules, and regulations on program matters." (42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)(1)(i) & (e)(1)(ii)). In addition, title 42, Code of Federal Regulations part 431.10(e)(2) states, "The authority of the [state Medicaid] agency must not be impaired if any of its rules, regulations, or decisions are subject to review, clearance, or similar action by other offices or agencies of the State." Another state entity performing services for the state Medicaid agency must not have the authority: "to change or disapprove" the state Medicaid agency's administrative decisions. (42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)(3).) Further, the other entity must not have the authority to substitute its judgment for that of the state Medicaid agency "with respect to the application of policies, rules, and regulations issued by the Medicaid agency." (Ibid.)

Moreover, it is undisputed the DHS has not delegated to the Controller any authority to issue policies, rules, or regulations on Medi-Cal program matters. Nor do we find that the Controller reviews or takes similar action with respect to the DHS's rules, regulations, or decisions. Further, RCJ has not pointed to, and we have not found, any evidence in the record that the Controller has been given authority to change or disapprove any administrative decision by the DHS. Instead, the Controller undertakes, on DHS's behalf, required postpayment reviews of provider claims. RCJ also has not pointed to, and we have not found, any evidence in the record that the Controller's office has the authority to substitute its judgment for that of the DHS with respect to the application of policies, rules, and regulations issued by the DHS. Nor has the DHS delegated to the Controller any authority to exercise discretion in the administration or supervision of the statewide Medicaid plan. The interagency agreement does not have any bearing on the ultimate authority of the DHS to exercise administrative judgment in the statewide administration or supervision of the Medi-Cal program as conducted under the state plan. What the DHS has delegated to the Controller is only the authority to conduct postpayment audits of Medi-Cal provider claims. The DHS has authorized the Controller to: perform audit services including audits designed to identify overpayments to providers; "target its audits for [specified] program issues using trend analysis based on Medi-Cal expenditures and historical patterns"; document results in "clear, accurate" audit reports meeting "all of the statutory and regulatory requirements of an audit of Medi-Cal providers"; abide by specified state codes and regulations; "collect and retain sufficient evidence to substantiate all audit findings and recommendations"; issue repayment demands; send repayment demands to providers with a copy of the audit report; provide information to the provider regarding appeal rights; and take responsibility for the resolution of audit findings through and including the administrative appeal process. The DHS remains ultimately responsible for postpayment audits of Medi-Cal providers. The DHS supervises the Controller's services. The Controller must notify the DHS's Audits and Investigations Division "prior to onsite reviews of Medi-Cal providers." The Controller must provide draft audit reports to the DHS at least 15 days prior to issuance. The Controller must send copies of an audit report and demand for repayment to the DHS Audits and Investigations Division and Office of Administrative Hearings and Appeals. Given these circumstances, the HCFA could reasonably conclude that, as authorized by title 42 Code of Federal Regulations part 431.10(e)(3), the DHS has simply contracted with the Controller to perform required postpayment audits. The HCFA's conclusion that the delegation of audit responsibilities to the Controller is fully compliant with federal single state agency requirements is not plainly erroneous or inconsistent with the regulation. Therefore, it is entitled to and will be accorded controlling weight.

V. DISPOSITION

The trial court's judgment granting a peremptory writ of mandate is reversed. Defendant, the Director of the California Department of Health Services, is to recover its costs on appeal from plaintiff, RCJ Medical Services, Inc.

In the Matter of: AMERICAN NETWORK LABORATORY (RCJ Medical Services, Inc. PROVIDER NO. LAB87216F DATE REPORTS ISSUED March 10, 1998 & May 4, 1998	Appeal No. SR8-0298-550-RC SR8-0398-644-RC FINAL DECISION

SUMMARY

The appeal is granted in part and denied in part.

The Office of the State Controller has the authority to audit Medi-Cal claims, as long as it complies with federal Medicaid laws and regulations, as well as California Medi-Cal laws and regulations.

The Office of the State Controller may use a valid statistical and extrapolation methodology during its audit process to help determine the amount of an overpayment to a provider, but should disallow payment only at the lower limit of the 95 percent confidence interval.

Evidence introduced into the record supports the conclusion that a laboratory provider should not perform tests where there is no name of the referring physician on the requisition form. In addition, a provider cannot insulate itself from possible financial consequences by relying on alleged arrangements made by independent contractors with medical clinics and/or doctors regarding the requesting of laboratory tests.

Where sufficient evidence is produced to establish that a provider billed for services in excess of what was ordered by a physician, or did not perform tests that were ordered, audit adjustments taken by the Controller will be upheld.

Where a preponderance of the evidence shows that no eligible Medi-Cal beneficiary received the service that was billed for, payment for the service in question must be disallowed.

PROCEEDINGS

This matter was heard before Robert L. Carisoza, Administrative Law Judge for the Department of Health Services, on June 15 and 16, 1998, in Los Angeles, California. The representatives present were:

Geoffrey F. Margolis, Esq., for the Office of the State Controller (Controller); and Patric Hooper, Esq., for American Network Laboratory (Provider).

The Names of other persons in attendance are a matter of record. At the conclusion of the formal hearing the administrative record was held open for the submission of written closing arguments. After receipt of these closing arguments, the formal administrative record was closed effective December 9, 1998.

A Proposed Decision was signed by the Administrative Law Judge on April 1, 1999, and was mailed to the parties and to the deputy Director and Chief Counsel for the Department of Health Services with a request for comments. Comments were received from the Controller and from the department of Health Services.

On May 28, 1999, the Provider's counsel notified the Office of Administrative Hearings and Appeals that the published appellate decision in Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 891 ("the Connell decision") had become final, and asked that the appeal be granted in its entirety based upon the decision. Further briefing on the applicability of the decision was submitted by both parties.

On June 7, 1999, the Proposed Decision was timely rejected, and the parties were given notice that the primary reason for so doing was to consider the effect of the finality of the Connell decision. The Provider's counsel waived further briefing on this issue. Subsequently, the parties and the Department of Health Services were given the opportunity to submit additional briefing on the question of the propriety of payment for services not received by a Medi-Cal beneficiary, and all three submitted additional comments in response to this request.

Based upon a review of the entire record, including the transcript, pursuant to Government Code section 11517(d), this constitutes the Final Decision of the Department of Health Services.

ISSUES

1. Whether the Office of the State Controller has authority to audit Medi-Cal claims.

2. Whether the sampling and extrapolation methodology and findings used by the Controller in both of its audits are valid.

For Audit #1:

3. Whether finding #1 is proper in concluding that alleged referring physicians did not actually refer patients to the Provider.

4. Whether finding #2 is correct in concluding that laboratory tests were not ordered by referring physicians or not performed by the Provider.

5. Whether finding #3 is proper in concluding that services were not provided to the claimed beneficiaries, and therefore, the Provider should reimburse the Medi-Cal program.

6. Whether finding #4 is correct in concluding that laboratory tests were not ordered.

For Audit #2:

7. Whether finding #1 is correct in concluding that laboratory tests were not ordered by referring physicians or were not performed by the Provider.

8. Whether finding #2 is proper in concluding that services were not provided to the claimed beneficiaries, and therefore, the Provider should reimburse the Medi-Cal program.

STIPULATION

During the course of the hearing the parties stipulated that the following exhibits would be treated as direct evidence: exhibits 44, 47, 55, 58, 84, 89, 94, and 97.

BACKGROUND FACTS

A preponderance of the oral and documentary evidence introduced into the administrative record during the course of the hearing established the following:

I

The Provider is a general clinical laboratory licensed by the State of California, and certified by the Department to perform diagnostic services for eligible beneficiaries of the Medi-Cal program. Within the scope of this licensing and certification, the Provider performed various laboratory services in the Los Angeles area during the period January 1997 through March 1998, for which the Provider was reimbursed by the Medi-Cal program.

II

Relying on statutory authority and an interagency agreement with the Department of Health Services (Department), the Controller initially conducted a review of the Provider's Medi-Cal claims for medical testing services which were submitted during the period January 9, 1997, through October 9, 1997. The purpose of this review was to determine the Provider's compliance with the applicable provisions of the Medi-Cal program governing the performance of laboratory services. This report concluded that the Provider had been overpaid[1] $1,296,801.00 by the Medi-Cal program for the services rendered. This overpayment amount was calculated using a statistical extrapolation methodology which projected the findings of the 110 random sample items reviewed to the entire population of 10,857 items. The Controller issued its findings resulting from this review in a final report dated March 10, 1998. The Provider filed a timely appeal from the findings of this report by letter dated March 19, 1998. Thereafter, the Controller conducted a follow-up review of the Provider's Medi-Cal claims submitted for medical testing services which were performed during the period of October 10, 1997, through March 6, 1998. This report concluded that the Provider had been overpaid $164,766.00 by the Medi-Cal program for the services rendered. The Controller issued its findings resulting from this review in a final report dated May 4, 1998. The Provider filed a timely appeal from the findings of this report on May 6, 1998. These two appeals were subsequently consolidated for hearing and decision.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND DETERMINATION OF ISSUES

I

The relationship of the Department of Health Services (Department) with Medi-Cal providers is in the nature of a contract, the terms of which include and are limited by the laws and valid regulations applicable to the Medi-Cal program (Paramount Convalescent Center, Inc. v. Department of Health Care Services (1975) 15 Cal.3d 489; California Medical Association v. Lackner (1981) 117 Cal.App.3d 552). The Controller conducted an audit of the Provider's records in reliance on California Government Code sections 925.6, 926.15, and 12410, and pursuant to an interagency agreement between the Controller and the Department. The issues in this appeal involve questions of the proper interpretation and application of those laws, regulations, and contract provisions.

[1] Throughout this decision, references to "payment" are to authorization for payment, regardless of the current status of the cash; that is, this decision adjudicates legal ownership of the funds, not their physical possession.

CONTROLLER'S AUTHORITY TO AUDIT MEDI-CAL CLAIMS

II

The first issue raised by the Provider concerns the authority of the Controller to audit Medi-Cal claims under either federal or state law.

In summary, the Provider contends that federal medicaid law and regulations prohibit the Controller from conducting Medi-Cal audits as the Department is the single state agency designated to administer the Medicaid program in California. In addition, the Provider argues, California law does not authorize the Controller to audit Medi-Cal claims, but designates the department as the responsible state agency to carry out that function.

These same questions were previously raised and have been addressed by the United States District Court for the Central District of California in the case of Health Line Clinical Laboratory, Inc.; and RCJ Medical Services, Inc., v. Kathleen Connell, Controller of the State of California, et al.,

Case No. CV-98-1620-RJK. The court in that case held that the Controller must comply fully with all federal Medicaid laws and regulations, as well as with all applicable Welfare and Institutions Code and California Code of Regulations sections, as it agreed to do in the interagency agreement with the Department, and as required under federal law. If the court had agreed with the Provider's contentions as set forth above, it would have issued a different ruling. Since it did not, it is safe to conclude that the court accepted that the Controller can audit Medi-Cal providers as long as it follows federal Medicaid law and regulations, as well as California's Medi-Cal laws and regulations.[2]

The Provider also argues that the appeal must be granted based on the Connell decision, supra, in which the Court of Appeal for the Second Appellate District stated that "[t]he Controller could not lawfully exercise power to audit provider payments and withhold alleged excesses." (69 Cal.App.4th at 897). The Provider argues that the Department is bound by the Connell decision and must reverse the overpayment disallowance based on the Controller's alleged lack of authority.

In order to determine the impact of the Connell decision on this administrative matter, it is critical to observe what was and was not before the court in that case. The Provider filed the action to challenge the Controller's "withhold" (refusal to disburse) of moneys otherwise payable to the Provider. No audit report or audit findings

[2] It is also noted that the federal court expressly kept itself apprised of the progress of this administrative action, and refused to interfere with its completion.

were in front of the trial court, nor was complete evidence presented as to how the Controller functions as an agent of the Department in connection with the Medi-Cal audit function. The Department was not a party. The Controller based her argument on the constitutional and statutory authority of her office, since the withhold was taken under that authority, which is separate and apart from the audit function performed pursuant to the interagency agreement with the Department.

Although, later on in the Connell litigation, the Controller's status as an agent of the Department was argued, that status, and how it relates to the Controller's authority to audit, was never squarely at issue before the Court of Appeal, since no trial court record had been made concerning any audit.

It is unquestionable that the Court of Appeal, in ruling The Controller's withhold contrary to federal requirements, and ordering it to be dissolved, did include in its discussion references to audit authority. However, such references were not based on a fully developed record, and relate to something that was not factually before the court. Further, the court did not, and had no reason to, discuss the Controller's audit authority standing alone. It was only the authority to "audit . . . and withhold" that was at issue.

With all due respect for the opinion of the Court of Appeal, its very brief discussion of this subject, based on an incomplete record, does not appear to be a dispositive pronouncement concerning the Controller's authority to audit, with the audit leading to an independent evaluation of the case by an Administrative Law Judge of the Department of Health Services, and a Final Decision of the Department. The court of Appeal was not aware that the coordination of audit resources between the Department and the Controller is pursuant to an interagency agreement that has now been found to be fully in compliance with federal requirements by the responsible federal agency. The record in this administrative case contains a copy of a letter dated March 24, 1999, from Sally K. Richardson, Director, Health Care Financing Administration, stating that the use of Controller's audit resources, in the manner specified in the interagency agreement, to increase the state's ability to identify and recover overpayments, is consistent with California's Medicaid State Plan and applicable federal law. The letter specifically approves the use of federal matching funds by the Controller for audit purposes.

It is also notable that the Court of Appeal for the first Appellate District upheld, albeit without specific comment on the subject, an overpayment determination made by the Department after a Controller's audit. In Taye v. Coye (1994) 29 Cal.App.4th 1339, the Court of Appeal accepted the decision resulting from the Department's administrative process as a proper decision, notwithstanding the Controller's involvement as an agent of the Department.

The oblique, indirect way in which the Court of Appeal for the Second District commented on the question of the Controller's audit authority, and the fact that the First District has accepted that authority in a published decision, seen together, create substantial uncertainty in the law, and deprive the Provider's argument, that this appeal must be granted, of a firm foundation.

The Department, having entered into an inter-agency agreement with the Controller that has been approved by both state and federal control agencies, believes that the Controller, as the Department's agent, properly conducted the underlying audit. For the reasons stated, it is concluded that the Department and the Controller should have the opportunity to defend that authority before a court.

EXTRAPOLATION METHODOLOGY

III

The second issue to be addressed deals with the validity of the sampling and extrapolation methodology used by the Controller.

The Provider first contends that the Controller does not have the authority to use sampling and extrapolation methodologies to perform postservice, prepayment audits. This question was not specifically addressed by either court in the cases cited above. However, title 22, California Code of Regulations, section 51159, authorizes the Department to perform postservice prepayment audits to review for program coverage, and payments to providers may be withheld or reduced if the service rendered was inappropriate. In addition, section 51458.2 of the same regulations authorizes the Department to utilize probability sampling to extrapolate the amount to be recovered from a provider.

Based on the two regulations referenced above, it is found that the Controller, as the Department's agent, can use probability sampling to extrapolate the amount to be recovered from the Provider. As to the specific funds disallowed by the Controller pursuant to its sampling and extrapolation methodologies, a determination must be made as to whether the specific methodologies used to calculate the amount of the overpayment were valid.

IV

The Controller used the identical statistical methodology in audit #1 and #2. The method is called the ratio method of estimation, and was taken from Herbert Arkin's book, Handbook of Sampling for Auditing and Accounting, 3rd Edition. The sample selected for audit #1 was a systematic random sample of 110 items from a universe of 10,857, using two random starting points with every 200th item selected. Once the sample items were selected, each was reviewed to determine if payment should be allowed or disallowed. If an item was disallowed it was disallowed for one of four specific reasons, as will be discussed below. Once all sample items were reviewed, allowed and disallowed amounts were totaled. The sample error rate was found to be 60.94 percent with respect to audit #1. When extrapolated to the entire universe, the point estimate for audit #1 was found to be an overpayment of $1,296,801, with a precision of 14.43 percent or margin of error of plus or minus $187,191, at a confidence level of 95 percent. For audit #2, the point estimate was found to be $164,766, with a precision factor or margin of error of plus or minus $81,225.

Experts from both sides testified that the methodology used to select the random sample was appropriate. The Controller's witness further testified that the extrapolation from the sample was proper and that the findings were accurate. The Controller's expert opined that she could have made the sample and extrapolation tighter but was not consulted prior to the Controller's audit. She felt, however, that using the upper limit would still be appropriate. Although the Provider's expert opined that the extrapolation regarding one finding should not have been done, but instead a complete audit of all claims within that finding should have been undertaken, this tribunal concludes that the Controller's methodology was proper and that its findings were accurate. The Controller's randomly selected sample represented the entire universe, and therefore, a more in-depth analysis of one finding would not have added to the validity of the Controller's findings.

It is found that the Controller's sampling methodology, and extrapolation were appropriate methods, and that the findings were accurate. The Provider argued that using the point estimate is less accurate and reliable than using the lower limit of the precision factor. As the Controller's expert testified, the issue is not one of accuracy, but one of whether one wishes to err in favor of preventing overpayment, or in favor of ensuring that overpayment demands are not overstated. It has been the longstanding interpretation of the Department that the number which more conservatively estimates the overpayment rate, that is, the lower limit of the 95 percent confidence interval, should be used. There is no rational basis for deviating from that interpretation simply because the Controller's auditors conducted the audit.

Therefore, when calculating the Provider's overpayment, the lower limit shall be used. Consequently, the maximum overpayment to the Provider for audit #1 can only be $1,109,610, which is the point estimate of $1,296,801 minus the margin of error of $187,191. The maximum overpayment to the Provider for audit #2 can only be $83,541, using the same formula.

The next issue deals with finding #1 of audit #1, and concerns the question of whether alleged referring physicians actually referred patients to the Provider.

The Controller contends that the Provider billed for laboratory tests that were never requested, according to the referring physician indicated on the laboratory requisition. Of the 110 sample items, 20 were referred by a Dr. Herrera. When Dr. Herrera was interviewed by the Controller's auditors, he denied ever having treated any of the 20 patients, and denied requesting any lab tests from the Provider. In addition, he denied having worked at Clinica Santa Maria, where these 20 patients were alleged to have been treated by Dr. Herrera. Finally, he denied having signed a comprehensive master panel agreement with the Provider, and denied having signed an application to obtain a Medi-Cal provider number.

Dr. Herrera testified and confirmed the above statements. In addition, he testified that Dr. Villamizar was the medical director of Clinica Santa Maria. Although Dr. Herrera worked for Dr. Villamizar at Los Angeles Specialist Medical Management, he did not work for him at Clinica Santa Maria.

The Provider argues that whether Dr. Herrera states he was actually associated with Clinica Santa Maria is not important. The Provider contends that evidence presented by the Controller establishes that Dr. Herrerra was in fact associated with this clinic, and this is confirmed by statements made by medical personnel at the clinic to the Controller auditors. Given these circumstances, the Provider had no basis or reason for concluding that Dr. Herrera was "secretly" not associated with the clinic, and therefore, the Provider was required to perform those tests ordered on the requisition sheets it received from Clinica Santa Maria. As a consequence, since the Provider is required to perform tests only at the written request of an authorized person, and the Provider did so in the present matter, the laboratory services must be deemed to be covered Medi-Cal services even if Dr. Herrera testifies now that he is not associated with the clinic.

VI

Title 22, California Code of Regulations, section 51311, entitled "Laboratory, Radiological and Radioisotope Services" provides in pertinent part:

> "Examinations, tests . . . ordered by a licensed practitioner, within his scope of practice . . . for prevention, diagnosis and treatment of illness or injury are covered . . . "

In addition, section 51458.1 of those same regulations provides:

> "(a) The Department shall recover overpayments to provider including, but not limited to, payments determined to be:

(11) For services not ordered or prescribed, when an order or prescription is required. . . . "

The "written request . . . of an authorized person" is required before laboratory tests can be performed. Title 42, Code of Federal Regulations, section 493.1105. This request often times is in the form of a "test requisition form." To be valid, this form must meet certain requirements such as those set forth in the federal regulation. Section 493.1105 provides that the test requisition should contain the patient's name; the name and address of the authorized person requesting the test and, where applicable, a contact person to enable the reporting of imminent life-threatening laboratory results or panic values; the tests to be performed; the date of specimen collection; and any additional information relevant and necessary to assure accurate and timely testing and reporting of test results.

Exhibit 24 was presented, which relates to the first sample patient under this finding. Exhibit 24 is a requisition form from Clinica Santa Maria. It contains a patient name and address, the name, address, and telephone number of the clinic, the date and time the specimen was received by the lab, the tests requested to be performed, but no name of the authorized person requesting the tests. In addition, this exhibit contains a client identification number which allegedly refers to the person authorizing the tests to be performed. There is no name of any contact person in order to clarify the request, or to report life-threatening laboratory results or panic values. Exhibit 25 presented for the second sample patient contained exactly the same type of information reported as exhibit 24.

It is concluded that the name of the authorized person requesting lab tests is required on the test requisition form before a laboratory can perform those tests. A clinic is not a physician. Requiring the name of the authorizing physician to appear on the lab form protects both the clinical laboratory and the requesting physician. It protects the clinical laboratory from subsequent claims that the tests it performed were not requested or were not requested by an authorized person. It protects the physician from false allegations by clinical laboratories that a physician authorized requested tests. If the physician's name is not there, then that physician did not authorize any tests to be performed.

In this case, the alleged requesting physician, who is identified on the test requisition form only by a typed client number and not by name, claims never to have worked at the medical clinic, nor to have requested any tests for any of the patients. In addition, this physician claims never to have signed any comprehensive panel agreement with the Provider. On the other hand, the Provider claims to have an arrangement with this physician who was given a client identification number. The arrangement was that when the physician ordered a Comprehensive Panel he meant a specific list of tests of which the provider had knowledge. The Provider supplied the clinic with preprinted forms identifying the physician by a client identification number, and the clinic by name and address.

A careful review of the documents submitted into evidence which contain the physician's signature was conducted by the Administrative Law Judge, and he found that the signatures on the comprehensive panel agreement with the Provider and the application for Medi-Cal provider number are not the signature of Dr. Herrera. The Administrative Law Judge's credibility finding in this regard will not be disturbed.

The first question to be answered for this issue is not whether Dr. Herrera did or did not request lab work from the Provider, but whether, based upon the lab requisition forms the Provider received from Clinica Santa Maria, the Provider had any reason to believe that these requisitions were valid requests for lab tests. On their face, the lab requisitions appear to be valid requests for tests. Although there is no name of the person authorizing the tests, the Provider has been told by an independent contractor that client ID # 183 is Dr. Herrera, who works at Clinica Santa Maria.

During the course of the administrative hearing, evidence was presented which established that the Provider had agreements with four independent[3] contractors. According to these agreements, each independent contractor was assigned a territory where he or she would create a place into operation a sales marketing plan, and would be paid up to a 30 percent commission on the net collected sales it brought into the Provider's business each month. For example, for each comprehensive panel that was referred to the Provider, and subsequently paid for, the independent contractors would receive anywhere from $120.00 to $130.00. These independent contractors established the arrangements with referring physicians and/or clinics, and set up the accounts with the Provider. Once these arrangements were made, and the account set up, the Provider's couriers would pick up the specimens from the clinics. The Provider would supply the physicians and clinics with the preprinted lab requisition forms with their client identifications number. When the Provider later received one of these forms, along with the specimens, it would perform the requested tests, report the findings back to the client, and bill Medi-Cal if applicable.[4]

[3] This is the term used by the Provider. However, the record reflects that one was the owner of a clinic that referred business to the laboratory, and some were owners of the laboratory. (Transcript 6-15-1998, p. 14; 6-16-1998, p. 128.)

It appears that the Provider is attempting to insulate itself from having any responsibility or obligation to verify the arrangements made by its independent contractors. It has created an incentive for its independent contractors to bring in as much business as possible, yet is trying to place itself in a situation where it can rely on the arrangements made by the independent contractors, receive payment for tests it performs, and not be responsible if the tests it performs have never been requested by an authorized physician, or if the alleged patient was never seen by a physician or at a clinic. The Provider cannot create the environment for potential dishonesty to occur, but absolve itself of any responsibility by relying on the word of the independent contractors. The Medi-Cal program is not responsible for the error in judgment or the bad business practices engaged in by the Provider.

[4] These types of arrangements may be illegal (See People v. Duz-Mor Diagnostic Laboratory, Inc. (1998) 68 Cal.App.4th 654), but this argument was not raised during the course of the administrative hearing.

If the Provider wants to rely on the arrangements made by the independent contractors without any further verification of their authenticity, then the Provider should be prepared to suffer the consequences, i.e., to be found liable for overpayments to the Medi-Cal program if the independent contractor's business proves inadequately supported.

The appeal on this issue is denied.

The next issue concerns finding #2 relating to specific laboratory tests that were not ordered by the referring physicians or were not performed.

The Controller contends that the Provider billed the Medi-Cal program for laboratory tests that were in excess of those ordered by the referring physicians, as well as for some that were not performed by the laboratory. The auditors analyzed the lab requisitions, the physician comprehensive panel agreements, and the test results, and compared this information to the Provider's billings to the Medi-Cal program. The test results indicate whether a test was performed or not. The test results, if any, were then compared with what was paid to the Provider. The Provider was paid, in many instances, for a test it did not perform either because there are no test results for a lab procedure that was paid for, or because the test results show a "QNS" which means quantity was not sufficient to run the test. In other instances, the physicians did not order a specific test, yet the Provider was paid for performing such a test.

The parties agreed to present evidence on four samples under this finding. The first sample was # 53. This sample relates to a hepatitis panel, a thyroid study and several other tests that were paid for by Medi-Cal, but when the test results are reviewed for that patient on that date of service, there are no test results for a hepatitis panel or thyroid study, etc., because of QNS. That is, there was insufficient blood sample to run the tests. The Controller's auditor testified that she followed the same process in the other three samples and the results were the same, except that some tests billed for were never ordered, while other tests were performed by another laboratory.

The Provider is not entitled to payment for tests that it did not perform for whatever reason, for tests performed by another laboratory, or for tests never ordered. (Title 22, Cal. Code Regs. §51458.1(4).) The appeal on this issue is denied.

VIII

The next issue involves finding #3 which deals with services not provided to the claimed beneficiary. This issue will be discussed below, together with finding #2 of audit #2, which presents the same reason for the overpayment demand.

IX

The next issue relates to finding #4 which deals with tests that were never ordered by a physician.

The Controller contends that the Provider billed Medi-Cal for laboratory tests that were not supported by the referring physician's medical records. In two cases, the physician medical records disclosed that the laboratory tests were never ordered for the dates of service in question.

For the first sample, exhibits 64 and 65 were reviewed. The auditor compared the lab requisition form of the Provider with the medical records of the physician for the patient for which the lab tests were performed. The lab requisition indicated a specific date of service while the medical records for that patient on that same date do not indicate any visit by the patient to the physician. The medical chart also does not indicate that any tests were ordered on that specific date nor does the patient chart contain any test results relating to that date. In addition, other documents indicate that one of the patients in question was actually incarcerated during the entire time period covered by the audit, and remained in custody as of June 11, 1998. Although this evidence is hearsay, it may be used to corroborate the direct testimony of the auditor.

A careful review of exhibit 64, relating to the first sample, indicates that this is a lab test request from client #250, FHC Medical Center. Client #250 is Dr. Malabanan, who works at FHC Medical Center. This lab request indicates a comprehensive panel 1 should be performed. Exhibit 12 introduced by the Controller indicates that Dr. Malabanan worked for FHC Medical Center, and did have a valid agreement with the Provider regarding comprehensive/master panels. Lab results from the tests performed by the Provider are included in exhibit 64.

The next sample involves exhibits 62, 63, and 97. Again, the lab requisition is from client #250, Dr. Malabanan, and requests that a comprehensive panel 1 be performed. The test results are included in this exhibit. The lab request (exhibit 62) was compared with the medical chart (exhibit 63) for the specific patient and date of service in question. Again it was found that the patient chart indicates that: 1) the patient was not seen by the doctor on the date in question, 2) there were no lab tests ordered by the physician for the date in question, and 3) no test results were found in the patient medical chart for that date of service. Exhibit 97 is the signed statement of the Medi-Cal beneficiary that she did not have blood drawn from any physician in the last few years, and has never lived at the address indicated on exhibit 62.

In connection with these sample cases, the Provider had in its files what appeared to be valid lab requisitions from a physician with whom it had a valid agreement. The lab requisitions requested the Provider to perform the indicated test panels. The Provider performed the tests and the test results are included in the exhibits.

The Controller disallowed both of these examples on the basis that the tests were never ordered by the physician. The evidence supports this conclusion. The physician's file was devoid of any evidence that anyone had been seen in connection with the laboratory requests at issue, there was no evidence the services had been ordered, and there was no evidence the results had been received. The Provider failed to rebut the prima facie case made by this absence of any support for its documents.

In addition, the Controller has made the case that no Medi-Cal beneficiary received the services in question, since there was no evidence that the patient was seen or had blood drawn on the date in question.

Where there is no evidence that the physician who supposedly ordered the laboratory test saw the beneficiary-patient, and no evidence that he ordered the tests at issue, the Medi-Cal program is not required to pay for tests of which only the Provider has any documentation. As has been discussed above, the requirement to pay for laboratory services is conditioned on the existence of a valid order from a person authorized to make one. As is further discussed below, it is also conditioned on the receipt of the service by a Medi-Cal beneficiary. Neither was proven to exist in these cases. The appeal is denied as to this finding.

The next issue deals with audit #2, finding #1 which is similar to finding #2 of the first audit, i.e. test were not ordered by the referring physician or were not performed. Two samples were presented on this issue.

Dr. Dix was called as a witness by the Controller and he testified regarding this specific finding. Exhibit 69 is his signed statement. Dr. Dix testified that he worked for Divine Health Care which was primarily a personal injury clinic. Due to his patients' conditions he would only order a CBC and electrolytes, and generally would not order any comprehensive panels for any of his patients. He would usually just prescribe physical therapy for his patients. While working at Divine Health Care he ordered fewer than five lab tests, and to his knowledge he has not referred any lab work to the Provider.

The Controller submitted exhibits 69. 70, and 71 with respect to the first sample. Exhibit 70 is the lab requisition from Divine Health Care, and this form contains the name of Dr. Dix. The requisition requests that a comprehensive panel be done. The Provider performed the tests, and the results are contained in the exhibit. The Controller disallowed all tests of this sample because they were not ordered by Dr. Dix.

With respect to his first sample, it is the determination of this tribunal that the appeal must be denied. The Provider did not have a comprehensive panel agreement with Dr. Dix, who was the medical director of Divine Health care. Therefore, when the Provider received this lab requisition from Dr. Dix requesting a comprehensive panel, it should have contacted Dr. Dix to clarify what tests he wanted performed. Instead, the Provider relied upon an agreement it had with a Dr. Adhami, who was somehow allegedly associated with Divine Health Care, and performed the tests he and the Provider had agreed to. Dr. Dix testified that he did not know a Dr. Adhami. The Provider performed tests that were not ordered by the referring physician. As a consequence, the appeal on this sample must be denied.

Exhibits 72, 73, and 74 were submitted regarding the second sample. Dr. Hsu, the referring physician in this sample, does not have an agreement with the Provider, but does use the Provider. He will only order specific tests. The Controller's review of the patient chart, the lab requisition, and the lab results indicated that the Provider billed for tests that were not ordered by the physician, and not performed by the Provider. The evidence submitted supports the conclusion of the Controller on this sample item. The Provider was paid for tests that were not ordered or were not performed. The appeal on this sample is denied.

As the appeals on both samples were denied, the appeal on this entire issue must be denied.

XI

The last issue deals with finding #2 of audit #2 which is the same as finding #3 in audit #1. The Controller contends that the Provider billed Medi-Cal for services that were not provided to the beneficiaries indicated on the Provider's laboratory requisition forms. In connection with the first audit period, eight beneficiaries were interviewed by the Controller's auditors and they all signed statements that they had never been to nor received medical services from the medical clinics that were designated on the Provider's lab requisitions. In addition, they all stated that they had never lived at the addresses indicated on the lab requisitions. Exhibit 39 lists the eight Medi-Cal beneficiaries that were interviewed and they were designated as sample #'s 102, 104, 98, 57, 47, 110, 106, and 100. In connection with the second audit period, four beneficiaries were interviewed by the Controller's auditors and all four said they did not receive the medical services in question.

The Controller disallowed all of the services associated with these samples because they were never provided to the named beneficiaries. In some cases, there is evidence that the service was provided to a patient, but that patient was someone other than the person whose Medi-Cal number appeared on the billing. The Controller argues that the Provider may not bill Medi-Cal for these services pursuant to title 22, California Code of Regulations, section 51470, which provides that:

> "(a) A provider shall not bill or submit a claim to the Department . . . for Medi-Cal benefits not provided to a Medi-Cal beneficiary. . . . "

The Controller states that the regulation is clear and unambiguous, not subject to any exception for providers who do not personally deal with program beneficiaries.

Provider argues that it is not responsible for verifying that a Medi-Cal beneficiary was actually seen at a clinic or by a specific physician. The Provider should be allowed to rely, it argues, on the physician order forms requesting the performance of certain tests, because it has no way of knowing whether a Medi-Cal beneficiary was seen at a clinic or by a physician. The Provider's position is that section 51470 may not be applied to deny payment to a provider who has no personal contact with the beneficiary, and has no obligation to verify the beneficiary's identity.

Input was received from the Department on this issue. The Department likened the laboratory requisition for services which did not benefit any program beneficiary to a forged instrument of title or counterfeit currency. The innocent[5] holder in due course of the inherently worthless paper has recourse only against the person from whom he obtained it. He cannot force another equally innocent party (e.g., a bank) to accept it as having value, once its valueless nature is discovered.

[5] The Controller did not rule out the possibility that these cases involved beneficiary fraud, where neither the clinic nor

The regulation at issue is a part of the Department's effort to comply with federal requirements related to the Medi-Cal program. Section 1903(a)(1) of the Social Security Act (codified at 42 U.S.C.A. § 1396b(a)(1)) specifies that a state may receive federal funds for program benefits to the extent they constituted "medical assistance under the State plan." Section 1903(u) (42 U.S.C.A. § 1396b(u)) requires a denial of federal sharing in "erroneous excess payments" (erroneous payments above a tolerance level for error) made by a state Medicaid agency. One of the two definitions of the term "erroneous excess payments" is "payments under the State plan with respect to ineligible individuals and families."

This requirement is echoed in title 42, Code of Federal Regulations, section 431.812(d), which specifies that, as part of its quality control effort, the state Medicaid agency must "identify erroneous payments resulting from – (1) Ineligibility for Medicaid."

From reviewing this basic federal requirement that all Medicaid expenditures must be for covered services to eligible beneficiaries, no exception appears for services rendered in erroneous reliance on a referring provider's false information concerning the issue of whether a covered, eligible beneficiary was in fact the subject of the

the laboratory was aware that the patient was not the beneficiary, so this is one possible explanation.

referred service. The federal definitions of proper and erroneous Medicaid expenditures are as straightforward as the state regulation at title 22, California Code of Regulations, section 51470. It therefore appears that the Controller's interpretation of section 51470 as an absolute prohibition of payment is correct.[6] Similarly, the Department's input correctly states that the laboratory's position, in the event that it is a totally innocent recipient of a requisition for services that will not benefit a legitimate, eligible individual, is like that of the person who tries to put a counterfeit $100 bill in his bank account. It is not the fault of the bank that the bill is worthless, and the bank owes the depositor no compensation. Just so, the Medicaid agency, having received nothing of value (and nothing which may be paid for with federal funds), owes the Provider no compensation for a service to a person who is not eligible for benefits.

XII

Once it has been determined that the Provider may not be reimbursed with Medi-Cal funds for a service not rendered to an eligible Medi-Cal beneficiary, the question becomes one of whether the Controller met its burden of proving that this lack of an eligible patient occurred in the sample cases at issue. The issue must be proven through competent direct evidence, because the [6] Although there are Medi-Cal services which are not subject to federal sharing, and thus would not be found by federal requirements, there has been no suggestion that this is true of any of the services at issue in this case.

---

Provider's counsel objected to the use of hearsay to support any finding (Government Code § 11513(d)).

Of the twelve cases the Controller presented on this issue, only hearsay was presented on eight. The appeal must be granted to the extent the overpayment determination rests on the eight sample cases unsupported by direct evidence.

The beneficiary testified in each of the other four cases.

The first beneficiary who testified (relating to case #137) was C.L. (Transcript 6-15-98, pp. 96 et seq.). C.L. credibly testified that she did not visit the physician who supposedly ordered laboratory tests on her behalf, nor did she receive any medical care at the clinic in question on the date in question. She also testified that she does not live, and has not lived, at the address shown on the laboratory requisition.

Beneficiary S.S. then testified relating to case #100 (Transcript 6-15-98, pp. 102 et seq.). S.S. attempted to testify that she did not receive the services in question, but her testimony is somewhat confusing and unclear due to her limited command of English and her illiteracy.

The third witness, A.L., testified in relation to case # 57 (Transcript 6-15-98, pp. 110 et seq.). This witness credibly testified that she did not receive any medical services through the physician who allegedly ordered laboratory services on her behalf, and did not go to the clinic where the physician allegedly did so. She also testified that she has never lived at the address attributed to her on the laboratory requisition.

The fourth witness, S.C., attempted to testify in support of the Controller's case # 110 (Transcript 6-15-98, pp. 117 et seq.). However, the Administrative Law Judge found that S.C did not have sufficient command of the English language to testify without an interpreter.[7]

It is concluded that the Controller presented sufficient evidence to prevail on cases 137 and 57. C.L. and A.L. both testified with sufficient clarity and credibility to support the allegation that they did not receive the services at issue. No evidence was presented to show that any other eligible beneficiary received them in their stead. Because the evidence presented in support of cases 100 and 110 was not sufficient, the appeal is granted as to the portion of the overpayment represented by those cases.

ORDER

The Office of the State Controller has the authority to audit Medi-Cal providers, and may use probability sampling to extrapolate the amount to be recovered from the Provider.

The Provider's appeal is granted in part as to Issues #5 and #8. As to those issues, the appeal is denied as to that portion of the overpayment determination which is supported by direct testimony, and granted in the remainder. The controller is directed to recalculate that portion of the overpayment determination consistent with the substance of this Decision.

The appeal is denied in all other respects.

The Controller is also ordered to recalculate the overpayment to the Provider consistent with the views expressed in this Decision by using the lower limit of the 95 percent confidence interval.

Pursuant to the authority duly vested in me, I hereby adopt the foregoing as the Final Decision of the Department of Health Services.

This Final Decision is signed on August 6, 1999 and shall be effective immediately.

42 U.S.C. § 1396a. State plans for medical assistance

(a) Contents

A State plan for medical assistance must –

* * *

(5) either provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to administer or to supervise the administration of the plan; or provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to administer or to supervise the administration of the plan, except that the determination of eligibility for medical assistance under the plan shall be made by the State or local agency administering the State plan approved under subchapter I or XVI of this chapter (insofar as it relates to the aged) if the State is eligible to participate in the State plan program established under subchapter XVI of this chapter, or by the agency or agencies administering the supplemental security income program established under subchapter XVI or the State plan approved under part A of subchapter IV of this chapter if the State is not eligible to participate in the State plan program established under subchapter XVI of this chapter;

* * *

(9) provide –

(A) that the State health agency, or other appropriate State medical agency (whichever is utilized by the Secretary for the purpose specified in the first sentence of section 1395aa(a) of this title), shall be responsible for establishing and maintaining health standards for private or public institutions in which recipients of medical assistance under the plan may receive care or services.

(B) for the establishment or designation of a State authority or authorities which shall be responsible for establishing and maintaining standards, other than those relating to health, for such institutions, and

(22) include descriptions of (A) the kinds and numbers of professional medical personnel and supporting staff that will be used in the administration of the plan and of the responsibilities they will have, (B) the standards, for private or public institutions in which recipients of medical assistance under the plan may receive care or services, that will be utilized by the State authority or authorities responsible for establishing and maintaining such standards, (C) the cooperative arrangements with State health agencies and State vocational rehabilitation agencies entered into with a view of maximum utilization of and coordination of the provision of medical assistance with the services administered or supervised by such agencies, and (D) other standards and methods that the State will use to assure that medical or remedial care and services provided to recipients of medical assistance are of high quality;

* * *

(27) provide for agreements with every person or institution providing services under the State plan under which such person or institution agrees (A) to keep such records as are necessary fully to disclose the extent of the services provided to individuals receiving assistance under the State plan, and (B) to furnish the State agency or the Secretary with such information, regarding any payments claimed by such person or institution for providing services under the State plan, as the State agency or the Secretary may from time to time request;

* * *

(37) provide for claims payment procedures which (A) ensure that 90 per centum of claims for payment (for which no further written information or substantiation is required in order to make payment) made for services covered under the plan and furnished by health care practitioners through individual or group practices or through shared health facilities are paid within 30 days of the date of receipt of such claims and that 99 per centum of such claims are paid within 90 days of the date of receipt of such claims, and (B) provide for procedures of prepayment and postpayment claims review, including review of appropriate data with respect to the recipient and provider of a service and the nature of the service for which payment is claimed, to ensure the proper and efficient payment of claims and management of the program;

42 C.F.R. § 430.10 The State plan.

The State plan is a comprehensive written statement submitted by the agency describing the nature and scope of its Medicaid program and giving assurance that it will be administered in conformity with the specific requirements of title XIX, the regulations in this Chapter IV, and other applicable official issuances of the Department. The State plan contains all information necessary for HCFA to determine whether the plan can be approved to serve as a basis for Federal financial participation (FFP) in the State program.

42 C.F.R. § 430.12 Submittal of State plans and plan amendments.

* * *

(c) Plan amendments. (1) The plan must provide that it will be amended whenever necessary to reflect –

* * *

(ii) Material changes in State law, organization, or policy, or in the State's operation of the Medicaid program. For changes related to advance directive requirements, amendments must be submitted as soon as possible, but no later than 60 days from the effective date of the change to State law concerning advance directives.

---

42 C.F.R. § 430.20 Effective dates of State plans and plan amendments.

For purposes of FFP, the following rules apply:

(a) New plans. The effective date of a new plan –

(1) May not be earlier than the first day of the quarter in which an approvable plan is submitted to the regional office; and

(2) With respect to expenditures for medical assistance, may not be earlier than the first day on which the plan is in operation on a statewide basis.

(b) Plan amendment. (1) For a plan amendment that provides additional services to individuals eligible under the approved plan, increases the payment amounts for services already included in the plan, or makes additional groups eligible for services provided under the approved plan, the effective date is determined in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section.

(2) For a plan amendment that changes the State's payment method and standards, the rules of § 447.256 of this chapter apply.

(3) For other plan amendments, the effective date may be a date requested by the State if HCFA approves it.

42 C.F.R. § 431.10 Single State agency.

(a) Basis and purpose. This section implements section 1902(a)(5) of the Act, which provides for designation of a single State agency for the Medicaid program.

(b) Designation and certification. A State plan must –

(1) Specify a single State agency established or designated to administer or supervise the administration of the plan; and

(2) Include a certification by the State Attorney General, citing the legal authority for the single State agency to –

(i) Administer or supervise the administration of the plan; and

(ii) Make rules and regulations that it follows in administering the plan or that are binding upon local agencies that administer the plan.

(c) Determination of eligibility. (1) The plan must specify whether the agency that determines eligibility for families and for individuals under 21 is –

(i) The Medicaid agency; or

(ii) The single State agency for the financial assistance program under title IV-A (in the 50 States or the District of Columbia), or under title I or XVI (AABD), in Guam, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands.

(2) The plan must specify whether the agency that determines eligibility for the aged, blind, or disabled is –

(i) The Medicaid agency;

(ii) The single State agency for the financial assistance program under title IV-A (in the 50 States or the District of Columbia) or under title I or XVI (AABD), in Guam, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands; or

(iii) The Federal agency administering the supplemental security income program under title XVI (SSI). In this case, the plan must also specify whether the Medicaid agency or the title IV-A agency determines eligibility for any groups whose eligibility is not determined by the Federal agency.

(d) Agreement with Federal or State agencies. The plan must provide for written agreements between the Medicaid agency and the Federal or other State agencies that determine eligibility for Medicaid, stating the relationships and respective responsibilities of the agencies.

(e) Authority of the single State agency. In order for an agency to qualify as the Medicaid agency –

(1) The agency must not delegate, to other than its own officials, authority to –

(i) Exercise administrative discretion in the administration or supervision of the plan, or

(ii) Issue policies, rules, and regulations on program matters.

(2) The authority of the agency must not be impaired if any of its rules, regulations, or decisions are subject to review, clearance, or similar action by other offices or agencies of the State.

(3) If other State or local agencies or offices perform services for the Medicaid agency, they must not have the authority to change or disapprove any administrative decision of that agency, or otherwise substitute their judgment for that of the Medicaid agency with respect to the application of policies, rules, and regulations issued by the Medicaid agency.

42 C.F.R. § 431.11 Organization for administration.

(a) Basis and purpose. This section, based on section 1902(a)(4) of the Act, prescribes the general organization and staffing requirements for the Medicaid agency and the State plan.

(b) Medical assistance unit. A State plan must provide for a medical assistance unit within the Medicaid agency, staffed with a program director and other appropriate personnel who participate in the development, analysis, and evaluation of the Medicaid program.

(c) Description of organization. (1) The plan must include –

(i) A description of the organization and functions of the Medicaid agency and an organization chart;

(ii) A description of the organization and functions of the medical assistance unit and an organization chart; and

(iii) A description of the kinds and number of professional medical personnel and supporting staff used in the administration of the plan and their responsibilities.

(d) Eligibility determined by other agencies. If eligibility is determined by State agencies other than the Medicaid agency or by local agencies under the supervision of other State agencies, the plan must include a description of the staff designated by those other agencies and the functions they perform in carrying out their responsibility.

42 C.F.R. § 431.610 Relations with standard-setting and survey agencies.

(a) Basis and purpose. This section implements –

(1) Section 1902(a)(9) of the Act, concerning the designation of State authorities to be responsible for establishing and maintaining health and other standards for institutions participating in Medicaid; and

(2) Section 1902(a)(33) of the Act, concerning the designation of the State licensing agency to be responsible for determining whether institutions and agencies meet requirements for participation in the State's Medicaid program.

(3) Section 1919(g)(1)(A) of the Act, concerning responsibilities of the State for certifying the compliance of non-State operated NFs with requirements of participation in the State's Medicaid program.

(b) Designated agency responsible for health standards. A State plan must designate, as the State authority responsible for establishing and maintaining health standards for private or public institutions that provide services to Medicaid recipients, the same State agency that is used by the Secretary to determine qualifications of institutions and suppliers of services to participate in Medicare (see 42 CFR 405.1902). The requirement for establishing and maintaining standards does not apply with respect to Christian Science sanitoria operated, or listed and certified, by the First Church of Christ Scientist, Boston, Mass.

(c) Designated agency responsible for standards other than health standards. The plan must designate the Medicaid agency or other appropriate State authority or authorities to be responsible for establishing and maintaining standards, other than those relating to health, for private or public institutions that provide services to Medicaid recipients.

42 C.F.R. § 447.45 Timely claims payment.

(a) Basis and purpose. This section implements section 1902(a)(37) of the Act by specifying –

(1) State plan requirements for –

(i) Timely processing of claims for payment;

(ii) Prepayment and postpayment claims reviews; and

(2) Conditions under which the Administrator may grant waivers of the time requirements.

(b) Definitions. Claim means (1) a bill for services, (2) a line item of service, or (3) all services for one recipient within a bill.

Clean claim means one that can be processed without obtaining additional information from the provider of the service or from a third party. It includes a claim with errors originating in a State's claims system. It does not include a claim from a provider who is under investigation for fraud or abuse, or a claim under review for medical necessity.

A shared health facility means any arrangement in which –

(1) Two or more health care practitioners practice their professions at a common physical location;

(2) The practitioners share common waiting areas, examining rooms, treatment rooms, or other space, the services of supporting staff, or equipment;

(3) The practitioners have a person (who may himself be a practitioner) –

(i) Who is in charge of, controls, manages, or supervises substantial aspects of the arrangement or operation for the delivery of health or medical services at the common physical location other than the direct furnishing of professional health care services by the practitioners to their patients; or

(ii) Who makes available to the practitioners the services of supporting staff who are not employees of the practitioners; and

(iii) Who is compensated in whole or in part, for the use of the common physical location or related support services, on a basis related to amounts charged or collected for the services rendered or ordered at the location or on any basis clearly unrelated to the value of the services provided by the person; and

(4) At least one of the practitioners received payments on a fee-for-service basis under titles V, XVIII, and

XIX in an amount exceeding $5,000 for any one month during the preceding 12 months or in an aggregate amount exceeding $40,000 during the preceding 12 months.

The term does not include a provider of services (as specified in § 489.2(b) of this chapter), a health maintenance organization (as defined in section 1301(a) of the Public Health Service Act), a hospital cooperative shared services organization meeting the requirements of section 501(e) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, or any public entity.

Third party is defined in § 433.135 of this chapter.

(c) State plan requirements. A State plan must (1) provide that the requirements of paragraphs (d), (e)(2), (f) and (g) of this section are met; and

(2) Specify the definition of a claim, as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, to be used in meeting the requirements for timely claims payment. The definition may vary by type of service (e.g., physician service, hospital service).

(d) Timely processing of claims. (1) The Medicaid agency must require providers to submit all claims no later than 12 months from the date of service.

(2) The agency must pay 90 percent of all clean claims from practitioners, who are in individual or group practice or who practice in shared health facilities, within 30 days of the date of receipt.

(3) The agency must pay 99 percent of all clean claims from practitioners, who are in individual or group practice or who practice in shared health facilities, within 90 days of the date of receipt.

(4) The agency must pay all other claims within 12 months of the date of receipt, except in the following circumstances:

(i) This time limitation does not apply to retroactive adjustments paid to providers who are reimbursed under a retrospective payment system, as defined in § 447.272 of this part.

(ii) If a claim for payment under Medicare has been filed in a timely manner, the agency may pay a Medicaid claim relating to the same services within 6 months after the agency or the provider receives notice of the disposition of the Medicare claim.

(iii) The time limitation does not apply to claims from providers under investigation for fraud or abuse.

(iv) The agency may make payments at any time in accordance with a court order, to carry out hearing decisions or agency corrective actions taken to resolve a dispute, or to extend the benefits of a hearing decision, corrective action, or court order to others in the same situation as those directly affected by it.

(5) The date of receipt is the date the agency receives the claim, as indicated by its date stamp on the claim.

(6) The date of payment is the date of the check or other form of payment.

(e) Waivers. (1) The Administrator may waive the requirements of paragraphs (d) (2) and (3) of this section upon request by an agency if he finds that the agency has shown good faith in trying to meet them. In deciding whether the agency has shown good faith, the Administrator will consider whether the agency has received an unusually high volume of claims which are not clean claims, and whether the agency is making diligent efforts to implement an automated claims processing and information retrieval system.

(2) The agency's request for a waiver must contain a written plan of correction specifying all steps it will take to meet the requirements of this section.

(3) The Administrator will review each case and if he approves a waiver, will specify its expiration date, based on the State's capability and efforts to meet the requirements of this section.

(f) Prepayment and postpayment claims review. (1) For all claims, the agency must conduct prepayment claims review consisting of –

(i) Verification that the recipient was included in the eligibility file and that the provider was authorized to furnish the service at the time the service was furnished;

(ii) Checks that the number of visits and services delivered are logically consistent with the recipient's characteristics and circumstances, such as type of illness, age, sex, service location;

(iii) Verification that the claim does not duplicate or conflict with one reviewed previously or currently being reviewed;

(iv) Verification that a payment does not exceed any reimbursement rates or limits in the State plan; and

(v) Checks for third party liability within the requirements of § 433.137 of this chapter.

(2) The agency must conduct postpayment claims review that meets the requirements of parts 455 and 456 of this chapter, dealing with fraud and utilization control.

OPINION

SUMMARY

Federal Medicaid law barred California's Department of Health Services (DHS) – as the "single agency" designated to administer federally funded Medicaid/Medi-Cal payments for medical services for the poor and indigent – from delegating to the state Controller the audit of claims by medical service providers, and the withholding of alleged overpayments.

FACTS AND PROCEEDINGS IN TRIAL COURT

Appellant Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. (hereafter "Doctor's") is a now-defunct firm which formerly provided doctors with laboratory analysis of specimens of blood, urine, and the like. A large portion of Doctor's income was derived from Medi-Cal patients. Medi-Cal is a State of California program to subsidize medical care for the poor and indigent. Doctor's brought this action to compel respondent Connell, Controller of California, to release approximately $3 million which Doctor's claimed was due for services to Medi-Cal patients.

Medi-Cal payments to patients are funded with federal monies provided under the Medicaid legislation. To obtain federal monies the states must comply with the federal statutory and regulatory requirements of Medicaid. (42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a); Wilder v. Virginia Hospital Assn. (1990) 496 U.S. 498, 502, [110 S.Ct. 2510, 2513-2514, 110 L.Ed.2d 455].)

Federal law specifies that a state must designate a single agency to administer its Medicaid plan (42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(5)), and further, forbids the designated agency from delegating, except to its own officials, authority to exercise discretion in administering the plan. (42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)(1)-(3) (1998).) Federal regulations permit the designated agency to use services of other state agencies, but not to delegate administrative discretion to such agencies: "If other State . . . agencies or offices perform services for the Medicaid agency, they must not have the authority to change or disapprove any administrative decision of that agency, or otherwise substitute their judgment for that of the Medicaid agency with respect to the application of policies, rules, and regulations issued by the Medicaid agency." (42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e)(3) (1998).)

In addition to the single agency and nondelegation requirements, federal law requires states participating in

Medicaid to establish procedures to investigate abuses while protecting providers. (42 U.S.C. §§ 1396a(a)(3), (a)(42); 42 C.F.R. §§ 447.200, 447.202, 455.12-23 (1998).) Carrying out these requirements, California's Welfare and Institutions Code requires DHS to have an administrative appeals process "to review grievances or complaints arising from the findings of an audit or examination. . . . " (Welf. & Inst. Code, § 14171, subd. (a).) California regulations state that "[a] provider may request a hearing . . . to examine any disputed audit or examination finding which results in an adjustment to Medi-Cal program reimbursement. . . . " (Cal. Code Regs, tit. 22, § 51017.) DHS cannot recoup alleged overpayments to a provider until the administrative appeals process is complete, absent special circumstances not present in this case. (Cal. Code Regs, tit. 22, §§ 51017, 51047, subd. (a); Welf. & Inst. Code, § 14170.5, subd. (a).)

California's Medicaid plan, submitted in 1993, certified to the federal government that California's Department of Health Services is the single agency which administers Medi-Cal. A DHS organization chart submitted with California's plan identified a "Fiscal Intermediary Management Division" of DHS. An accompanying description of the Fiscal Intermediary Management Division stated that its Provider Services Section was responsible for all contacts between providers and the State concerning payments, and that its On-Site Management Branch was responsible for audits and reviews concerning accurate payments of claims. The Medi-Cal organization chart also identified an Audits and Investigations Division, whose responsibilities were described in the plan to include identifying excess payments to medical service providers, and taking corrective action.

DHS contracted with a private entity, called EDS, to review and process provider claims for payment for services rendered to Medi-Cal patients. Federal regulations permit the contracting-out of this function to a private concern. (42 C.F.R. §§ 434.4-434.10 (1998); Welf. & Inst. Code, §§ 14000.3, 14104.3, subd. (a), 14105; Cal. Code Regs., tit. 22, §§ 50007, 51529.) EDS reviews the claims, determines the amount owed, approves the claim, and submits it to respondent Controller for issuance of a check or "warrant" to the provider.

Until mid-1997 the Controller's services to DHS for Medi-Cal were apparently limited to issuing checks, a nondiscretionary activity. In June 1997 DHS entered an Interagency Agreement with the Controller under which the Controller agreed to perform audits to identify overpayments to providers, and to take corrective action, presumably withholding sums believed to constitute overpayment. The agreement stated that "DHS will review all reports of overpayments identified by [Controller] for policy and/or procedural implications."

In late November 1997 Doctor's filed the present suit seeking, inter alia, a writ of mandate compelling the Controller to pay Doctor's approximately $3 million allegedly earned and owed for services to Medi-Cal patients. Doctor's alleged that in September 1997, without notice to Doctor's, the Controller commenced withholding payments due Doctor's and already approved for payment by EDS. Doctor's urged that DHS had unlawfully delegated its Medi-Cal powers to the Controller, and that the Controller had violated the administrative procedures for dealing with overpayments. Doctor's further claimed that the Controller's refusal to pay the claims had driven Doctor's out of business.

In response to Doctor's suit, the Controller contended that she was justified in withholding payments because Doctor's claims contained insufficient information concerning services provided, and reflected unusually high claims amounts for the services provided.

The trial court rejected Doctor's claim that DHS had illegally delegated audit and overpayment remedial functions to the Controller. However, the trial court found that the Controller was obliged under Government Code section 926.15, subdivision (a), to pay provider claims approved by EDS, less contested amounts, within 30 days after receipt. It granted a writ of mandate ordering the Controller to comply with section 926.15, subdivision (a).

Both sides appealed from the judgment.

DISCUSSION

(1) As a preliminary matter, we reject the Controller's argument that Doctor's lacks standing to bring the present claims. The Controller relies on Sobky v. Smoley (E.D. Cal 1994) 855 F.Supp. 1123, a federal case holding that methadone recipients and providers lack standing under 42 United States Code section 1983 to enforce the "single state agency" requirement of Medicaid law, because that requirement benefits them only indirectly (through more efficient administration of Medicaid).

However Doctor's sued here for a writ of mandate, made available under California Code of Civil Procedure section 1085. While section 1983 of 42 United States Code requires violation of a private right, privilege, or immunity to confer standing, section 1085 of the California Code of Civil Procedure creates a broad right to issuance of a writ of mandate "to compel performance of an act which the law specifically enjoins." Section 1085 "is available not only to those who have enforceable private rights, but to those who are 'beneficially interested' parties within the meaning of Code of Civil Procedure section 1086." (California Homeless & Housing Coalition v. Anderson (1995) 31 Cal.App.4th 450, 458 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 639] [per Chin, J., homeless coalition has standing despite Sobsky rule to seek mandamus compelling state agency to comply with federal AFDC law].)

Doctor's is a "beneficially interested party" and has standing to pursue its action in mandamus against the Controller.

We turn to the merits.

(2) State participation in Medicaid is voluntary, but once a state elects to participate and receive federal funds, it is obliged to fully comply with federal statutes and regulations. (Frank v. Kizer (1989) 213 Cal.App.3d 919, 923 [261 Cal.Rptr. 882].)

(3) As noted above, federal Medicaid statutes and regulations require designation of a single state agency to administer a state's Medicaid program, and further, forbid delegation of the agency's power to make administrative judgments or decisions about the application of the agency's policies, rules and regulations. Consistent with these provisions, California's Medi-Cal plan affirmed compliance with the single agency requirement and stated that auditing of provider claims and recapture of overpayments would be done by DHS.

The interagency agreement, however, authorized the Controller to audit provider claims and "take corrective action." Delegation of these powers to the Controller was contrary to DHS's representation to the federal government (in DHS's Medicaid plan) that audits and corrective action would be DHS's province. Further, the authority extended to the Controller to "take corrective action" was authority to change or disapprove prior decisions by DHS's agent (EDS) to pay provider claims. This transfer of authority from DHS to the Controller violated the federal statutory and regulatory bar on delegation by the "single designated agency" of discretionary authority. It improperly empowered the Controller to "change or disapprove" administrative decisions by DHS and its agent.

The interagency agreement's recitation that "DHS will review all reports of overpayments identified by [Controller] for policy and/or procedural implications" does not save the delegation of authority from violating federal law. The express ban on delegating discretionary power contains no exception permitting delegation so long as decisions are later "reviewed" (in some unspecified manner) by the designated "single agency." The bar to delegation of discretionary power would be easily circumvented if such a provision in an interagency agreement were given effect.

The Controller could not lawfully exercise power to audit provider payments and withhold alleged excesses.[1]

The Controller argues that she has an independent duty under California law to supervise payments from the treasury of California. While this is generally true, California modified this duty with respect to Medi-Cal payments by accepting federal monies and agreeing to be bound by federal laws requiring designation of a single California agency to administer those payments.

Neither side has cited legislative history or case law discussing the legislative and regulatory reasons for the single agency and non-delegation rules. But the circumstances of the present case suggest some of these reasons. First, such rules, if adhered to, avoid the delay entailed when several state agencies in succession review claims before payment is made. Here, DHS's agent, EDS, approved the claims, but then the Controller held them up. Second, the rules offer a degree of assurance that state agencies reviewing provider claims will have knowledge and expertise concerning medical expense claims and the peculiar rules and regulations which govern Medicaid claims. By contrast, a non-specialized agency such as the Controller, newly embarked on the business of reviewing medical provider claims, might well lack the expertise needed for prompt, fair review.

[1] While it is not controlling precedent, we note that the federal District Court for the Central District of California reached the same conclusion as we do, on the same reasoning, in its unpublished decision filed April 9, 1998, in Health Line Clinical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell, (U.S. Dist.Ct. (C.D.Cal.)) No. CV-98-1620-RJK.

And of course, prompt, knowledgeable, fair review and payment of provider claims are essential to the basic statutory purpose to provide medical care to the indigent and elderly. Private providers will soon be discouraged from offering Medicaid services if they are not paid promptly and fairly for their services. Indeed, providers will not be able to provide such services if they go out of business because the state improperly withholds payments – as Doctor's alleges occurred here.

In accordance with the foregoing, we will modify the trial court's judgment to require that the Controller release all sums which EDS has approved for payment to Doctor's, without prejudice to subsequent audits and claims for overpayment by DHS, in compliance with the governing rules and regulations.

DISPOSITION

The judgment of the trial court is modified to require Controller to forthwith pay to Doctor's all amounts approved for payment by the Department of Health Service's Fiscal Intermediary, EDS. As so modified, the judgment is affirmed. Plaintiff and Appellant shall recover its costs on appeal.

LILLIE, P.J, and JOHNSON, J., concur.

A petition for a rehearing was denied March 3, 1999, and the petition of defendant and appellant for review by the Supreme Court was denied May 26, 1999. Kennard, J., and Brown, J., were of the opinion that the petition should be granted.

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. The sole issue presented by this case is whether the federal single state agency requirements of 42 United States Code ("U.S.C."), Section 1396a(a)(5) and 42 Code of Federal Regulations ('C.F.R."), Section 431.10(e) prohibit the California State Department of Health Services ("DHS"), the state Medicaid agency in California, from delegating to the California State Controller ("State Controller" or "SCO") the authority to perform Medi-Cal (the Medicaid Program in California) audits on behalf of DHS.

JURISDICTION

This Honorable Court does not have jurisdiction to review the decision of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, for which the petition for writ of certiorari herein is being sought, RCJ Medical Services, Inc. v. Bonta (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 986 ("RCJ") , which is reprinted in the appendix to the petition at 1-38.

The jurisdiction of this Court to review decisions of the state courts is codified in 28 U.S.C. §1257. (App. 79) This Court lacks jurisdiction to review RCJ by writ of certiorari because the jurisdictional prerequisites of 28 U.S.C. §1257 are not met.

First, under 28 U.S.C. §1257, Supreme Court review of state court decisions is available only with respect to "[f nal judgments or decrees rendered by the highest court of a State in hich a decision could be had." Following issuance of the remittitur n RCJ, the trial court held a status conference at which, over DHS' objections the court set a new briefing schedule and hearing on the merits for April 26, 2002 because the Court of Appeal had reversed the trial court's judgment without directions. (App. 63-70)[1/] The hearing has been continued to May 6, 2002. (App. 75-76) Petitioner, RCJ Medical Services, Inc. ("RCJ"), has argued to the trial court that the Court of Appeal's unqualified reversal of the judgment left the case "at large" for further proceedings. According to RCJ, the trial court should now decide the issue of whether, under controlling federal Medicaid laws, DHS may rely on the audit findings of the State Controller when the State Controller's audit predated the July 1, 1998 effective date of the State Plan Amendment which, according to RCJ, authorized the State Controller to perform Medi-Cal audits. RCJ contends that the Court of Appeal did not address this "very important and distinct issue," which " presents a separate question of federal law." (App. 71-74) This issue is the second of the two alleged federal questions presented for review by this Court. Thus, RCJ is simultaneously seeking this Court's review of the purported federal question while seeking judgment in the trial court on the very same issue. Therefore, according to petitioner RCJ's own argument to the trial court, the first jurisdictional prerequisite of 28 U.S.C. §1257, that there be a final judgment and that the federal question be decided therein, has not been met. (See, e.g., Flynt v. Ohio, 451 U.S. 619 (1981); Houston v. Moore, 3 Wheat. 433, 434 (1818); San Diego Gas & Elec. Co. v. San Diego, 450 U.S. 621, 632-33 (1981); O'Dell v.. Espinoza, 456 U.S. 430 (1982).)

Second, 28 U.S.C. §1257 requires that the final judgment must reflect a substantial federal question that has been properly raised and necessarily decided in the State Court proceedings. As set forth below, neither of the two questions presented in the petition was properly raised and decided below.

Third, the only potential basis for jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C.§1257(a) for this Court to review the State Court of Appeal decision in RCJ would be if "any title, right, privilege, or immunity is specially set up or claimed under the ... statutes of ... the United States." Without addressing the issue, RCJ assumes it has a federal right to enforce the provisions of 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e), which RCJ alleges requires DHS to audit its Medi-Cal claims. However, 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e) by its terms sets forth requirements for an agency to qualify as the state Medicaid agency. RCJ has no private right to enforce these provisions. (See San Lazaro (9th Cir. 2002) 278 F.3d 932, rehg. den. and sub. opn. (9th Cir.(Cal.)) 2002 WL 571674 ("San Lazaro") and cases cited therein.) RCJ also claims that jurisdiction exists pursuant to Rule 10 of the Rules of this Court. (Pet. 2-3) However, Rule 10 does not confer jurisdiction for this Court to review a state court judgment by writ of certiorari. Rule 10 merely sets forth considerations governing this Court's granting of discretionary review on certiorari.

STATUTES AND REGULATIONS

The section of the petition entitled "STATUTES AND REGULATIONS" fails to comply with Rule 14(1)(f) of the Rules of this Court. In this section, petitioner misrepresents the federal Medicaid single state agency requirements for auditing Medicaid claims by describing and paraphrasing mostly irrelevant federal Medicaid provisions in an inaccurate and misleading manner instead of complying with Rule 14(1)(f) by setting out the statutes and regulations involved in the case "verbatim with appropriate citation" or by "citation alone" with the pertinent text set out in the appendix . (Pet. 3-5)

The petition cites several Medicaid statutes and regulations [42 U.S.C. §1396a, subparts (a)(5) and (a)(9) and 42 C.F.R. §§431.610, 431.615, 431.621, and 431.630] as specifying "those limited exceptions where the single state Medicaid agency may delegate authority to other state or local agencies, ... all of which allow the single state Medicaid agency to enter into relationships with other state agencies." (Pet. 4) Petitioner lays the groundwork here for a later argument which incorrectly assumes that 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e) is a general prohibition against the single state Medicaid agency delegating authority to other state or local agencies and that the "limited exceptions" to this general prohibition against delegation must be contained in a statute or regulation.

There is no statutory or regulatory authority for RCJ's assumption that any delegation of authority by the state Medicaid agency must be contained in a Medicaid regulation or statute. None of the provisions cited by RCJ is a "limited exception" to a general prohibition against the single state Medicaid agency delegating authority. (See Pet. App. 76-77, 84-85.) These provisions set forth state plan requirements which have nothing to do with 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) or 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e).

These state plan requirements relate to specific facets of the Medicaid program and are intended to maximize utilization of and coordination of the provision of medical assistance with services administered or supervised by other agencies and to assure that services provided to recipients of medical assistance are of high quality. RCJ incorrectly states that there is a general requirement that "each State Medicaid Plan ... describe the single state Medicaid agency's relations with other state and local agencies." (Pet. 4) RCJ erroneously insinuates that a state plan must mention all agencies that perform services, including auditing services, for a state Medicaid agency. RCJ cites no statute or regulation that contains such a requirement and, indeed, there is none.

Citing 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(22) and 42 C.F.R. §431.11(c), RCJ implies that the state plan's organizational description of the single state Medicaid agency must indicate any other agency that performs services for it. (Pet. 4) Neither the statute nor the regulation contains such a requirement. (Pet. App. 77-83)

RCJ erroneously alleges that "[u]nder 42 C.F.R. § 447.45(f), the single state Medicaid agency must conduct the prepayment and postpayment reviews. There is no statute or regulation permitting such postpayment and prepayment reviews to be delegated by the single state Medicaid agency to another agency." (Pet. 4-5) The authorizing statute, 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(37), sets forth state plan requirements regarding claims payment procedures and procedures of prepayment and postpayment claims review to ensure the proper and efficient payment of claims and management of the program. (Pet. App. 78) 42 C.F.R. §447.45(f) makes the single state agency responsible for ensuring that prepayment and postpayment claims review covers specific areas. (Pet. App. 85-90) In fact, the prepayment claims review required by 42 C.F.R. §447.45(f)(1) is the type of screening that DHS' fiscal intermediary performs for DHS using its limited editing capabilities. Again, RCJ incorrectly assumes that, because there is no statute or regulation expressly authorizing DHS to delegate this task, any such delegation is prohibited by 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e). (See Pet. App. 4-5)

RCJ incorrectly implies that under 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(27) Medicaid providers are not required to agree to furnish records to any other state agency. (Pet. 5) 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(27) does not prohibit a state Medicaid agency from designating another state agency which performs audits on its behalf as the agency to which a provider must furnish records. (Pet. App. 77-78)

42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(42), which RCJ has not mentioned, provides that a state plan for medical assistance must–

> "provide that the records of any entity participating in the plan and providing services reimbursable on a cost-related basis will be audited as the Secretary determines to be necessary to insure that proper payments are made under the plan." (App. 79)

RCJ has also failed to mention 42 C.F.R. §§431.107 and 431.108. (App. 80-83) 42 C.F.R. §431.107 sets forth state plan requirements, based on 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(27) and other provisions, that relate to the keeping of records and the furnishing of information by all providers of services. This regulation requires the State plan to provide for provider agreements in which the providers must agree to certain requirements related to the keeping of records and the furnishing of information. The States may impose additional requirements for participation in the State's Medicaid program. (See 42 C.F.R. §431.108(b)(2), App. 81-82.)[2/]

2. 42 C.F.R.§430.0, which sets forth the Medical Assistance Program description, states:

> "Title XIX of the Social Security Act, enacted in 1965, authorizes Federal grants to States for medical assistance to low-income persons who are age 65 or over, blind, disabled, or members of families with dependent children or qualified pregnant women or children. The program is jointly financed by the Federal and State governments and administered by States. Within broad Federal rules, each State decides eligible groups, types and range of services, and administrative and operating procedures. Payments for services are made directly by the State to the individuals or entities that furnish the services." (App. 80)

42 C.F.R. §430.1, which sets forth the Scope of Subchapter C – Medical Assistance Programs, states, in relevant part:

> "The regulations in subchapter C set forth State plan requirements, standards, procedures, and conditions for obtaining Federal financial participation. (F.F.P.)" (App. 80)

The regulations in subchapter C provide the Federal

Lastly, RCJ states:

> "State Plan Amendments must be submitted by the single state agency and approved by U.S. DHHS when there are material changes in the organization or policy of the state Medicaid program. See 42 C.F.R. §430.12(c)(1)(ii) [1999]. Appendix at 79." (Pet. 5)

DHS' delegation of audit authority to the State Controller is not a material change in the organization or policy of the state Medicaid agency and does not require a state plan amendment.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In accordance with 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10(b)(1), the California Medicaid State Plan under title XIX of the Social Security Act designates the California State Department of Health Services ("DHS") as the single State agency to administer or to supervise the administration of California's State Plan. California's Medicaid program is known as Medi-Cal. (Pet. App. 2-4)

The Health Care Financing Administration ("HCFA"), part of the United States Department of Health and Human Services, is the federal agency responsible for administering the Medicaid program. (Pet. App. 2) HCFA is authorized to make payments to states whose medical assistance plans meet the requirements of the federal statute. (42 U.S.C. §1396) (Pet. App. 3-4)

Postpayment audits of a Medi-Cal provider's claims are required under federal law. (42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(37); 42 C.F.R. §§447.45(c)(1), 447.45(f), 456.3) (Pet. App. 78, 85-90; App. 83)

On July 1, 1997, DHS and the California State Controller ("SCO" or "Controller")) entered into an interagency agreement "for the purpose requirements for a State to obtain FFP. The States are allowed to impose additional requirements for participation in the State's Medicaid program.

of increasing the State's auditing ability to identify and recover California Medical Assistance Program (Medi-Cal Program) overpayments...." The interagency agreement authorized the Controller "to perform audit services relating to the Medi-Cal Program." (Pet. App. 14)

This case arises from a postpayment audit of RCJ's Medi-Cal claims by SCO. Pursuant to California Government Code §§ 925.6, 926.15, and 12410 and pursuant to the July 1, 1997 interagency agreement between SCO and DHS, SCO conducted an audit of RCJ's Medi-Cal claims for medical testing services which were submitted during the period January 9, 1997 through October 9, 1997. The purpose of this review was to determine RCJ's compliance with the applicable provisions of the Medi-Cal program governing the performance of laboratory services. SCO's audit report concluded that RCJ had been overpaid $1,296,801.00 by the Medi-Cal program for the services rendered. SCO conducted a follow-up audit of RCJ's Medi-Cal claims submitted for medical testing services which were performed during the period of October 10, 1997 through March 26, 1998. This audit report concluded that RCJ had been overpaid $164,766.00 by the Medi-Cal program for the services rendered. RCJ appealed from the audit findings of both reports. These two appeals, Appeal Nos. SR8-0298-550-RC and SR8-0398-644-RC, were consolidated for hearing and decision. (See Pet. App. 42-73)[3/]

In its administrative appeal, RCJ argued that the single state agency requirements of federal Medicaid law prohibit the Controller from conducting Medi-Cal audits. (Pet. App. 48-52) Contrary to RCJ's representation, there is no indication that RCJ raised any issue related to the State Medicaid Plan.

3. A review of medical records and interviews with physicians and patients demonstrated that RCJ billed Medi-Cal for laboratory tests that were not supported by the referring physician's medical records, that were not ordered by the referring physicians, that were not performed, and that were not provided to the beneficiaries indicated on RCJ's laboratory requisition forms. Moreover, there is no indication that relatives of patients were interviewed. (Pet. App. 63-67)

On August 6, 1999, DHS issued its Final Decision in RCJ's audit appeals. DHS determined that the SCO has the authority to audit Medi-Cal providers. (Pet. App. 42-73)

On October 28, 1999, RCJ filed a petition for writ of mandate pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure §1094.5 ("petition") seeking to set aside DHS' Final Decision issued August 6, 1999. RCJ alleged that the decision was "invalid because the Controller lacks the authority under federal Medicaid law to audit Medi-Cal payments" and "arbitrary and capricious to the extent that it imposes liability for a Medi-Cal overpayment on an independent clinical laboratory when the laboratory performs testing pursuant to an order of a physician, which misidentifies the patient for whom the testing was performed." (App. 7) The only issue raised in the petition and briefed by RCJ was whether the single state agency provisions of 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) prohibit DHS from delegating audit authority to the State Controller. (App. 1-19)

On May 2, 2000, the trial court granted the petition. The Court's minute order dated May 2, 2000 states, in relevant part:

> "The issues in this case are conclusively determined by the Court of Appeal Decision in DOCTOR'S MEDICAL LABORATORY INC. v. CONNELL, 69 Cal.App. 4th 891 (1999), which decision is final and binding upon this court. In its decision the Court of Appeal held that the Controller could not lawfully exercise power to audit payments of Medi-Cal claims submitted by providers like petitioner.
> To the extent that respondent's final administrative decision holds that the State Controller has the authority to audit Medi-Cal claims, and insofar as it relies upon said audit for any finding of fact, said decision is inconsistent with the aforesaid decision of the Court of Appeal, respondent has not proceeded in the manner required by law, and its final administrative decision constitutes an abuse of discretion within the meaning of Section 1094.5 of the Code of Civil Procedure." (App. 23-24)

On May 18, 2000, judgment was entered granting a peremptory writ of mandate. The Judgment Granting Peremptory Writ of Mandate states; in relevant part:

> "IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED that a peremptory writ of mandate be issued requiring the respondent, the Director of the State Department of Health Services to set aside her Final Decision in this case insofar as it relies upon the audit findings of the State Controller." (App. 27)

On May 19, 2000, a Peremptory Writ of Mandate issued commanding the Director of DHS to "Set aside the Final Decision of the State Department of Health Services in this matter insofar as it relies upon the audit findings of the State Controller." (App. 28)

Accordingly, the sole issue raised and ruled on in the trial court was whether the single state agency provisions of 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) prohibit DHS, the state Medicaid agency in California, from delegating to the State Controller the authority to perform Medi-Cal audits on its behalf.

On July 19, 2000, DHS filed a Notice of Appeal. On appeal, RCJ argued that the single state agency requirement of federal Medicaid law, as set forth in 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and its implementing regulation, 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e), prohibits DHS from delegating audit authority to the State Controller. RCJ contended that HCFA's interpretation of the statute and regulation, as demonstrated by its approval of a state plan amendment which reflected the fact that the State Controller performs Medi-Cal audits on behalf of DHS, was entitled to no special deference and, in any event, was immaterial because the Controller audited RCJ before HCFA expressed its approval. (See Pet. App. 1-38)

In its published decision filed August 23, 2001, the Court of Appeal reversed the judgment of the trial court. The Court held that federal Medicaid law, and specifically the single state agency requirement, does not prohibit DHS from delegating to the State Controller's Office the authority to audit Medi-Cal providers. (RCJ, Pet. App. 1-38)

suggests that a state Medicaid may delegate functions such as auditing to another state agency. The Court rejected RCJ's contention that the plain language of 42 C.F.R §431.10(e) prohibited DHS from delegating audit authority to the State Controller and held that HCFA's interpretation of its own regulation, 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e), as allowing DHS' delegation of Medi-Cal audit authority to the State Controller was based on a reasonable construction of the federal statutory single state agency provision and the implementing regulation and entitled to deference. HCFA's interpretation was set forth in a March 24, 1999 letter from Sally Richardson, the Director of HCFA's Center for Medicaid and State Operations, to DHS, which expressed approval of the State Controller's audit authority, and was reflected by HCFA's approval on December 17, 1999 of a state plan amendment which provided, "The State Controller's Office will perform audits of Medi-Cal expenditures on behalf of DHS and will submit its findings and recommendations to DHS for appropriate action." The state plan amendment was approved with an effective date of July 1, 1998, the effective date of the amended interagency agreement in effect at the time of the approval. HCFA's December 17, 1999 letter to DHS, which accompanied a copy of the state plan amendment, stated in relevant part, "[The state plan amendment] amends the State plan to reflect the fact that the State Controller's Office performs audits of Medi-Cal expenditures on behalf of the Department of Health Services. Our review of [the state plan amendment] was conducted in accordance with the requirements of section 1902(a)(5) of the Social Security Act (the Act) and the regulatory provisions at 42 C.F.R. 431.10 and 431.11." (See Pet. App. 1-38.)

The Court rejected RCJ's contention that HCFA's interpretation of 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e), as reflected in the March 24, 1999 Sally Richardson letter and HCFA's December 17, 1999 approval of the state plan amendment effective July 1, 1998, was immaterial because the Controller audited it before HCFA took these actions. The Court concluded that HCFA's interpretation of 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e) was squarely presented since at the time DHS issued its final decision HCFA had by the Richardson letter expressed its opinion that the delegation of audit authority to the Controller was fully compliant with federal single state agency requirements and at the time the trial court issued its writ of mandate HCFA had in addition approved the state plan amendment. (Pet. App. 23)

The significance of the March 24, 1999 Sally Richardson letter and the December 17, 1999 state plan amendment to the Court of Appeal decision is that they are expressions by HCFA of its approval of the State Controller's delegated audit authority and reflect HCFA's interpretation of the single state agency provisions of 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) as not prohibiting DHS from delegating Medi-Cal audit authority to the State Controller. The state plan amendment, as such, was not necessary in order for DHS' contractual delegation of Medi-Cal audit authority to the State Controller to comply with these single state agency provisions. Thus, the effective date of the state plan amendment relative to the audit of RCJ is irrelevant. The single state agency provisions of 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) had not changed and HCFA's expressed interpretation of those provisions as not prohibiting DHS' delegation of Medi-Cal audit authority to the State Controller applies regardless of when the audit of RCJ was performed. DHS had the authority to delegate Medi-Cal audit authority to the State Controller, which it did contractually through an interagency agreement. The state plan amendment was not necessary to "give" DHS the authority to delegate Medi-Cal audit authority to the State Controller.

On August 28, 2001, RCJ filed a petition for rehearing in the Court of Appeal, which was denied on August 30, 2001. (Pet. App. 39)

On September 18, 2001, RCJ filed a petition for review in the California Supreme Court, which was denied on December 12, 2001. (Pet. App. 75; App. 61-62)

The Court of Appeal issued its remittitur on December 28, 2001. (Pet. App. 74)

RCJ'S STATEMENT OF THE CASE FAILS TO COMPLY WITH RULE 14(1)(g)(i) AND IS MISLEADING

RCJ's Statement of the Case fails to comply with Rule 14(1)(g)(i). RCJ fails to specify the stage in the proceedings, both in the court of first instance and the appellate courts, when the federal questions it seeks review of were raised; the method or manner in raising them and the way in which they were passed on by those courts; and pertinent quotations of specific portions of the record or summary thereof, with specific reference to the places in the record where the matter appears, so as to show that the federal question was timely and properly raised and that this Court has jurisdiction to review the judgment on a writ of certiorari.

Furthermore, RCJ makes a number of misleading statements as to the Court of Appeal decision in RCJ. (Pet. App. 9-10) RCJ states:

> "The California Court of Appeal contended it did not have to follow the previous decision of the Court in Doctor's because Doctor's had been issued before State DHS had submitted and the federal government had approved the December 17,1999 State Plan Amendment describing for the first time in the Plan the Controller's role in auditing Medi-Cal providers. Appendix at 21-23. [¶] In its August 23, 2001 decision, the Court of Appeal concluded that U.S. DHHS' approval of the December 17, 1999, State Plan Amendment constituted that agency's interpretation of the governing federal Medicaid regulations and statutes. And, according to the California Court of Appeal, even though the federal Medicaid regulation at issue, 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) (which had not changed since Doctor's was decided), expressly prohibits the delegation of administrative discretion by the single state Medicaid agency to another state agency, the federal government's approval of the State Plan Amendment was reasonable and entitled to controlling deference. [¶] ... the California Court of Appeal relied heavily on the December 17, 1999, State Plan Amendment to distinguish its holding in RCJ's case from its previous holding in Doctor's and to permit State DHS to delegate authority to the State Controller, ..." (Pet. 9)

The Court of Appeal disagreed with RCJ's contention that Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 891 ("Doctor's I") controlled the resolution of this case, explaining that Doctor's was filed on February 1, 1999, before HCFA expressed its approval of DHS' delegation of audit authority to the State Controller and its opinion that the delegation was fully compliant with federal single state agency requirements in the March 24, 1999 Sally Richardson and by virtue of its approval on December 17, 1999 of a state plan amendment reflecting the fact that the SCO performs audits of Medi-Cal expenditures on behalf of DHS. (Pet. App.22) The Court of Appeal relied on the state plan amendment and the Richardson letter as expressions of HCFA's interpretation of the federal single state agency provisions as not prohibiting DHS from delegating audit authority to the State Controller; the Court did not rely on the state plan amendment "to permit State DHS to delegate authority to the State Controller." (Pet. App. 1-39)

The Court of Appeal also rejected RCJ's contention that the plain language and "obvious" meaning of 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and its implementing regulation, 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e), prohibit DHS from delegating audit authority to the State Controller. The Court found that, although Congress did not address the precise question at issue, the statutory language plainly suggests that a state Medicaid agency may delegate functions to another state agency. The Court of Appeal further found that HCFA's construction of the federal statutory single state agency requirement in 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) is a permissible and reasonable one and that HCFA's construction of 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) as reflected in Ms. Richardson's March 24, 1999 letter and the December 17, 1999 approval of the state plan amendment as allowing DHS to delegate audit responsibility to the State Controller is entitled to deference. The Court observed that HCFA has, from the inception of Medicaid, interpreted the regulation as allowing a single state Medicaid agency to delegate responsibilities to another state agency. The Court had before it the history of, and case law discussing, the single state agency requirements, which were absent in the Doctor's I case. (Pet. App. 1-39; App 50-58)

RCJ further alleges:

> "Although the California Court of Appeal relied heavily on the December 17, 1999, State Plan Amendment to distinguish its holding in RCJ's case from its previous holding in Doctor's and to permit State DHS to delegate authority to the State Controller, the Court disregarded the legal impact of the Plan Amendment's July 1, 1998, effective date. Thus even > though the State Controller audited RCJ while the State Plan indicated that only State DHS did so and well before July 1, 1998, the effective date of the Plan Amendment, the Court seemingly allowed the Plan Amendment to be applied to RCJ (without expressly deciding the issue of the legal impact of the plan amendment's effective date). Appendix at 23." (Pet. 9-10)

The Court of Appeal addressed and rejected RCJ's contention that HCFA's action was immaterial because the Controller audited it before HCFA expressed its approval. (Pet. App. 23) As set forth above, the Court of Appeal relied on the state plan amendment and the Richardson letter as expressions of HCFA's interpretation of the federal single state agency provisions as not prohibiting DHS from delegating audit authority to the State Controller. (Pet. App. 22) The Court did not rely on the state plan amendment "to permit State DHS to delegate authority to the State Controller," as RCJ misrepresents. The state plan amendment, which merely reflects the fact that the State Controller audits Medi-Cal expenditures on behalf of DHS, was unnecessary in order for DHS to permissibly delegate audit authority to the State Controller and, therefore, its effective date is irrelevant. The fact that the State Controller's audit of RCJ took place before the effective date of the state plan amendment has no legal impact. The provisions of 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) were the same at the time of RCJ's audit as they were when HCFA expressed its interpretation of these provisions through Ms. Richardson's March 24, 1999 letter and HCFA's December 17, 1999 approval of the state plan amendment.

NEITHER OF THE TWO QUESTIONS PRESENTED IN THE PETITION WAS PROPERLY RAISED AND DECIDED BELOW

Both of the questions presented by RCJ incorrectly suggest that the significance of the state plan amendment to the Court of Appeal decision in RCJ was that it authorized DHS to delegate to the State Controller the authority to perform Medi-Cal audits. The questions erroneously suggest that the Court of Appeal based its decision on the fact that HCFA had approved a state plan amendment which purportedly allowed DHS to delegate audit authority to the State Controller. This, in turn, incorrectly suggests that the effective date of the state plan amendment is significant to the Court's decision. In fact, the Court of Appeal decision was based on deference given to HCFA's interpretation of 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e) as allowing DHS to delegate Medi-Cal audit authority to the State Controller, which interpretation was expressed by means of the Sally Richardson letter and the state plan amendment. The significance of the state plan amendment, as well as the earlier Richardson letter, to the Court of Appeal's decision was that it indicated HCFA's interpretation that 42 U.S.C.§1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e) do not prohibit DHS from delegating Medi-Cal audit authority to the State Controller.

RCJ is improperly attempting to get this Court to decide the question, totally separate from the issue of the single state agency requirements of 42 U.S.C.§1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e), of whether delegation of Medicaid audit authority by a state Medicaid agency is invalid in the absence of a state plan provision.

PETITIONER'S "SUMMARY OF WHY THE AUGUST 23, 2001 DECISION IS WRONG" IS ERRONEOUS

RCJ contends that the plain language of 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e) prohibits DHS from delegating audit authority to the State Controller, that such a delegation of audit authority is an exception to "the general regulatory prohibition of 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e)" and would require a federal statute or regulation "expressly [permitting] a single state Medicaid agency to delegate such authority to another agency," and that under 42 U.S.C.§1396a(a)(37) and 42 C.F.R.§447.45(f) only the single state Medicaid agencies are authorized to perform postpayment reviews. Therefore, according to RCJ, the California Court of Appeal should not have considered HCFA's interpretation of its own regulation as allowing DHS to delegate audit authority to the State Controller and should not have considered the legislative and regulatory history of 42 U.S.C.§1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e). RCJ further contends that, in any event, the State Controller's audit of RCJ was invalid because at the time the audit was performed California's State Plan did not indicate that the State Controller performs Medi-Cal audits on behalf of DHS, purportedly in violation of 42 U.S.C.§431.11(c). (Pet. 10-11)

RCJ's basic assumption and bald assertion that the plain language 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e) prohibits DHS from delegating audit authority to the State Controller is erroneous. Both the California Court of Appeal in RCJ and the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit in San Lazaro (9th Cir. 2002) 278 F.3d 932, rehg. den. and sub. opn. (9th Cir.(Cal.)) 2002 WL 571674, filed April 17, 2002 , have exhaustively reviewed the language and the history of 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e) and have correctly concluded that neither the statute nor the implementing regulation prohibits DHS from delegating audit authority to the State Controller. (See Pet. App. 1-39.) RCJ has no authority whatsoever for its contention that a federal statute or regulation must expressly permit a single state Medicaid agency to delegate audit authority to another state agency. Moreover, 42 U.S.C.§1396a(a)(37) and 42 C.F.R.§447.45(f) do nøt prohibit a single state Medicaid agency from delegating audit authority to the State Controller. 42 U.S.C.§1396a(a)(37) sets forth state plan requirements regarding claims payment procedures and procedures of prepayment and postpayment claims review to ensure the proper and efficient payment of claims and management of the program. 42 C.F.R.§447.45(f) sets forth requirements that the prepayment and postpayment review must meet.

Furthermore, the State Controller's audit of RCJ was not void because at the time of the audit the state plan may not have indicated that the State Controller performs Medi-Cal audits on behalf of DHS, allegedly in violation of 42 U.S.C.§1396a(a)(22) and 42 C.F.R §431.11(c). 42U.S.C. §1396a(a)(22) provides, in relevant part, that a state plan must "include descriptions of (A) the kinds and numbers of professional medical personnel and supporting staff that will be used in the administration of the plan and of the responsibilities they will have...." Its implementing regulation, 42 C.F.R§431.11, "prescribes the general organization and staffing requirements for the Medicaid agency and the State plan." 42 C.F.R. §431.11(c) requires that the State plan include "(i) A description of the organization and functions of the Medicaid agency and an organization chart; (ii) A description of the organization and functions of the medical assistance unit and an organization chart; and (iii) A description of the kinds and number of professional medical personnel and supporting staff used in the administration of the plan and their responsibilities." (Emphasis added.) 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(22) and 42 C.F.R. §431.11 do not require that any agency that performs audit services for the single state Medicaid agency be mentioned in the state plan in the organizational description of the Medicaid agency or elsewhere. Nor does any other statutory provision or regulation contain such a requirement.

Moreover, RCJ's petition for writ of mandate and its memorandum of points and authorities in support of its motion for peremptory writ of mandate in the trial court did not raise this issue. RCJ's pleadings below never mentioned 42 U.S.C.§1396a(a)(22). The first time RCJ mentioned 42 C.F.R.§431.11(c) below was in its respondent's brief in the Court of Appeal in a section entitled "D. THE FEDERAL MEDICAID SINGLE STATE AGENCY REQUIREMENTS FOR AUDITING AND REVIEWING MEDICAID CLAIMS AND PAYMENTS," in which RCJ states: "Additionally, the State Medicaid Plan must also contain a description of the organization and function of the single state Medicaid agency and its personnel. 42 C.F.R.§431.11(c)(i) [1999]. The single state Medicaid agency must further include a description of the kind and number of professional medical personnel to be used in administering the plan." No mention was made of 42 C.F.R.§431.11(c) in any of the arguments in respondent's brief. RCJ did not mention 42 C.F.R. §431.11(c) in its petition for rehearing, and the only place in its petition for review in the California Supreme Court where RCJ mentioned the 42 C.F.R.§431.11(c) was in its Statement of the Case, where RCJ basically repeated what it had said in its respondent's brief in the Court of Appeal.

RCJ HAS PROVIDED NO COMPELLING REASON FOR GRANTING A WRIT OF CERTIORARI

Rule 10 of the Court provides, in relevant part, "Review on a writ of certiorari is not a matter of right, but of judicial discretion. A petition for a writ of certiorari will be granted only for compelling reasons." There is no compelling reason for this High Court to grant review in this case. This case does not provide any of the reasons the Court considers under Rule 10, nor does it provide any other compelling reason for granting RCJ's petition for writ of certiorari.

A. THE DECISION OF THE CALIFORNIA COURT OF APPEAL IN RCJ DOES NOT CONFLICT DIRECTLY WITH ITS DECISION IN DOCTOR'S I AND, EVEN ASSUMING ARGUENDO THAT THERE WAS A CONFLICT, THAT WOULD NOT PROVIDE A COMPELLING REASON FOR GRANTING THE WRIT

In November 1997, Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. ("DML") filed a petition for writ of mandate compelling the State Controller to pay DML approximately $3 million allegedly earned and owed for services to Medi-Cal patients. DML alleged that in September 1997, without notice to DML, the Controller commenced withholding payments due DML and already approved for payment by EDS. DML further alleged that the Controller's audit and withholding of Medi-Cal payments violated the single state agency provisions of Medicaid law, specifically, 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e). (Pet. App. 99-107)

The trial court rejected DML's contention that the single state agency provisions of federal Medicaid law prohibited the State Controller from auditing Medi-Cal claims and payments.[4/] The court's minute order for January 12, 1998 states:

> "Petitioner is not correct in its contention that the Controller has no right to audit petitioner's claims. There is no state or federal law that prohibits the Controller from doing so. The fact that an audit is performed by another state agency does not prohibit the Controller from further checking to see whether that agency is adequately performing its duties.
>
> The issue in this case is NOT whether the Controller can lawfully audit petitioner's claims, but rather whether the Controller can lawfully withhold payment from petitioner for as long as she chooses to take to complete such an audit."

---

4. Los Angeles County Superior Court Judge David P. Yaffe was the trial judge herein and in Doctor's I.

(App. 43-44)

As to the SCO withhold, the court ruled that under Government Code §926.15(a) the Controller could withhold Medi-Cal payments approved by DHS' fiscal intermediary, EDS, for up to 30 days to determine the amount she finds due and pay it. The Court stated:

> "The Controller may deduct from any such payment any part of such claim she finds to be incorrect plus any amount she determines petitioner has been overpaid on prior claims." (App. 46)

Judgment was entered January 29, 1998. The Judgment denied DML's request for injunctive relief prohibiting the State Controller from auditing or reviewing the Medi-Cal claims submitted to, and approved for payment by, the Medi-Cal fiscal intermediary and continuing to withhold the sums at issue. The Judgment granted DML's request for mandate relief to the extent that "the Controller must determine the amount due for any Medi-Cal claims submitted by Doctor's, including those previously approved for payment by the Department of Health Services;" and, "[i]f the Controller does not issue such determination within thirty days after receipt of a claim approved by the D.H. [sic], all claims which have been submitted for payment more than thirty days from the date of this judgment shall be immediately payable and must be released immediately to Doctor's." Except to the extent set forth above, DML's request for mandate relief was denied. (App. 48-49)

Both sides appealed from the judgment. (Doctor's I, 69 Cal.App.4th at p.895; Pet. App.103)

In its decision filed February 1, 1999, the Court of Appeal modified the judgment of the trial court "to require Controller to forthwith pay to Doctor's all amounts approved for payment by the Department of Health Service's fiscal intermediary, EDS. As so modified, the judgment [was] affirmed." (Doctor's I, at p. 898; Pet. App. 107)

Thus, in Doctor's I both the trial court and the Court of Appeal refused to prohibit the State Controller from auditing the Medi-Cal claims and payments of DML. DHS, which was not a party to the action, was not prohibited from collecting an overpayment based on SCO's audit findings. The Court of Appeal only modified the trial court's judgment to the extent of requiring the Controller to release her withhold on Medi-Cal payments to DML.

In Doctor's I, the Court of Appeal based its decision requiring the Controller to release DML's Medi-Cal payments which had been approved by EDS on its determination that the 1997 Interagency Agreement ("IA") authorized the Controller to "take corrective action", including the "authority to change or disapprove prior decisions by DHS' agent (EDS) to pay provider claims." The Court concluded, "This transfer of authority from DHS to the Controller violated the federal statutory and regulatory bar on delegation by the 'single designated agency' of discretionary authority. It improperly empowered the Controller to 'change or disapprove' administrative decisions by DHS and its agent." (Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell, 69 Cal.App.4th 891, 897; Pet. App.105).

The Court's decision was based on a number of erroneous assumptions. First, the 1997 IA did not authorize the Controller to "take corrective action," which the Court presumed meant "withholding sums believed to constitute overpayment." (Pet. App. 102, 105) Nowhere does the 1997 Interagency Agreement authorize the Controller to "take corrective action." (See DHS' Motion for Judicial Notice, Exhibit H, in Court of Appeal.) The agreement explicitly provided, in relevant part:

> "5. As a representative of DHS, SCO will not initiate a withhold of a provider's reimbursement in the amount identified by the audit.
> 6. However, if SCO initiates a withhold under its own authority, SCO will not issue notices of withhold with the audit report and demand notice...."

Thus, the 1997 IA, in fact, prohibited the Controller from withholding Medi-Cal payments as DHS' representative, but recognized that the Controller might initiate a withhold under her own authority pursuant to state law.

Second, the Court's assumption that the Controller's withhold changed or disapproved an administrative decision by DHS within the meaning of 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e)(3) is incorrect. (Pet. App. 105) EDS' "approval" of a claim is not an "administrative decision" of DHS within the meaning of 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e)(3). EDS is a fiscal intermediary, i.e. claims processor, for DHS. EDS utilizes a mechanized claims processing system with a limited edit capability for screening improper claims. The fact that EDS has cleared a claim for payment does not mean that the claim has a final approval by DHS. (Declaration of James R. Dandridge, Clerk's Transcript on Appeal, 198-201, ¶17, App. 21-22)

Third, 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10(b)(1) require that the state Medicaid plan designate a single State agency "to administer or supervise the administration of the plan." (Emphasis added.) The single state agency provisions of 42 C.F.R. §431.10 do not prohibit DHS from delegating any discretionary authority whatsoever in the administration of the Medi-Cal plan. "Administrative discretion" in the administration of the plan does not mean "any discretion" in administering the plan.

Fourth, the Court's assumption that prior to mid-1997 the Controller did not perform Medi-Cal audits and the Controller's activities with respect to Medi-Cal claims and payments were "limited to issuing checks, a nondiscretionary activity" is incorrect. (Pet. App. 102) SCO has been auditing Medi-Cal claims and payments since at least 1979.

Fifth, the Court's assumption that "[t]he interagency agreement's recitation that 'DHS will review all reports of overpayments identified by [Controller] for policy and/or procedural implications' does not save the delegation of authority from violating federal law" is incorrect. (Id., at p. 897) This ensures that, in conducting Medi- Cal audits on behalf of DHS, SCO will not substitute its judgment for that of DHS with respect to the application of Medi-Cal policies, rules, and regulations issued by DHS. Furthermore, SCO does not have the authority to change or disapprove any administrative decision of DHS and has not done so. Administrative appeals of audit determinations are held before Administrative Law Judges of DHS' Office of Administrative Hearings and Appeals and the Director of DHS issues the final decision. The prohibition against delegation of authority is a ban against the single State agency delegating its ultimate authority for exercising administrative judgment in the statewide administration of the plan.

DHS has not delegated any of its ultimate authority in this regard. As the single State agency, DHS is ultimately responsible for services such as auditing services performed by other agencies under the plan and for assuring that the services meet federal requirements; however, this does not mean that DHS has to take over or direct such services. Additionally, of particular significance to this case and others where Medi-Cal audits have been performed by SCO, the provision for a single State agency is not designed to set aside the relationship with state officers such as the Controller, the single state agency is still subject to the normal budget and audit procedures in the state, and SCO may perform services for the single State agency that are essential to the operation of the plan. (Pet. App. 1-39; App. 50-58)

Significantly, in Doctor's I the Court of Appeal observed, "Neither side has cited legislative history or case law discussing the legislative and regulatory reasons for the single agency and nondelegation rules." (Pet. App. 106) Thus, the record in Doctor's I, in which the Director of the California Department of Health Services was not a party was not fully developed in areas very critical to the issues in Doctor's I and RCJ.

In contrast to Doctor's I, the authority of the Controller to withhold Medi-Cal payments was not at issue in RCJ. The issue in RCJ was whether the single state agency provisions of federal Medicaid law, specifically 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e), prohibit the Controller from conducting Medi-Cal audits and prohibit DHS from basing an overpayment determination on SCO's audit findings. Doctor's I did not prohibit the Controller from conducting Medi-Cal audits. In RCJ, the petitioner did not even contest the audit findings and its overpayment determination.

Accordingly, RCJ does not directly conflict with Doctor's I. Any discussion in Doctor's I of whether the single state agency provisions 42 U.S.C.§1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R.§431.10(e) prohibit DHS from delegating audit authority to the State Controller is at most dicta. Moreover, the Court of Appeal in Doctor's I did not have before it the statutory and regulatory history of, case law regarding, or HCFA's interpretation of these provisions, as did the Court of Appeal and the California Supreme Court in RCJ, in which the Director of the State Department of Health Services was the respondent. Furthermore, in Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. The Director of the State Department of Health Services, California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District Case No. B142529 ("Doctor's II"), a case virtually identical to RCJ, the Court rejected the provider's claim that DHS' final administrative decision had to be set aside because the Controller performed the audit. (App. 77-78) Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. has filed a petition for review in the California Supreme Court, raising the same arguments which that Court previously rejected in RCJ.

Moreover, even assuming arguendo that there were a conflict between Doctor's I and RCJ, the criteria of Rule 10(b) are not met. Rule 10(b) refers to the situation in which the state court of last resort of one state has decided an important federal question in a way that conflicts with the decision of the state court of last resort of another state. The state court of last resort in California is the California Supreme Court. Neither Doctor's I nor RCJ is a decision by California's court of last resort. Furthermore, even if both decisions were from the California Supreme Court, they would both be from the same state court of last resort, which would not meet the criteria of Rule 10(b). In the case of RCJ, the California Supreme Court correctly determined that RCJ did not create a conflict in the law. Moreover, RCJ is fully consistent with the decision of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals in San Lazaro.

B. THE DECISION OF THE CALIFORNIA COURT OF APPEAL IN RCJ DOES NOT CONFLICT WITH DECISIONS OF THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS OR THE CALIFORNIA COURT OF APPEAL REGARDING THE DEFERENCE TO BE GIVEN ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES' INTERPRETATIONS OR REGARDING THE ISSUE OF THE EFFECTIVE DATE OF THE STATEMENT PLAN AMENDMENT

RCJ alleges, as a second reason for this Court to grant a writ of certiorari, that the decision of the California Court of Appeal "indirectly conflicts" with decisions of the United States Court of Appeals and the California Court of Appeal regarding the deference to be given administrative agencies' interpretations and regarding the issue of the effective date of Medicaid state plan amendments. As set forth below, no such "indirect conflict" exists. Furthermore, this reason does not meet the criteria of Rule 10(b) and, even assuming arguendo that there were an indirect conflict, such an indirect conflict would not warrant the granting of RCJ's petition.

Moreover, RCJ has failed to mention that RCJ is entirely consistent with the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals' decision in San Lazaro (9th Cir. 2002) 278 F.3d 932, rehg. den. and sub. opn. (9th Cir.(Cal.)) 2002 WL 571674 ("San Lazaro"), which specifically addresses 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R §431.10(e) and cites RCJ, with approval, as having "reached" the same conclusion in an unrelated case involving the review of an administrative determination by DHS based on the Controller's finding of an overpayment to a Medi-Cal provider. (San Lazaro, supra 2002 WL at p.7, fn. 10.) The same arguments made by RCJ herein were made by the plaintiffs in San Lazaro and rejected by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. In its published order denying the plaintiffs' petition for rehearing filed April 17, 2002, the Court states:

> "The panel has unanimously voted to deny the petition for rehearing. The full court has been advised of the petition for rehearing en banc, and no active judge of the court has requested a vote on the petition for rehearing en banc. Fed. R. App. P. 35(b). The petition for rehearing is denied and the petition for rehearing en banc is denied."

RCJ makes the bald assertion that the plain language of 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e), which provides in part that the single state Medicaid agency "must not delegate to other than its own officials, authority to...exercise administrative discretion in the administration or supervision of the plan," prohibits DHS from delegating to the State Controller the authority to perform Medi-Cal audits on its behalf. RCJ ignores the rest of the regulation and, based on this false assumption, argues that the Court of Appeal erred in considering the legislative and regulatory history of 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and its implementing regulation, 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e), and in giving deference to HCFA's interpretation of the regulation.

42 C.F.R. §431.10(e), which sets forth the requirements for an agency to qualify as the Medicaid agency, provides as follows:

> "(e) Authority of the single State agency. In order for an agency to qualify as the Medicaid agency-

(1) The agency must not delegate, to other than its own officials, authority to-

(i) Exercise administrative discretion in the administration or supervision of the plan, or

(ii) Issue policies, rules, and regulations on program matters.

(2) The authority of the agency must not be impaired if any of its rules, regulations, or decisions are subject to review, clearance, or similar action by other offices or agencies of the State.

(3) If other State or local agencies or offices perform services for the Medicaid agency, they must not have the authority to change or disapprove any administrative decision of that agency, or otherwise substitute their judgment for that of the Medicaid agency with respect to the application of policies, rules, and regulations issued by the Medicaid agency." (Pet. App. 82)

42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) is contained in Subchapter C - Medical Assistance Programs. "The regulations in Subchapter C set forth State plan requirements, standards, procedures, and conditions for obtaining Federal financial participation. (F.F.P.)" (42 C.F.R. §430.1, App. 80)

The Court of Appeal decision in RCJ thoroughly analyzes the language of both the federal statute, 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5), and the implementing regulation, 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e). The Court correctly concluded that, although the statute does not specifically address the question of whether a State Medicaid agency can delegate audit responsibility to another State agency, the statutory language does plainly suggest that a State Medicaid agency may delegate functions to another State agency. (Pet. App. 23-29) In examining the regulation, the Court of Appeal applied the standards set forth by this High Court and correctly determined that HCFA's interpretation of 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) as allowing DHS to delegate audit authority to the State Controller is not plainly erroneous or inconsistent with the regulation and, therefore, is entitled to deference. (Pet. App. 29-38) The Court stated:

"...the current single state agency regulation (42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) (2000)) states that the state Medicaid agency may rely on other state agencies' services provided that it does not delegate its authority, i.e., its ultimate authority: to '[e]xercise administrative discretion in the administration or supervision of the plan'; or to '[i]ssue policies, rules, and regulations on program matters.' (42 C.F.R. §431.10(e)(1)(ii) (2000)). In addition, title 42 Code of Federal Regulations, part 431.10(e)(2) (2000)) states, 'The authority of the [state Medicaid] agency must not be impaired if any of its rules, regulations, or decisions are subject to review, clearance, or similar action by other offices or agencies of the State.' Another state entity performing services for the state Medicaid agency must not have the authority: 'to change or disapprove' the state Medicaid agency's administrative decisions. (42 C.F.R. §431.10(e)(3) (2000).) Further, the other entity must not have the authority to substitute its judgment for that of the state Medicaid agency 'with respect to the application of policies, rules, and regulations issued by the Medicaid agency.' (Ibid.)

Moreover, it is undisputed the DHS has not delegated to the Controller any authority to issue policies, rules, or regulations on Medi-Cal program matters. Nor do we find that the Controller reviews or takes similar action with respect to the DHS's rules, regulations, or decisions. Further, RCJ has not pointed to, and we have not found, any evidence in the record that the Controller has been given authority to change or disapprove any administrative decision by the DHS. Instead, the Controller undertakes, on DHS's behalf, required postpayment reviews of provider claims. RCJ also has not pointed to, and we have not found, any evidence in the record that the Controller's office has the authority to substitute its judgment for that of the DHS with respect to the application of policies, rules, and regulations issued by the DHS. Nor has the DHS delegated to the Controller any authority to exercise discretion in the administration or supervision of the statewide Medicaid plan. The interagency agreement does not have any bearing on the ultimate authority of the DHS to exercise administrative judgment in the statewide administration or supervision of the Medi-Cal program as conducted under the state plan. What the DHS has delegated to the Controller is only the authority to conduct postpayment audits of Medi-Cal provider claims." (Pet. App. 36-38; see App. 50-58.)

RCJ's basic assumption that the plain language of 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) prohibits DHS from delegating audit authority to the State Controller is flatly erroneous. Accordingly, RCJ does not conflict with any of the United States Court of Appeals or the California Court of Appeal cases cited by RCJ.[5/] Further, as HCFA and the Court of Appeal agreed, a regulation expressly authorizing a state Medicaid agency to delegate audit authority to another state agency is not required. Moreover, 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(37) and its implementing regulation 42 C.F.R. §447.45(f) make the state Medicaid agency ultimately responsible for ensuring that prepayment and postpayment claims reviews are conducted. There is nothing that prohibits the state Medicaid agency from delegating this task to another agency. In fact, the prepayment claims review required by 42 C.F.R. §447.45(f)(1) is the type of screening that DHS' fiscal intermediary performs for DHS using its limited editing capabilities.

Nor does RCJ conflict with any of the cases cited by RCJ as "prohibiting Medicaid actions which are not authorized by the Medicaid State Plan." RCJ's citation of Exeter Memorial Hospital Association v. Belshe, 943 F.Supp. 1239, 1240 (E.D. Cal. 1996), aff'd, 145 F.3d 1106, 1109 (9th Cir. 1998), Oregon Association of Homes v. State Department of Human Resources, 5 F.3d 1239 (9th Cir. 1993), Washington State Health Facilities v. State of Washington, 698 F2d 964 (9th Cir. 1982) and Washington State Health Facilities v. DSHS, 879 F.2d 677 (9th Cir. 1980) for the foregoing broad proposition is misleading. All of these cases deal with the requirements of 42 C.F.R. §447.250 et seq. related to payment for inpatient hospital and long term care facility services. 42 C.F.R. §447.252(b) requires that the state Medicaid plan specify the methods and standards used to set payment rates. 42 C.F.R. §447.253(a) requires that amendments changing payment methods and standards require HCFA approval. While 42 C.F.R. §430.12(c) provides generally that plans must be amended, and the amendment submitted for HCFA approval, only for material changes in state law or operation of the plan, 42 C.F.R. §447.253(b) provides for submission for HCFA approval of all amendments to methods and standards for payment rates and does not contain a materiality requirement. Unlike 42 C.F.R. §447.250 et seq., there is no statutory or regulatory requirement that a state Medicaid agency obtain HCFA approval of a Medicaid state plan amendment in order to delegate authority to another state agency to perform services such as auditing on behalf of the state Medicaid agency. Nor does such a delegation constitute a "material change" in state law or operation of the plan.

5. Moreover, in Wileman Bros. & Elliott, Inc. v. Giannini (9th Cir. 1990) 909 F.2d 332, the Court stated: "'The language of a regulation or statute is the starting point for its interpretation. [] The plain meaning governs unless a clearly expressed legislative intent is to the contrary, [] or unless such plain meaning would lead to absurd results.' Dyer v. United States 832 F.2d 1062, 1066 (9th Cir. 1987)." Thus, even assuming arguendo that the plain language of 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) prohibited the Controller from auditing, such a meaning would not govern here since there is a clearly expressed legislative and regulatory intent to the contrary and, further, such meaning would lead to absurd results.

Similarly, Bingham v. Obledo, (1983) 147 Cal.App.3d. 401 involves a federal regulation that specifically requires that the state Medicaid plan specify that the Medicaid agency will assure necessary transportation for recipients and describe the methods to be used. 42 C.F.R. §431.53 requires that the state plan "specify that the Medicaid agency will assure necessary transportation for recipients to and from providers" and "[d]escribe the methods that will be used to meet this requirement." The underlying issue in the case was "whether the State is required to have a written plan that (1) specifies that its Medicaid agency will assure necessary transportation for Medi-Cal recipients to and from health providers, and (2) describes the methods that will be used to meet this requirement." (Id., at 403) As set forth above, there is no statutory or regulatory requirement that a state Medicaid agency obtain HCFA approval of a Medicaid state plan amendment in order to delegate authority to another state agency to perform services such as auditing on behalf of the state Medicaid agency.

C. THE FEDERAL QUESTIONS HAVE BEEN FULLY AND PROPERLY RESOLVED AND THERE IS NO CONFLICT WARRANTING THIS COURT'S REVIEW

As set forth above, the federal questions have been fully and properly resolved and there is no conflict warranting this Court's review. RCJ's primary argument for contending that the federal questions involved should be resolved by this Court is that DHS, the State Controller, and the U.S. DHHS have previously emphasized the importance of resolving the issue of whether the single state agency provisions of federal Medicaid law, 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e), prohibit DHS from delegating audit authority to the State Controller. The lower court decisions in Doctor's I and San Lazaro, which were not well-reasoned and which were based on an incorrect view of the law, created confusion over the authority of the State Controller to perform Medi-Cal audits. Medi-Cal providers were filing lawsuits in which they contended that, because 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10(e) prohibited DHS from delegating audit authority to the State Controller, (1) a withhold imposed on Medi-Cal payments pursuant to 42 C.F.R. §455.23, based on the receipt of reliable evidence of fraud or willful misrepresentation by the provider, was invalid if that evidence resulted from an audit by the State Controller, and (2) any overpayment determination by DHS based on a Controller audit was unlawful. The confusion that was created was highly disruptive to the operation of the Medicaid program in California.

The decisions in RCJ and San Lazaro have fully and properly resolved the legal issues in these cases. There is no remaining conflict in the state or federal decisions that would warrant review by this Court.

CONCLUSION

The California Court of Appeals decision in RCJ correctly resolves the legal issues therein and is fully supported by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals decision in San Lazaro on these issues. There is no conflict in state or federal decisions on the federal questions involved herein that would warrant this Court's review. Accordingly, respondent, the Director of the California Department of Health Services, respectfully requests that this High Court deny RCJ's petition for writ of certiorari.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA
FOR THE COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES

RCJ MEDICAL SERVICES, INC., DBA AMERICAN NETWORK LABORATORY, Petitioner, v. THE DIRECTOR OF THE CALIFORNIA STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH SERVICES, Respondent.	) Case No. BS060056)) PETITION FOR) WRIT OF) MANDATE)))))

Petitioner, RCJ Medical Services, Inc., doing business as American Network Laboratory ("ANL"), petitioners this Court for a Writ of Mandate under Code of Civil Procedure Section 1094.5, directed to respondent, the Director of the State Department of Health Service ("DHS"), and by this verified Petition alleges as follows:

INTRODUCTION

1. By this action, ANL seeks to set aside a final decision of the Director of DHS refusing to abide by the final decision of the Court of Appeal in the case of Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell (1999), 69 CalApp.4th 891. In Doctor's, the Court of Appeal concluded that the State Controller was prohibited by federal Medicaid law from auditing Medi-Cal payments to providers of Medi-Cal services, including independent clinical laboratories, such as ANL. notwithstanding this binding precedent, the Director of DHS has allowed the State Controller to conduct a Medi-Cal audit of ANL and has upheld certain of the audit findings of the State Controller. In addition to seeking an order of this Court setting aside the decision of the Director of DHS, ANL is also requesting an award of attorneys fees because of the clearly arbitrary and capricious nature of the action by the Director of DHS.

THE PARTIES

2. At all times relevant herein, ANL was certified by the Medi-Cal program to furnish laboratory testing services to Medi-Cal patients. ANL provided such laboratory services in Huntington Park, California.

3. Under federal law, DHS is the single state Medicaid agency charged with administering the Medicaid program in California, known as "Medi-Cal." The Director is the Chief Executive Officer of the Department. See generally Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 14000 et seq. and 22 C.C.R. §§ 50,000 et seq.

THE FEDERAL MEDICAID REQUIREMENTS

4. Medicaid is the federal/state health care program for the poor. 42 U.S.C. § 1396 et seq. and 42 C.F.R. § 430.10 et seq. At the federal level, the Medicaid program is administered by the federal Department of Health and Human Services, through the Health Care Financing Administration. At the state level, each state's Medicaid program is required to be administered exclusively by a designated single state agency, which, as indicated above, is DHS for the Medi-Cal program. 42 U.S.C. § 13196a(a)(5).

5. While it is not mandatory that a state participate in the Medicaid program, if a state chooses to do so, it must aboide by the governing provisions of the federal Medicaid laws and regulations. Those federal laws and regulations are implemented through the establishment of a "state plan" for medical assistance, which must be developed by the single state agency and contains various requirements under the governing federal statute and regulations. 42 U.S.C. § 1396a and 42 C.F.R. §430.10.

6. Under the controlling federal Medicaid regulations, specifically 42 C.F.R. Section 431.10(e), the single state agency must not delegate to other than its own officials authority to exercise administrative discretion in the administration or supervision of the state Medicaid plan or to issue policy, rules and regulations on program matters. By the same token, other state offices are not permitted to disregard, change, or disapprove of any policy, rule or regulation issued by the Medicaid agency or otherwise impair the functioning of the state Medicaid agency.

THE MEDI-CAL REQUIREMENTS

7. The Medi-Cal program expressly covers laboratory services furnished by independent clinical laboratories. Welf. & Inst. Code § 14133 and 22 C.C.R. §§ 51137.1, 51137.2, and 51211.2. Laboratory services are defined as the examination of materials derived from the human body for the purposes of diagnosing, preventing or treating any disease or impairment or the assessment of the health of a human being. 22 C.C.R. § 51137.2.

8. Providers of clinical laboratory services, such as ANL, perform testing on specimens from Medi-Cal patients and others only when such testing is ordered by an outside physician. The testing is ordered through a "requisition" sheet, which accompanies the laboratory specimen. Following the performance of the laboratory testing, a provider of clinical laboratory services must communicate the laboratory test results to the office of the ordering physician and must submit a bill for payment for Medi-Cal laboratory testing to DHS within six month of the month of the testing. Welf. & Inst. Code § 14115.

9. DHS has contracted with a private company, EDS, to act as the Medi-Cal fiscal intermediary for pursposes of processing claims submitted by providers for Medi-Cal payment. See 22 C.C.R. § 51008. DHS' contract with the fiscal intermediary to process Medi-Cal payments is specifically permitted under the governing federal Medicaid regulations, and under state law and is part of the Medicaid State Plan. See 42 C.F.R. § 434.10 and Welf & Inst. Code § 14104.3.

10. EDS, the Medi-Cal fiscal intermediary, reviews each Medi-Cal claim submitted by a provider and determines the amount of Medi-Cal payment owing for services, including clinical laboratory services, furnished to Medi-Cal patients by applying Medi-Cal regulations, such as 22 C.C.R. Section 51529, which sets forth the Medi-Cal payment rates for clinical laboratory services.

11. After reviewing and processing a Medi-Cal claim submitted by a provider, the Medi-Cal fiscal intermediary determines whether or not to pay the provider and how much the provider should be paid. The fiscal intermediary advises the Controller of the sum owing the provider and the Controller is then required to promptly issue a check to the provider for that sum.

THE AUTHORIZED MEDI-CAL AUDIT PROCESS

12. Under federal Medicaid law, the single state agency must assure that there is an appropriate audit of providers' records. 42 C.F.R. § 447.202. To implement this federal requirement, the State Legislature authorized DHS, and only DHS, to audit amounts paid for services to providers for furnishing services to Medi-Cal beneficiaries in the manner and form prescribed by DHS. Welf. & Inst. Code § 14170(a)(1). DHS, in turn, has implemented a comprehensive Medi-Cal audit program, which includes the establishment of audit policies and procedures for routinely auditing Medical payments made to clinical laboratories on a postservice, postpayment basis. Indeed, DHS has established two separate divisions within DHS to audit and review Medi-Cal payments made to providers, including clinical laboratories.

13. Recognizing the complexity of the Medi-Cal rules regarding payment for Medi-Cal services, DHS, at the express direction of the Legislature (Welf. & Inst. Code §14171), has established an administrative appeal process to review grievances or complaints of providers arising from the findings of a Medi-Cal audit or examination. 22 C.C.R. §§ 51016-51047.

THE FACTS

14. Relying on purported authority in state law and an Interagency Agreement with DHS, the State Controller initially conducted a review of ANL's Medi-Cal claims for laboratory testing covering the period of January 9, 1997 to October 9, 1997. The purpose of this audit was to determine the provider's compliance with applicable provisions of the Medi-Cal program governing the performance of Laboratory services. This report concluded that ANL had been overpaid the sum of approximately $1.3 million by the Medi-Cal program for services previously rendered. This overpayment calculation was determined by the Controller using statistical extrapolation methodology. The Controller issued formal audit findings in a final report dated March 10, 1998. ANL timely appealed the Controller's findings to DHS.

15. The Controller conducted a follow-up audit of ANL's Medi-Cal claims covering the period of October 10, 1997 through March 6, 1998. This follow-up audit resulted in the issuance of a report indicating that ANL had been overpaid approximately $165,000 for services previously rendered. The State Controller issued audit findings from this second review in a final report dated May 4, 1998. ANL filed a timely appeal of the findings of the second report on May 6, 1998.

16. The two appeals were subsequently consolidated for hearing and decision by DHS. On June 15 and 16, 1998, consolidated appeals were heard by Robert L. Carisoza, an administrative law judge employed by DHS.

17. Among the issues raised by ANL in its administrative appeals was whether the State Controller had authority under the controlling federal Medicaid law to audit Medi-Cal payments. On February 1, 1999, the California Court of Appeal issued a published decision concluding that the State Controller lacked authority under the governing federal Medicaid law to audit Medi-Cal payments to a provider because the State Controller was not part of the single state Medicaid agency responsible for administering or supervising the administration of the Medi-Cal program.

18. On April 15, 1999, the administrative law judge issued a proposed decision granting ANL's appeal in part and denying it in part. In his proposed decision, the administrative law judge concluded that the State Controller had the authority to audit Medi-Cal claims of a provider under federal and state law. The administrative law judge asserted that the Court of Appeal decision in Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell, was not "persuasive authority to the contrary" at the time he issued his proposed decision because the Court of Appeal's decision had not yet become "final."

19. On June 10, 1999, the Chief Deputy Director for DHS informed the State Controller and ANL that he was rejecting the proposed decision of the administrative law judge in this case and would be issuing a final decision of his own based upon the record.

20. On August 6, 1999, the Chief Deputy Director issued a final decision granting ANL's appeal in part and denying it in part. With respect to the authority of the State Controller, the Chief Deputy Director concluded that the State Controller did, in fact, have the authority to audit Medi-Cal claims notwithstanding the decision of the Court of Appeal, which had by then become final, in Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell. Even though the State Court of Appeal expressly concluded that the Controller "could not lawfully exercise power to audit provider payments and withhold alleged excesses," (69 Cal.App.4th at 897), the Chief Deputy Director concluded that because the Court of Appeal decision was purportedly not based on "a fully developed record," the Court of Appeal did not decide the audit authority of the Controller "standing alone." Thus, the Chief Deputy Director concluded that the Court of Appeal discussion of the Controller's audit authority was based on an incomplete record and is therefore not a "dispositive pronouncement" concerning the Controller's authority to audit Medi-Cal payments.

THE FINAL DECISION OF THE DIRECTOR OF DHS IS INVALID AND MUST BE SET AISDE

21. The decision of the Director of DHS (actually, the Chief Deputy Director of DHS) concerning the authority of the State Controller to conduct Medi-Cal audits is invalid under California Code of Civil procedure Section 1094.5 because, inter alia, it is inconsistent with the governing federal Medicaid law, as interpreted by the California Court of Appeal and other courts. Specifically, the Director of DHS was bound to abide by the final decision of the California Court of Appeal in connection with her quasi-judicial decision-making, just as a lower court is bound by the precedent established by the state Court of Appeal, even if the Director or a lower court disagrees with the reasoning of the Court of Appeal. The Chief Deputy Director misrepresented the state of the record in issuing the final decision when he alleged that ANL had waived further briefing and held that the United States District Court concluded that the State Controller could perform Medi-Cal audits. moreover, it is not true that the Court of Appeal did not have a "complete" record before it in the Doctor's Medical Laboratory case. To the contrary, the Department of Health Services and the Controller brought to the attention of the Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court in the Petition for Rehearing, Petition for Review, and Request for Depublication of the opinion, the very same information which the Chief Deputy Director concluded was not before the Court of Appeal.

22. In addition to being invalid because the Controller lacks the authority under federal Medicaid law to audit Medi-Cal payments, the final decision of the Director of DHS is arbitrary and capricious to the extent it imposes liability for a Medi-Cal overpayment on an independent clinical laboratory when the laboratory performs testing pursuant to an order of a physician, which misidentifies the patient for whom the testing was performed. Independent clinical laboratories perform laboratory testing only when ordered to do so by a physician. The physician orders laboratory testing through the submission of "requisitions" along with the specimen to be tested. Independent clinical laboratories must rely on the information in the laboratory requisition sheet to perform laboratory testing. The clinical laboratories are not required to, and should not be required to, verify independently the identity of the patient from whom the referring physician obtained the specimen to be tested.

23. ANL has no further administrative remedies to exhaust to challenge the decision of the Director of DHS.

WHEREFORE, ANL prays that:

1. Upon motion, a peremptory writ of mandate be issued requiring the Director to set aside her final decision and to hold that the overpayment in question must be eliminated because it results from an unlawful audit by the State controller's Office, and, if necessary, to hold that ANL should not be penalized by imposing overpayment liability for laboratory testing performed by ANL pursuant to requisitions from ordering physicians which misidentify the patient from whom the laboratory specimen was obtained.

2. The Court award petitioner's costs of suit, including reasonable attorneys fees; and

3. The Court award petitioner such other and further relief as is deemed proper.

A. INTRODUCTION

By this action, RCJ Medical Services, Inc. ("ANL") seeks to set aside a final decision of the Director of the State Department of Health Services ("DHS") refusing to abide by the Final Decision of the Court of Appeal in the case of Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell (1999), 69 Cal.App.4th 891. As this Court knows, in Doctor's, the Court of Appeal concluded that the State Controller was prohibited by federal Medicaid law from auditing Medi-Cal payments to providers of Medi-Cal services, including independent laboratories.

Notwithstanding this binding precedent, and subsequent events which confirm the precedential nature of the Doctor's decision, the Director of DHS has nevertheless held in this case that the Controller does, in fact, have the authority to audit Medi-Cal Providers, and specifically ANL.

For the reasons set forth below, among others, the Court is respectfully requested to set aside the Director's Final Decision in this case and to order that the overpayment in question be eliminated because it results from an unlawful audit by the State Controller's Office. Additionally, because of the arbitrary nature of the Director's Final Decision and because the Final Decision is violation of the governing federal Medicaid law, ANL respectfully requests the Court to order the Director of DHS to pay its reasonable attorneys fees.

B. NO ADMINISTRATIVE RECORD IS REQUIRED TO RESOLVE THIS JURISDICTIONAL DISPUTE

While this case involves judicial review of a final decision of the Director of DHS following the holding of an administrative hearing, which ordinarily requires the Petitioner to obtain and present to the Court a record of the administrative proceedings, a record is not required in this case because of the purely legal nature of the issue to be resolved. See California Administrative Mandamus, § 8.4 (CEB 2d. Ed. 1989) and see also Elizabeth D. v. Zolin (1993) 21 Cal.App.4th 347, 355.

In this case, Petitioner is not challenging the evidentiary sufficiency of the findings made by the Director of DHS. Rather, Petitioner, ANL, is challenging the authority of the State Controller to conduct Medi-Cal audits, and specifically the Medi-Cal audit at issue. The Director of DHS contends that federal law does not prohibit the State Controller from conducting such audits, and ANL contends that federal law does prohibit the State Controller from conducting Medi-Cal audits, especially the audit at issue. There is no need nor requirement for the preparation of an administrative record to resolve this issue, which has already been resolved fully by the courts.

In any event, all the facts necessary to resolve the legal issue in dispute are set forth clearly in the Final Decision of the Director of DHS in this case, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit A.

C. THE RELEVANT, MATERIAL, UNDISPUTED FACTS

As indicated in the Director's Final Decision, the State Controller conducted audits of ANL's Medi-claims for laboratory services submitted during the period of January 9, 1997 through March 6, 1998. The purpose of the review was to determine whether ANL's claims complied with the applicable provisions of the Medi-Cal program. See Director's Final Decision, para. II, pp. 5-6.

On March 10 and May 4, 1998, the Controller issued her audit findings, concluding that ANL had been overpaid the sum of $1,461,567 by the Medi-Cal program for the services rendered. ANL filed timely administrative appeals of the findings on March 19 and May 6, 1998. Director's Final Decision, para. II, p.6.

In June 1998, a hearing was held before a DHS administrative law judge. On April 1, 1999, the administrative law judge filed a proposed decision (copy attached as Exhibit B), which upheld the authority of the Controller to conduct Medi-Cal audits because the decision in Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc., had not yet become final, but granted ANL's administrative appeal regarding some issues. The audit findings of the Controller regarding certain other issues were upheld by the administrative law judge.

On May 28, 1999, ANL informed the Office of Administrative Hearing and Appeals that the decision in Doctor's Medical Laboratory had become final and requested that the appeal be granted in its entirety based upon that decision. Director's Final Decision, p.3. The Director of DHS issued a Final Decision on August 6, 1999, concluding that notwithstanding the Court of Appeal decision, the Controller had the authority to audit the Medi-Cal claims at issue and that the federal Medicaid law did not prohibit her from exercising such authority in this case. According to the Director of DHS:

1. A federal district court in another case had impliedly accepted that the Controller can audit Medi-Cal providers (Director's Dec. at pp. 7-8);
2. The Doctor's Medical Laboratory decision of the Court of Appeal did not really decide whether the Controller had the authority to audit Medi-Cal claims (Director's Final Dec. at pp. 8-9); and
3. "With all due respect for the opinion of the Court of Appeal" in Doctor's Medical Laboratory, the Court's very brief discussion of the audit subject, was based on an incomplete record, and did not "appear to be a dispositive pronouncement concerning the Controller's authority to audit." (Director's Final Dec. at pp. 9-10).

D. SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

Subsequent to the issuance of the August 1999 Final Decision in this case, the United States District Court for the Central District of California, Senior Judge Robert J. Kelleher, the very same Judge who issued the decision relied on by the Director of DHS in her final decision in this case (as described above), issued a definitive Memorandum Opinion and Order concluding unequivocally that the federal Medicaid law and regulations prohibit the State Controller from auditing Medi-Cal claims and payments. See the Nov. 12, 1999, Decision and Order of the District Court in San Lazaro Association, Inc., dba Biomedical Laboratory v. Kathleen Connell, Controller of the State of California, a copy attached as Exhibit C.

In the November 12, 1999 Decision, the District Court rejects the very same arguments asserted by the Director of DHS in issuing her August 1999 Final Decision in this case. For example, the District Court concludes that the Controller violated federal Medicaid laws by exercising discretion during Medi-Cal audits and reviews, which exercise of discretion is prohibited by the federal Medicaid laws and regulations. See Exhibit C, Slip Op. at 9-12. Relying expressly on the California Court of Appeal's Decision in the Doctor's Medical Laboratory case, the District Court also concluded that the Controller's exercise of discretionary authority is not saved by the subsequent review of DHS. See Exhibit C, Slip Op. pp. 13-14. Finally, the District Court concluded that the decision of the California Court of Appeal in the Doctor's Medical Laboratory case explicitly prohibits the Controller from conducting audits of Medi-Cal payments and claims. The Court rejected the argument that the California Court of Appeal did not fully appreciate the audit issue and did not have a complete record before it. See Exhibit C, Slip Op. at 14-18.[1/]

More recently, the Director's own administrative law judges, including Judge Carisoza, the Administrative Law Judge in this case, have also reached the conclusion that the decision of the Court of Appeal in Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. compels the conclusion that the Controller is prohibited by the federal Medicaid law from auditing Medi-Cal payments and claims. See, for example, the proposed decision of Administrative Law Judge Carisoza in Angela's Discount Pharmacy, Medi-Cal Audit Appeal No. SR9-0998-355-RC, a copy attached as Exhibit D.

E. ARGUMENT

As pointed out by the District Court Judge in the San Lazaro Association, Inc. case and DHS Administrative Law Judge Carisoza in the Angela's Discount Pharmacy appeal, the California Court of Appeal in the Doctor's Medical Laboratory case clearly and unequivocally

---

1. The Controller has appealed the District Court's Nov. 12, 1999 Decision and has filed various motions in the District Court to have the Decision set aside. However, as of the date of this Memorandum, the Nov. 12, 1999 Memorandum Decision and Order remains in full force and effect. Indeed, under the governing law, the Controller and the Director of DHS are collaterally estopped from rearguing the question of the Controller's authority to conduct Medi-Cal audits so long as the November 12, 1999 ruling remains in effect. See Lumpkin v. Jordan (1996), 49 Cal.App.4th 1223, 1230.

concluded that the federal Medicaid law not only prohibits the Controller from withholding alleged overpayments from Medi-Cal providers but also prohibits the Controller from conducting Medi-Cal audits. The California Court of Appeal in Doctor's Medical Laboratory expressly concluded that "the Controller could not lawfully exercise power to audit provider payments and withhold alleged excesses." Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell, 69 Cal.App.4th at 897. As indicated above, the Court of Appeal also concluded that the subsequent review of the Controller's findings by DHS would not save the improper delegation of authority from State DHS to the Controller. Id. The final decision of the Court of Appeal is binding on this Court notwithstanding the Director of DHS' disagreement with the reasoning of the California Court of Appeal.

The Director of DHS will no doubt attempt to rely on post hoc rationalizations to attempt to convince this Court that the Court of Appeal, the United States District Court, and her own administrative law judges are wrong regarding the lack of authority of the Controller to audit Medi-Cal payments and claims. For example, the Director of DHS will no doubt point out that she recently amended the California State Medicaid Plan to acknowledge that the State Controller performs Medi-Cal audits. She will add that the federal agency responsible for administering the Medicaid Program, the Health Care Financing Administration, approved the State Plan Amendment on December 17, 1999, the same day it was submitted to that agency. She will then argue that such approval constitutes persuasive authority regarding the interpretation of the governing federal Medicaid laws and regulations. (She has made these identical arguments in several other cases.) However, the arguments must be rejected for a variety of reasons.

First and foremost, as indicated above, this Court is bound to follow the final decision of the California Court of Appeal regardless of whether that decision differs from a subsequent interpretation of the governing federal Medicaid laws and regulations by a federal agency. Second, the fact that a federal agency approved the State Plan provision is of no impact since the State Plan provision is inconsistent with the plain language of the governing regulation. Compare Children's Hospital and Health Center v. Belshe, 188 F.3d 1090, 1098 (9th Cir. 1999) (copy attached as Exhibit E) [HCFA approval of disputed Medicaid State Plan provision is of no impact since the State Plan provision is inconsistent with the plain language of the law]. Third, and finally, regardless of the prospective impact of the State Plan Amendment, the effective date of the amendment was July 1, 1998, which postdates the February 1998 audit findings at issue. Medicaid Plan Amendments are not valid unless and until they are approved by the federal government, which approval did not occur here until December 17, 1999. See Exeter Memorial Hospital Association v. Belshe, 145 F.3d 1106 (9th Cir. 1998), copy attached as Exhibit F.

Thus, even subsequent events do not allow the Director's decision in this case to be upheld. Clearly and simply, under the governing precedent established by the California Court of Appeal in the Doctor's Medical Laboratory case, the State Controller is prohibited from auditing Medi-Cal payments and claims and thus the Controller's audit findings in this case may not be upheld but must be declared to be null and void.

F. ANL SHOULD BE AWARDED ATTORNEYS FEES

One cannot imagine more arbitrary and capricious action than that engaged in by the Director of DHS in this case. Because she disagrees with the reasoning of the California Court of Appeal in the Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. case, she refuses to abide by it. Thus, even though this Court must abide by the precedent of the Court of Appeal, the Director apparently believes that when she exercises her quasi-judicial responsibility, she can ignore those decisions of the Court of Appeal which she believes to be erroneously reasoned. This position makes a mockery of the Medi-Cal administrative appeal process and purports to place the Director of DHS above the law.

Government Code Section 800 is intended to provide relief to a private party which finds itself in the position that ANL finds itself. ANL has been forced to seek relief from the court to remedy the violation of the federal Medicaid law which was established in the Doctor's Medical Laboratory case. Due solely to the arbitrary action of the Director of DHS, ANL has been required to incur substantial legal fees and expenses to vindicate its rights which it would not have been required to incur if the Director had simply followed the law, as she is required to do.

In addition to being entitled to an award of attorneys fees under Government Code Section 800, ANL is also entitled to an award of attorneys fees under the Civil Rights Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1988, since the Director's final decision is inconsistent with the governing federal Medicaid law. The courts routinely award attorneys fees to prevailing parties under 42 U.S.C. Section 1988 in actions in which the prevailing party is able to establish that state officials violated the governing provisions of the controlling federal Medicaid laws and regulations. See Green v. Obledo (1984) 161 Cal.App.3d 678.

As in Green v. Obledo, in this case, the Court must determine whether ANL is entitled to attorneys fees under Section 1983 by the pleadings and by the governing federal Medicaid law. The inquiry must focus on whether the two essential elements of a Section 1983 action are present (1) whether the conduct complained of was committed by a person acting under color of state law, and (2) whether the conduct deprived a person of rights, privileges, or immunity secured by the Constitution or laws of the United States. 161 Cal.App.3d at 682. Here, the Director of DHS is acting under color of state law (she reviewed the proposed decision pursuant to Welfare and Institutions Code Section 14171) and her Final Decision deprives ANL of the rights to which it is entitled under the laws of the United States, i.e., the right not to be audited by the California State Controller.

In Green, as here, relief is sought through the grant of a Writ of Mandate. However, because the underlying allegations demonstrate a deprivation of the rights owing ANL under the federal law, the court may allow attorneys fees under 42 U.S.C. § 1988. 161 Cal.App.3d 682. See also Filipino Accountants Association v. State Board of Accountancy (1984) 155 Cal.App.3d 1023.

Thus, in addition to requiring the Director of DHS to set aside the audit findings at issue, the Court is respectfully requested to order the Director to pay ANL's reasonable attorneys fees.

DECLARATION OF JAMES R. DANDRIDGE

I, James R. Dandridge, declare that I have personal knowledge of the matters stated herein, and if called upon to testify, I could and would testify competently thereto.

1. I am the Chief of the Medical Review Branch (Medical Review) in Audits and Investigations, Department of Health Services (DHS). I have held this position for 13 years. Medical Review is responsible, among other tasks, for oversight of fraudulent and abusive billing by Medi-Cal fee-for-service non-institutional providers, such as physicians, laboratories, durable medical equipment suppliers, and suppliers of medical transportation.

17. Providers submit claims for payment for Medi-Cal services to Electronic Data Systems ("EDS"), the fiscal intermediary, i.e., claims processor, for DHS. EDS utilizes a mechanized claims processing system with a limited edit capability for screening improper claims. The fact that EDS has cleared a claim for payment does not mean that the claim has a final approval by DHS. EDS forwards those claims that it identifies as eligible for payment to the State Controller's Office ("SCO"), which issues a warrant and mails it to the provider. Whenever DHS institutes a withhold of Medi-Cal payments pursuant to 42 Code of Federal Regulations, section 4545.23, DHS implements the withhold by notifying EDS to first process the claims within EDS and then, instead of forwarding them to SCO for payment, to place the withheld funds into a trust account. DHS implements the withhold on payments for those claims that have already been processed by EDS and forwarded to SCO by notifying SCO to hold all warrants for withheld funds that it has not yet mailed to the provider. These procedures for implementing a withhold of Medi-Cal payments instituted by DHS pursuant to 42 Code of Federal Regulations, section 455.23 are the same whether or not the evidence of fraud or willful misrepresentation relied on by DHS as a basis for the withhold is discovered in a review by DHS or SCO.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the above is true and correct.

Executed this 28th day of January, 2000, at Sacramento, California.

NATURE OF PROCEEDINGS:

HEARING ON PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE;

Matter comes on for trial.

The administrative record lodged in this case is admitted in evidence by reference to the court's file.

Petition for Writ of Mandate is granted.

The issues in this case are conclusively determined by the Court of Appeal decision in DOCTOR'S MEDICAL LABORATORY INC. v. CONNELL, 69 Cal.App.4th 891 (1999), which decision is final and binding upon this court. In its decision the Court of Appeal held that the Controller could not lawfully exercise power to audit payments of Medi-Cal claims submitted by providers like petitioner.

To the extent that respondent's final administrative decision holds that the State Controller has the authority to audit Medi-Cal claims, and insofar as it relies upon said audit for any finding of fact, said decision is inconsistent with the aforesaid decision of the Court of Appeal, respondent has not proceeded in the manner required by law, and its final administrative decision constitutes an abuse of discretion within the meaning of Section 1094.5(b) of the Code of Civil Procedure.

APPELLANT'S MOTION FOR JUDICIAL NOTICE

Pursuant to California Rules of Court, Rules 14.5 and 41 and Evidence Code §459, appellant Director of the State Department of Health Services respectfully requests that the Court take judicial notice of the following:

1. The record on appeal and the Court of Appeal file in Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Kathleen Connell, as Controller of the State of California, 69 Cal.App.4th 891 (2 Civil No. B119355, Los Angeles County Superior Court Case No. BC181780) ("Doctor's "). The documents therein that are referred to in Appellant's Opening Brief are attached collectively hereto as Exhibit A.

2. Documents evidencing the fact that Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. ("DML") has been reimbursed the amount (plus interest) that was withheld by the State Controller's Office ("SCO" or "State Controller") prior to DML's administrative hearing and which was the subject of Doctor's, and further evidencing the fact that the Director's Final Decision resulted in a determination that DML was overpaid $1,004,905 for claims submitted during the review period September 6, 1996 through November 20, 1997, which DML does not contest. These documents include the Declaration of Walter Barnes and a letter dated May 31, 2000 from Michelle Marks to DML's attorney Patric Hooper. Copies of these documents are attached collectively hereto as Exhibit B.

3. Documents providing the history of the single state agency provisions of federal Medicaid law, 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10. These documents, which are attached collectively hereto as Exhibit C, include:

a. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, official Handbook of Public Assistance ("Handbook") (1963-1964), Introduction and Part II, sections 1000, 2000, 2100, 2200, 2300, and 2310, and Supplement D-Medical Assistance Programs Under Title XIX of the Social Security Act (1966-1967), Record of Recipient of Handbook Supplement D Transmittals (5/16/67), Checklist for Supplement D - Medical Assistance Programs, and sections D-2000, D-2100, D2110, D-2120, D-2130, and D-2140. The Handbook is the official medium for issuance of interpretations and instructions concerning requirements of the public assistance titles of the Social Security Act;

b. 42 Code of Federal Regulations ("C.F.R") §431.10;

c. The following excerpts from the Federal Register ("FR") 35 FR 8780-8781 (6/15/70), 36 FR 3860-3862 (2/27/71), 39 FR 34542-34543 (3/11/74), 39 FR 9512-9513 (9/26/74), 44 FR 17926-17930, 17940-17941 (3/23/79), and 45 FR 56682-56686 (8/25/80);

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

Appellant Director of State Department of Health Services brings this motion for judicial notice pursuant to California Rules of Court, Rules 14.5 and 41 and Evidence Code §459.

Evidence Code §459(a) provides as follows:

> "The reviewing court shall take judicial notice of (1) each matter properly noticed by the trial court and (2) each matter that the trial court was required to notice under Section 451 or 453. The reviewing court may take judicial notice of any matter specified in Section 452. The reviewing court may take judicial notice of a matter in a tenor different from that noticed by the trial court."

The matters which appellant requests this Court to take judicial notice of are embraced within Evidence Code §452, subdivisions (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), and (h). With the exception of item 1, the Record on Appeal and the pleadings filed in Doctor's, a copy of each of the matters appellant requests the Court to take judicial notice of is attached hereto. As to item 1, copies of those documents referred to in Appellant's Opening Brief are attached hereto.

The central issue in this case is whether the single state agency provisions of federal Medicaid law, 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10, prohibit the State Controller ("Controller" or "SCO") from performing Medi-Cal audits on behalf of the California Department of Health Services ("DHS") and require that DHS set aside a final administrative decision in an audit appeal if it is based on findings from an SCO audit. In granting a petition for writ of mandate pursuant to C.C.P. §1094.5, the trial court stated that "[t]he issues in this case are conclusively determined by the Court of Appeal decision in Doctors Medical Laboratory Inc. v. Connell, 69 Cal.App.4th 891 (1999)." (CT 381-382; 393-394) The judgment ordered that a peremptory writ of mandate be issued requiring the Director to set aside her final decision in this case, which granted in part and denied in part RCJ's appeal from an audit determination, and to void the audit findings of the State Controller, which gave rise to the Final Administrative Decision under review.

Appellant requests that the Court take judicial notice of the record on appeal and the pleadings in Doctor's in order to be able to fully appreciate why the issues herein were not conclusively determined in Doctor's. For example, the Court of Appeal decision in Doctor's modified the judgment of the trial court to require the Controller to pay to Doctors all amounts approved for payment by DHS' fiscal intermediary, i.e. "Claims process", EDS. "As so modified, the judgment [was] affirmed." (Doctor's, at p. 898) The subject amounts were withheld by the Controller prior to Doctor's administrative hearing. A review of the trial court's judgment and statement of decision in its minute order reveals that the trial court denied Doctor's request to enjoin the Controller from auditing, both sides appealed, and the judgment was affirmed except for the Controller's withhold. A review of the pleadings will show that the U.S. District Court's unpublished decision and order granting a preliminary injunction against the Controller's withhold of Medi-Cal payments in Health Line Clinical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell, (U.S.D.C. No. CV-98-1620-RJK) ("Health Line"), cited in Doctor's at page 897, footnote 1 as reaching the same conclusion on the same reasoning as Doctor's, did not enjoin the Controller from auditing Medi-Cal claims and payments, did not enjoin DHS from delegating auditing authority to the Controller, and did not prohibit DHS from relying on findings from an SCO audit in issuing a Final Administrative Decision. To the contrary, in Health Line the district court expressed its expectation that administrative proceedings would go forward before DHS' Office of Administrative Hearings and Appeals and that the Controller would continue to perform Medi-Cal audits.

Significantly, in Doctor's the Court of Appeal stated, "Neither side has cited legislative history or case law discussing the legislative and regulatory reasons for the single agency and nondelegation rules." The matters in item 3 which appellant requests the Court to take judicial notice of provide the history of the single state agency provisions of federal Medicaid law, 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10. This history fully supports appellant's position that the single state agency provisions do not prohibit DHS from delegating Medi-Cal auditing authority to the State Controller.

The matters in item 4 which appellant requests the Court to take judicial notice of are noticeable matters in federal district court cases which have been deemed "related" to the Health Line case cited in Doctor's I, some of which have been cited in the trial court. The central issue in these cases is the same as the central issue before this Court: whether the single state agency requirements of federal Medicaid law, 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. §431.10, prohibit DHS from delegating to the State Controller the authority to conduct Medi-Cal audits on its behalf. Three of these cases, San Lazaro Association, Inc., dba Biomedical Laboratory, v. Kathleen Connell, Controller of the State of California Case Nos. 00-55-65 and 00-55610 (U.S.D.C. Case No. CV-98-06216 RJK), Clinical Care Laboratory, Inc. v. Kathleen Connell, Controller of the State of California, et al. Case No. 00-55963 (U.S.D.C., Central District of California, Case No. CV-98-8425-RJK), and Khachik Simonyan and Oganes Nagapetyan v. Kathleen Connell, etc., et al. Case No. 00-55377 (U.S.D.C. Case No. CV-99-02420 RJK) are now pending before the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and have been consolidated on appeal.

The Amicus Brief for the United States Department of Health and Human Services, in Support of Defendants-Appellants, and in Favor of Reversal of the Judgments Below, item 5 which appellant requests the Court to take judicial notice of, has been filed on behalf of DHS and the State Controller in the consolidated cases pending before the Ninth Circuit. The Amicus Brief asserts that (1) Medicaid providers are not the intended beneficiaries of the single state agency requirement and, therefore, have no right enforceable through 42 U.S.C. §1983 to compel a state's compliance with that requirement; and (2) Medicaid regulations, and specifically 42 C.F.R. §431.10, permit the designated State Medicaid agency to select another state agency to conduct audits of Medicaid providers.

The Health Care Financing Administration ("HCFA") is the agency within the federal Department of Health and Human Services designated by Congress to administer the Medicaid program at the federal level. (AMISUB (PSL) v. State of Colo. DSS (10th Cir. 1989) 879 F.2d 789, 794) The United States Supreme Court has "long recognized that considerable weight should be accorded to an executive department's construction of a statutory scheme it is entrusted to administer." (Chevron, U.S.A., Inc. v. Natural Resources Defenses (1984) 467 U.S. 837, 842-845.) "When the construction of an administrative regulation rather than a statute is in issue, deference is even more clearly in order." (Udall v. Tallman, (1965) 380 U.S. 1, 16-17.) HCFA's interpretation of its own implementing regulation, 42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e), as allowing the State Controller to audit Medi-Cal claims on behalf of DHS is consistent with 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(5) and 42 C.F.R. § 431.10(e) and is entitled to great deference. (See Chevron, U.S.A., Inc. v. Natural Resources Defense Council, (1984) 467 U.S. 837, 842-845; Udall v. Tallman, (1965) 380 U.S. 1, 16-17; Montana Power Co. v. Environmental Protection Agency, (9th Cir. 1979) 608 F.2d 334, 344-345.)

The matters contained in item 6 are DHS regulations regarding Medi-Cal provider audit appeals.

The matters contained in item 7 are federal regulations regarding State Plans and withholds of Medi-Cal payments to providers by the single state agency based on evidence of fraud or willful misrepresentation. In addition, the document contained in item 8 is the 1997 Interagency Agreement between the Department of Health Services and the State Controller's Office, which was the discussed in Doctor's.

The issue before the Court is one of great importance to California, as well as to other states. In order that the Court have a full and complete record upon which to base its decision and to promote the interests of justice, appellant Director of the California Department of Health Services respectfully asks the Court to take judicial notice of the requested matters.

NATURE OF PROCEEDINGS:

HEARING ON PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE

Matter comes on for hearing and is argued.

Petition for Writ of Mandate is granted part.

Petitioner is not correct in its contention that the Controller has no right to audit petitioner's claims. There is no state or federal law that prohibits the Controller from doing so. The fact that an audit is performed by another state agency does not prohibit the Controller from further checking to see whether that agency is adequately performing its duties.

The issue in this case is NOT whether the Controller can lawfully audit petitioner's claims, but rather whether the Controller can lawfully withhold payment from petitioner for as long as she chooses to take to complete such an audit.

Controller's argument that such a right to withhold is created by Government Code Section 925.6(a) is also incorrect. The "claim" referred to in Section 925.6(a) is obviously a claim that is presented to the CONTROLLER under Government Code Section 925.4. Petitioner's claims are not presented to the Controller, but to a different state agency which reviews them and, if approved, forwards them to the controller for payment.

If the Controller has a right to withhold, it must be because the penalty for late payment under Government Code Section 926.15(a) and interest under Government Code Section 926.19(c) are the exclusive remedies available to petitioner. Neither statute says that the remedy provided for therein is exclusive, and no reason is advanced by the Controller to impute any such intent to the legislature.

When a state agency authorized to do so approves a claim and forwards it to the Controller for payment, the Controller has a ministerial duty to pay the claim within a reasonable time after she receives it. What constitutes a reasonable time in this case is defined by the legistature in Government Code Section 926.15(a): 30 days after receipt of the claim by the Controller from the approving agency. The Controller has that length of time to determine the amount due and pay it.

Let a writ issue directing the Controller to pay the amounts that she finds due to petitioner within 30 days after receipt of an approved claim from the Department of Health Services. The Controller may deduct from any such payment any part of such claim she finds to be incorrect plus any amount she determines petitioner has been overpaid on prior claims.

DOCTOR'S MEDICAL SERVICES, INC. Plaintiff, vs. KATHLEEN CONNELL, CONTROLLER OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA Defendant.	Case No. BC181780 JUDGMENT DENYING INJUNCTIVE RELIEF AND GRANTING IN PART AND DENYING IN PART MANDATE RELIEF

The motion of plaintiff, Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. ("Doctor's"), for mandate relief came on regularly for hearing on January 12, 1998, before the Honorable David Yaffee, Judge Presiding, Department 86 of the Superior Court for the County of Los Angeles. Doctor's was represented by Patric Hooper of Hooper, Lundy & Bookman, Inc., and Defendant Kathleen Connell, Controller of the State of California ("Controller"), was represented by Christopher C. Foley. In addition to addressing and resolving the request for mandate relief, the January 12, 1998 hearing and this judgment are intended by the parties and the Court also to resolve any and all other issues raised by Doctor's first amended complaint so that the judgment is considered the final judgment in this proceeding.

The Court having considered the verified complaint, the verified first amended complaint, and exhibits thereto, the answer of the Controller, and the respective parties' memoranda of points and authorities, including exhibits and declarations, and oral argument of counsel, and the Court having issued its tentative decision, hereby orders, adjudges and decrees as follows:

1. Doctor's request for injunctive relief prohibiting the Controller from auditing or reviewing the Medi-Cal claims submitted to, and approved for payment by, the Medi-Cal fiscal intermediary and continuing to withhold the sums at issue is denied;

2. Doctor's request for mandate relief is granted to the extent that the Controller must determine the amount due for any of the Medi-Cal claims submitted by Doctor's, including those previously approved for payment by the Department of Health Services (DH).

3. If the Controller does not issue such determination within thirty days after receipt of a claim approved by the D.H. all claims which have been submitted for payment more than thirty days from the date of this judgment shall be immediately payable and must be released immediately to Doctor's;

4. Except to the extent set forth above, Doctor's request for mandate relief is denied;

5. Doctor's shall be awarded costs in the sum of $_____,

A State plan for medical assistance must:

1. Provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency with authority to administer or supervise the administration of the plan.
2. Include a certification by the attorney general of the State identifying the single State agency and citing the legal authority under which such agency administers, or supervises the administration of, the plan on a State-wide basis including the authority to make rules and regulations governing the administration of the plan by such agency or rules and regulations that are binding on the political subdivisions, if the plan is administered by them.
3. In the event the designated single State agency is other than the State agency administering or supervising the State plan approved under title I or XVI (insofar as it relates to the aged), provide:
   a. That determination of eligibility for medical assistance under the plan will be made by the State or local agency administering such title I or XVI plan in accordance with standards, rules, regulations, and policies established by the single State agency administering or supervising the medical assistance program, and
   b. That there is a written agreement between the two State agencies, showing the relationships and respective responsibilities of the two agencies.

D-2130. Criteria for the Administration of the Plan

1. There are no State statutes, executive orders, local ordinances, or operations that impair the authority of the designated single State agency.

2. In relationships with other departments of State government, the single State agency interprets its role in such a way that it does not delegate to other than its own officials its requisite ultimate authority for exercising administrative judgment in the State-wide administration of supervision of the plan.

3. In the event that any rules and regulations or decisions of the single State agency are subject to review, clearance, or other action by the offices or agencies of the State government, the requisite authority of the single State agency is not impaired.

4. In the event that any services are performed for the single State agency by other State or local agencies or offices, such other agencies or offices are not authorized to, and do not, change, disapprove, or delay action on any administrative decision of the single State agency, or otherwise substitute their judgment for that of the agency as to the application of policies, rules, and regulations promulgated by the State agency.

5. Any agreements with other public agencies or private organizations to act as the single State agency's agent include provisions for the single State agency obtaining from the agent the data needed for program planning, evaluation, reporting, and accounting purposes and do not in any way impair the ultimate authority of the single State agency.

6. If the single State agency is other than the one responsible for the State plan for the aged under title I or XVI, the written agreement between the two agencies indicates how the two agencies will work together in meeting all pertinent requirements, including the following specific subjects: determination of eligibility, provision of social services, fair hearings, nondiscrimination, staffing, training, maintenance of records, submittal of reports, exchange of information, and review of operations.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE:

as the State fiscal officer and the State civil service agency, may perform services for the single State agency that are essential to the operation of the plan. Another agency or authority of government in the State, however, may not be authorized in the plan, or permitted in practice, to substitute its judgment for that of the "single State agency" in administrative decisions involving the application of the policies, rules, and regulations promulgated by the State agency. Similarly, if local agencies administer the plan, the "single State agency" must see that the authority of such agencies to make administrative decisions under the medical assistance law is not impaired by the action of other agencies or officials of State or local governments.

The State agency is also subject to judicial procedures but they must be such that the functions of the "single State agency" as the administrative body, are not impaired. The finding of facts regarding the extent of medical assistance needed, for example, is an administrative function. The courts may properly hold that the State agency has incorrectly applied the law to the facts, or that its findings are arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, or are based on insufficient evidence. However, the determination of pertinent facts is a function of the administrative agency and when the evidence is not complete, the State agency is responsible for developing additional evidence and further findings. In such situations, the case is returned to the State agency through a remand by the court.

The "single State agency" is responsible for any services that are performed by other agencies in the program under the plan. This does not mean that the State agency takes over or directs such services. The agency, however, must take such steps as may be necessary in the State to assure that the services, as performed in the medical assistance program, meet the Federal requirements.

The provision does not prevent a State from setting up its own administrative organization to include such programs within one State department as the State feels desirable. The State may designate the same agency as the "single State agency" for more than one of the State plans and authorize that agency to administer other State and Federal-State programs.

In the interests of efficiency and better services to recipients, the "single State agency" may make arrangements with other State agencies or private organizations to act as its agent (a) in providing medical care and services under the State plan, (b) in making agreements with suppliers, and (c) in making arrangements as to payments of suppliers. In such case, the "single State agency" must be able to obtain from the agent the data needed for program planning, evaluation, reporting and accounting purposes. Also, the "single State agency" must be in a position to take such steps as necessary to assure that operations under such arrangements meet Federal requirements.

The State agency has continuing responsibility for the quantity, quality, utilization, and payment for services provided to recipients whether the agency makes arrangements directly with the vendors or uses an agent to make these arrangements. This responsibility may not be abrogated or delegated to others.

The law permits a State agency other than the one responsible for the plan for the aged under title I or XVI, such as a health agency, to be designated the single State agency. The single State agency (if it is other than such title I or XVI agency) has a limitation on its areas of authority for operation of the plan. There must be appropriate arrangements with the State or local agency administering title I or XVI (insofar as it relates to the aged) for that agency to carry out the function of eligibility determination. Such State or local agency will be administering and applying the eligibility standards of the single State agency administering title XIX and will be carrying out day to day operations of these provisions of the plan. It is necessary that the two State agencies reach an understanding of their distinctive responsibilities and work cooperatively on proper and efficient operation of the State's plan for providing medical assistance to needy individuals.

RCJ MEDICAL SERVICES, INC. Respondent, v. THE DIRECTOR OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH SERVICES, Appellant.	Case No. B143160

TO THE HONORABLE RONALD GEORGE, CHIEF JUSTICE, AND TO THE HONORABLE ASSOCIATE JUSTICES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF CALIFORNIA:

Respondent, RCJ Medical Services, Inc. ("RCJ"), respectfully petitions this Court for review of the decision of the Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, Division 5, (Per Turner, P.J.) filed on August 23, 2001, reversing the judgment of the superior court. Review is necessary to secure uniformity of decision and to settle important questions of law.

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

The two questions of law presented by this petition are:

6. Whether the controlling federal Medicaid regulation, 42 C.F.R. Section 431.10(e), permits the State Department of Health Services ("State DHS"), the single state Medicaid agency in California, to delegate to the State Controller the authority to perform audits of providers of Medi-Cal services; and

7. Whether the federal government's December 17, 1999, approval of State DHS' Medicaid State Plan Amendment specifying that State DHS has delegated audit authority to the State Controller is applicable to the Medi-Cal audit at issue in this case since the State Controller commenced and completed the audit prior to July 1, 1998, the effective date of the federal approval.

B. UNDER THE CONTROLLING FEDERAL MEDICAID LAWS, STATE DHS MAY NOT RELY ON THE AUDIT FINDINGS OF THE STATE CONTROLLER IN THIS CASE BECAUSE THE STATE CONTROLLER'S AUDITS PREDATED THE JULY 1, 1998, EFFECTIVE DATE OF THE STATE PLAN AMENDMENT AUTHORIZING THE STATE CONTROLLER TO PERFORM MEDI-CAL AUDITS

In the California state Medicaid Plan submitted to HCFA in 1993, State DHS was identified as the single state Medicaid agency for all purposes, including conducting postpayment audits and reviews of the providers. See 91 Cal.App.4th at 999. While State DHS and the State Controller had entered into a state agreement in 1997 purporting to authorize the State Controller to perform Medi-Cal audits on behalf of State DHS, the State Medicaid Plan was not amended to specify that the State Controller would be conducting Medi-Cal audits until December 17, 1999. As discussed above, at that time State DHS specifically included a new provision in the State Plan specifying for the first time that the State Controller conducted audits on behalf of State DHS. State DHS requested that the State Plan Amendment be made effective July 1, 1998, and HCFA did, in fact, approve the Plan on December 17, 1999, making it effective retroactively as of July 1, 1998, which postdates the State Controller's audits of RCJ in this case.

As this Court is aware, a Medicaid State Plan must contain various provisions required by the controlling federal Medicaid laws and regulations. See 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(1)-(65) and 42 C.F.R. §§431.1 et seq. [1999]. As the Court also knows, these federal State Plan requirements are supreme to state law requirements regarding the administration of the Medicaid program. Doctor's Medical Laboratory, Inc. v. Connell, 69 Cal.App.4th 893-894.

When the single state Medicaid agency, here State DHS, decides to delegate authority to other state or local agencies, such as authority for establishing and maintaining health and other standards for providers, these interagency relationships must be described in the State Medicaid Plan. For example, see 42 C.F.R. §431.610(b) and (c) [1999], requiring a state Medicaid Plan to designate the state authority responsible for establishing and maintaining health standards for providers. In addition to requiring each state Medicaid plan to describe the single state Medicaid agency's relations with other state and local agencies, the State Medicaid Plan must also describe the organization and functions of the single state Medicaid agency, itself, and its personnel and supporting staff. See 42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(22) and 42 C.F.R. §431.11(c) [1999].[2/]

Importantly, when there are material changes in the organization or policy of the state Medicaid agency, a state plan amendment must be submitted by the single state agency and approved by HCFA. See 42 C.F.R. §430.12(c)(22) and 42 C.F.R. §431.11(c) [1999]. When plan amendments do not affect Medicaid eligibility or payment methods or standards, the plan amendments may become effective on the date requested by the single state Medicaid agency so long as HCFA approves the plan amendment. See 42 C.F.R. §430.20(b)(3) [1999]. As indicated above, the State Plan Amendment at issue became effective July 1, 1998, several months after the Controller completed her audits of RCJ.

The courts have consistently prohibited actions by Medicaid state agencies which are unauthorized by the state's then-existing Medicaid plan. See, for example, Exeter Memorial Hospital Ass'n v. Belshe, 943 F.Supp. 1239, 1240 (E.D. Cal. 1996), Affirmed, 145 F.3d 1106, 1109 (9th Cir. 1998) [the Court prohibits State DHS' action from being implemented prior to the effective date of a state plan amendment], and Oregon Association of Homes v. State Department of Human Resources, 5 F.3d 1239 (9th Cir. 1993) [state Medicaid policy invalid because it was not submitted as a plan amendment to the federal government]. See also, Washington State Health Facilities v. DSHS, 879 F.2d 677 (9th Cir. 1989).[3/]

2. The relevant provisions of the governing federal Medicaid regulations are attached hereto as Exhibit A..

3. Copies of these federal authorities are attached as Exhibit B.

In addition to these federal court cases, the California Corut of Appeal has also recognized the importance of state plan amendments. For example, in Bingham v. Obledo (1983), 147 Cal.App.3d 401, the California Court of Appeal expressly invalidated State DHS' Medi-Cal practice regarding coverage of patient transportation services because it was not included in the State Medicaid Plan, as it then existed.

In this case, State DHS has relied on and upheld the findings of the State Controller even though the State Controller's audits of RCJ predated the State Plan Amendment permitting the State Controller for the first time to perform Medi-Cal audits on behalf of State DHS. In fact, at the time the State Controller performed the audits at issue, the State Medicaid Plan specified that only State DHS could perform Medi-Cal audits. Thus, the State Controller's audit findings must be deemed to be void and invalid because they were not authorized by the provisions of the State Plan then in effect.

Contrary to the assertion of State DHS (Respondent's March 8, 2002 Reply, pp. 5-6), the Court of Appeal did not address the issue of the impact of the pre-July 1, 1998, State Plan on the audit authority of the State Controller in its August 23, 2001, decision. While emphasizing the importance of HCFA's approval of the December 17, 1999, Plan Amendment on the Court's interpretation of the single state agency requirement, the Court did not address the consequences of the Plan Amendment's effective date of July 1, 1998, on the pre-July 1, 1998, audit findings in this case.[4/] As a result, the Court of Appeal's decision of August 23, 2001, cannot be considered to be the "law of the case" regarding the very important and distinct issue of whether the 1999 Plan Amendment permits an audit by the Controller prior to July 1, 1998. This is especially true because the effective date issue presents a separate question of federal law. (See Witkin, California Procedure, Appeal, Section 896 (4th Ed., 1997).

4. The Court only analyzed the issue of the effect of the Plan Amendment in the context of the deference question. 91 Cal.App.4th at 1004.

SECOND APPELLATE DISTRICT
DIVISION FIVE

DOCTOR'S MEDICAL SERVICES, INC., Plaintiff, Respondent and Cross-Appellant, vs. THE DIRECTOR OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH SERVICES, Defendant, Appellant., and Cross-Respondent.	Case No. B142529 (Super. Ct. No. BS060054)

APPEAL from a judgment of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, David P. Yaffe, Judge. Reversed.

Bill Lockyer, Attorney General, Charlton G. Holland, III, Senior Assistant Attorney General, John H. Sanders, Lead Supervising Deputy Attorney General, Tammy Chung Ryu, Supervising Deputy Attorney General, and Sandra L. Goldsmith, Deputy Attorney General, for Plaintiff, Respondent, and Cross-Appellant.

Hooper, Lundy & Bookman, Inc. and Patric Hooper for Defendant, Appellant, and Cross-Respondent.

The present appeal involves a dispute between Doctor's Laboratory, Inc., a Medicaid provider, and the Director of the State Department of Health Services (the director) over the legality of an audit conducted by the State Controller given the single state agency requirement of title 42 United States Code section 1369a(a)(5). All of the issues posited by the parties concerning the single state agency requirement are conclusively resolved by our opinion in RCJ Medical Services, Inc. v. Bontá (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 986, 992-1015, a decision where review was denied by the California Supreme Court on December 12, 2001. In RCJ Medical Services, we upheld an audit by the State Controller as was performed here. We reiterate our analysis in RCJ Medical Services in this case and reverse the trial court's order setting aside the audit findings of the State Controller premised on the single state agency requirement of title 42 United States Code section 1369a(a)(5). Accordingly, on direct appeal, the judgment, which disapproved the audit, is reversed.

The provider has cross-appealed contending it is entitled to attorney fees pursuant to 42 United States Code section 1988 because it succeeded in the trial court in vacating the audit findings. However, we have reversed the order vacating the audit findings which now renders the provider's attorney fee claim to be meritless.

The April 28, 2000, judgment granting the mandate petition is reversed. The Director of the State Department of Health Services is to recover her costs incurred on appeal from Doctor's Laboratory, Inc.

28 U.S.C. §1257. State courts; certiorari

(a) Final judgments or decrees rendered by the highest court of a State in which a decision could be had, may be reviewed by the Supreme Court by writ of certiorari where the validity of a treaty or statute of the United States is drawn in question or where the validity of a statute of any State is drawn in question on the ground of its being repugnant to the Constitution, treaties, or laws of the United States, or where any title, right, privilege, or immunity is specially set up or claimed under the Constitution or the treaties or statutes of, or any commission held or authority exercised under, the United States.

42 U.S.C. §1396a(a)(42). State plans for medical assistance.

provide that the records of any entity participating in the plan and providing services reimbursable on a cost-related basis will be audited as the Secretary determines to be necessary to insure that proper payments are made under the plan;

42 C.F.R. §430.0 Program description.

Title XIX of the Social Security Act, enacted in 1965, authorizes Federal grants to States for medical assistance to low-income persons who are age 65 or over, blind, disabled, or members of families with dependent children or qualified pregnant women or children. The program is jointly financed by the Federal and State governments and administered by States. Within broad Federal rules, each State decides eligible groups, types and range of services, and administrative and operating procedures. Payments for services are made directly by the State to the individuals or entities that furnish the services.

42 C.F.R. §430.1 Scope of subchapter C.

The regulations in subchapter C set forth State plan requirements, standards, procedures, and conditions for obtaining Federal financial participation. (F.F.P.) Each part (or subpart of section) in the subchapter describes the specific statutory basis for the regulation. However, where the basis is the Secretary's general authority to issue regulations for any program under the Act (section 1102 of the Act), or his general authority to prescribe State plan requirements needed for proper and efficient administration of the plan (section 1902(a)(4)), those statutory provisions are simply cited without further description.

42 C.F.R. §431.107 Required provider agreement.

(a) Basis and purpose. This section sets forth State plan requirements, based on sections 1902(a)(4), 1902(a)(27), 1902(a)(57), and 1902(a)(58) of the Act, that relate to the keeping of records and the furnishing of information by all providers of services (including individual practitioners and groups of practitioners).

(b) Agreements. A State plan must provide for an agreement between the Medicaid agency and each provider or organization furnishing services under the plan in which the provider or organization agrees to:

(1) Keep any records necessary to disclose the extent of services the provider furnishes to recipients;

(2) On request, furnish to the Medicaid agency, the Secretary, or the State Medicaid fraud control unit (if such a unit has been approved by the Secretary under §455.300 of this chapter), any information maintained under paragraph (b)(1) of this section and any information regarding payments claimed by the provider for furnishing services under the plan;

(3) Comply with the disclosure requirements specified in part 455, sub-part B of this chapter; and

(4) Comply with the advance directives requirements for hospitals, nursing facilities, providers of home health care and personal care services, hospices, and HMO's specified in part 489, subpart I, and §417.436(d) of this chapter.

42 C.F.R. §431.108 Effective date of provider agreements.

(a) Applicability– (1) General rule. Except as provided in paragraph (a)(2) of this section applies to Medicaid provider agreements with entitles that, as a basis for participation in Medicaid–

(i) Are subject to survey and certification by HCFA or the State survey agency; or

(ii) Are deemed to meet Federal; requirements on the basis of accreditation by an accrediting organization whose program has HCFA approval at the time of accreditation survey and accreditation decision.

(2) Exception. A Medicaid provider agreement with a laboratory is effective only while the laboratory has in effect a valid CLIA certificate issued under part 493 of this chapter, and only for the specialty and subspecialty tests it is authorized to perform

(b) All requirements are met on the date of survey. The agreement is effective on the date the onsite survey (including the Life Safety Code survey if applicable) is completed, if on that date the provider meets–

(1) All applicable Federal requirements as set forth in this chapter; and

(2) Any other requirements imposed by the State for participation in the Medicaid program. (If the provider has a time-limited agreement, the new agreement is effective on the day following expiration of the current agreement.)

(c) All requirements are not met on the date of survey. If on the date the survey is completed the provider fails to meet any of the requirements specified in paragraph (b) of this section, the following rules apply:

(1) An NF provider agreement is effective on the date on which–

(i) The NF is found to be in substantial compliance as defined in §488.301 of this chapter; and

(ii) HCFA or the State survey agency receives from the NF, if applicable, an approval waiver request.

(2) For an agreement with any other provider, the effective date is the earlier of the following:

(i) The date on which the provider meets all requirements.

(ii) The date on which a provider is found to meet all conditions of participation but has lower level deficiencies, and HCFA or the State survey agency receives from the provider an acceptable plan of correction for the lower level deficiencies, or an approvable waiver request, or both. (The date of receipt is the effective date of the agreement, regardless of when HCFA approves the plan of correction or waiver request, or both.)

(d) Accredited provider requests participation in the Medicaid program–(1) General rule. If a provider is currently accredited by a national accrediting organization whose program had HCFA approval at the time of accreditation survey and accreditation decision, and on the basis of accreditation, HCFA has deemed the provider to meet Federal requirements, the effective date depends on whether the provider is subject to requirements in addition to those included in the accrediting organization's approved program.

(i) Provider subject to additional requirements. For a provider that is subject to additional requirements, Federal or State, or both, the effective date is the date on which t he provider meets all requirements, including the additional requirements.

(ii) Provider not subject to additional requirements. For a provider that is not subject to additional requirements, the effective date is the date of the provider's initial request for participation if on that

COCKLE LAW BRIEF PRINTING CO. (800) 225-6964
OR CALL COLLECT (402) 342-2831

A. INTRODUCTION

Pursuant to Rule 15.6, petitioner RCJ Medical Services, Inc. ("RCJ") must limit this Reply Brief to "new points raised in the brief in opposition." Thus, RCJ may not respond to the ad hominem arguments presented by the respondent, the Director of the California State Department of Health Services ("State DHS"), since State DHS has continuously made such ad hominem arguments throughout the lower court proceedings. However, State DHS has now raised new arguments relating to this Court's jurisdiction, which are discussed briefly below.[1]

B. JURISDICTION

According to State DHS, this Court lacks jurisdiction to review the decision of the State Court of Appeal for three reasons. Opposition Brief at 1-2. Each of those reasons must be rejected.

The first reason asserted by State DHS is that the State Court of Appeal's decision in this matter is not final. State DHS takes this position even though the State

[1] State DHS' argument that RCJ has failed to comply with Rule 14.1(f) of the Rules of this Court (Opposition Brief at 2-3) is typical of the baseless accusations that unfortunately have been a part of State DHS' strategy throughout these proceedings. Rule 14.1(f) gives a petitioner the right to quote the relevant statutes and regulations verbatim in the body of the text or to set forth the text of the statutes and regulations in an appendix. RCJ has chosen the latter process. However, RCJ also chose to explain the relevant statutes and regulations to the Court in the text of its Petition. Rule 14.1(f) does not prohibit such a practice.

Court of Appeal, itself, has stated in its December 28, 2001, remittitur (Appendix to Petition at p. 74) that its August 23, 2001 decision "has now become final."

State DHS points out that the state superior court has determined that the final judgment of the Court of Appeal leaves certain issues "at large." Thus, because those issues remaining "at large" continue to be pending before the state superior court, this Court arguably lacks jurisdiction over the federal questions raised in RCJ's Petition for Certiorari.[2]

However, regardless of whether proceedings remain before the state superior court, this Court has jurisdiction to resolve the primary issue – the issue of the authority of the single state Medicaid agency under federal Medicaid law to delegate audit authority to another state agency. Indeed, in Cox Broadcasting Corporation v. Cohn, 420 U.S. 478 (1975), this Court discussed in detail the question of whether this Court had jurisdiction over a federal issue presented in a particular case where there are further proceedings to come in the lower state courts. The Court pointed out that there are at least four categories of cases in which the Court has treated the decision on the federal issue as a final judgment for purposes of 28 U.S.C. § 1257 without awaiting the completion of the additional state court proceedings. Id. at 477-486. The second category of cases discussed by the Court includes those which the federal issue will survive and require decision regardless of the outcome of future state court proceedings. Here, both questions presented in the Petition will ultimately have to be resolved by this Court since both involve important federal questions. Thus, the fact that proceedings continue to be pending at the state superior court level does not deprive this Court of the jurisdiction to resolve the important federal questions presented by the Petition.

[2] State DHS conveniently fails to point out that in the state superior court proceedings, it has insisted (and has argued that the state superior court has agreed) that only a state law issue remains at large.

The second reason asserted by State DHS as a basis for arguing that this Court lacks jurisdiction over the questions raised in the Petition is that the federal questions were not "properly raised and necessarily decided in the State Court proceedings." State DHS' Opposition Brief at p. 2. Both issues presented for review here were timely raised and discussed by the Court of Appeal. For example, virtually the entire State Court of Appeal decision involves a discussion of the first question presented for review. The Court of Appeal also addressed the second issue but did so in a manner that was inconsistent with the requirements of the controlling federal Medicaid laws and regulations prohibiting State Medicaid Plan Amendments from being applied by single state Medicaid agencies prior to their effective date. See Appendix to Petition, p 23. Moreover, RCJ specifically requested the Court of Appeal to rehear the case and reconsider its decision based on the argument concerning the effective date of the State Plan Amendment. The State Court of Appeal summarily rejected the Petition.

The third reason why State DHS is arguing that the Court lacks jurisdiction is because RCJ purportedly has no private right to enforce the provisions of the governing federal Medicaid statutes and regulations. Therefore,

State DHS leaps to the conclusion that RCJ has no title, right, privilege or immunity protected under the federal laws. State DHS' Opposition Brief, p. 2. State DHS fails to point out, however, that the State Court of Appeal specifically held in this very case that RCJ has the right under state law to pursue an action in state court to enforce the governing provisions of the federal Medicaid statute and regulations. See Appendix to Petition, pp. 20-21.

In any event, 28 U.S.C. § 1257(a) does not limit this Court's jurisdiction to review state court decisions only to those situations in which a party claims a title, right, privilege or immunity under the federal constitution or federal laws. Section 1257(a) also permits the Court to review the decision of a state court where the validity of a statute of any state is drawn in question on the ground of its being repugnant to the federal Constitution or federal laws. Indeed recently in Wisconsin Dept. of Health & Family v. Blumer, ___ U.S. ___, 122 S.Ct. 962 (2002), this Court asserted jurisdiction over the final decision of a state court of appeal because the case involved the issue of whether a state statute was consistent with the federal Medicaid statutes and regulations.

Here, the State Controller audited RCJ's Medicaid claims pursuant to state laws and a state interagency agreement. See Opposition Brief, p. 7. This Court has jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1257(a) to determine whether reliance on the state laws and state interagency agreement was consistent with the governing federal Medicaid laws and regulations in this case.

C. CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing, the Court is respectfully requested to reject the challenges to its jurisdiction asserted by State DHS in this case.
